Government To Change Income Tax Procedures

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is working on two major changes in federal income tax procedures. If both innovations are adopted, millions of people will be affected and many will pay less taxes.

One change is definitely in the works. The Internal Revenue Service will announce shortly a new tax form to be used by certain taxpayers who itemize their medical deductions. This form will be used by those 65 or older or who support parents in that age group.

The new form stems from a 1960 law which, for the first time, allows bigger deductions for those who pay the medical bills of dependent parents.

The second change still is under consideration. Revenue people are debating whether to issue special tables telling how much may reasonably be deducted on federal tax returns for paying state sales taxes.

This is a problem that has long troubled many taxpayers who itemize deductions but don't keep accurate records of sales tax payments. They often underestimate their payments and in such cases, would lessen their taxes by following the proposed tables.

If the idea is adopted, tables will be issued for each of the 34 states, plus the District of Columbia, which levy sales taxes. The tables would list varying amounts arranged according to different income groups and family sizes. They could not be used to estimate local sales taxes which also are deductible on federal returns.

The new medical deduction form —No. 2948—will cover both sides of a single sheet. Those using this form will file it in addition to their regular tax return. It will cover only medical items.

The IRS is printing five million copies of the new form and will distribute them to all its field offices by Dec. 20.

Most taxpayers may deduct only those medical expenses which exceed 3 per cent of their adjusted gross income. However, in a case where either husband or wife is 65 or older, the 3 per cent rule is waived for both.

The new law also waives the rule for that portion of a taxpayer's medical expenses which are attributable to a dependent parent 65 or older. The 3 per cent rule still applies to the expenses of the taxpayer himself if he is under 65.

Copies of the proposed sales tax tables have been distributed to district offices. District directors have until the end of next week to file comments or objections. Revenue officials said these comments will largely determine whether the tables are adopted.

Jointure Seeks Extension Of Time To Meet Orders

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — The State Industrial Board yesterday scheduled a hearing Dec. 14 at its offices here on a petition of Pocono Mountain Joint School Board for an extension of time to comply with orders of the State Department of Labor and Industry to meet fire hazard regulations in seven of the district's schools.

Schools against which the department issued orders for changes to eliminate fire hazards are Mount Pocono elementary school at Mount Pocono, Paradise Township elementary school at Swiftwater, Jackson Township elementary school at Reeders and the combination high and elementary schools of Tobyhanna Township at Pocono Pines, Barrett Township at Cresco, Coolbaugh Township at Tobyhanna and Pocono Township at Tannersville.

The joint school board petitioned for an extension of time to meet department orders on all the schools to the scheduled completion of a school construction program when a change in occupancy of district schools will be made.

In the board's petition, submitted by its secretary David E. Nelson, the state board was advised that it is expected that the new junior-senior high school will be ready for occupancy in September, 1961.

It was pointed out that with the opening of the new high school, plans of the local school board call for the closing of the three elementary school buildings which orders have been issued to eliminate fire hazards.

The state board was also informed that at that time work will be started on converting all the combination high-elementary school buildings into elementary centers and that in the process of making the conversion, fire hazards listed for correction by the Department of Labor and Industry would be eliminated.

Included in the orders issued by the department were requirements to install emergency lighting systems in most of the school buildings and to fire proof basement ceilings in two cases. Orders also provided for fireproofing internal stairs.

The local school board advised the state board that it has purchased lighting systems and has arranged for their installation.

Police Escort Baby To Philly Hospital

STATE POLICE of three area sub-stations combined yesterday to provide a fast escort for a Milford boy being taken to Philadelphia's Children's Hospital.

Troopers from Stroudsburg, Milford and Lehighton cooperated on the escort from Milford to the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Another detail took over there.

The boy was identified by a neighbor as David Selnick, approximately two months old. The hospital last night declined to give any information on his illness or condition, except to say that he is alive.

State Police at Milford said the escort was requested by a John Selnick, of Milford, apparently a relative of the sick child.

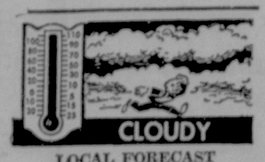

The convoy—a State Police car and an automobile carrying the boy—passed through Stroudsburg about 2:30 p.m.

Judge Bodie Plans To Retire

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP)—Judge Clarence E. Bodie, 68, announced Thursday he will retire from the Wayne County Court bench at the end of his present court term Jan. 1, 1962.

Bodie, a director of the American Automobile Association, is serving his second 10-year term as judge.

Manufacturers Change Pleas

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The federal government Thursday wrapped up one of its biggest criminal antitrust cases as America's largest electrical manufacturers, accused of price-fixing and bid-rigging, changed innocent pleas to guilty of some charges and no defense to others.

The indictments, initiated last February, involved annual sales of heavy electrical equipment—mainly to local, state and federal agencies and public utilities—of about $2 billion.

Only one individual defendant pleaded innocent. Charges against another were dropped.

Bold New Venture

Defend Sunday Closing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of three states told the Supreme Court Thursday there is nothing unconstitutional about laws which prohibit or restrict commercial activities on Sunday.

Spokesmen for Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Maryland all denied that their Sunday closing or Blue Laws are aimed at enforcing a mandatory day of worship.

The court's decision on the validity of the Sunday laws also will affect appeals pending from Ohio and South Carolina.

A three-judge federal court in Boston has struck down a Massachusetts Blue Law, and another in Philadelphia upheld a similar Pennsylvania law. Both conflicting rules were before the court Thursday.

Claim Hardships

Opponents of the laws generally contended during two days of debate before the high court that they create severe hardships for Orthodox Jews and others who observe a day other than Sunday as a Sabbath.

Theodore R. Mann, representing five Orthodox Jews who operate stores in Philadelphia, said a 1959 state statute forbidding Sunday sales of certain items operates in a ruinous manner against Jews who observe a Sabbath beginning at sunset on Friday.

In effect, Mann said, the laws give his clients "a choice of going out of business . . . or of giving up or substantially compromising their faiths."

Day Off Statute

David Berger, Philadelphia city solicitor, told the court the state law is nothing more than "a day off statute," enacted for social and economic reasons having nothing to do with religion.

Berger said it was passed to prevent fierce competition in Pennsylvania stores which would have ended in "everyone having to work seven days a week."

Similar attacks on laws of Maryland and Pennsylvania stem from activties of Two Guys from Harrison—Allentown, Inc., a discount firm operating in both states.

Temperatures Fall; Snow Does, Too

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A biting wind and some of the coldest temperatures of the season chilled Pennsylvanians Thursday as a cold wave moved across the state, touching off snow flurries and resulting in two deaths.

(The temperature dropped to 17 degrees in Stroudsburg early this morning and seemed headed for its lowest reading of the season. The cold wave moved in on the heels of two "snow showers," one yesterday morning and the other early last night).

A tractor-trailer jackknifed during a wet snowfall near Easton and crushed into a car, killing Sterling Campbell, 46, and his son, Clifford, 18, of Palmer Township, Northampton County.

Hazardous driving conditions were reported in other sections of the state due to the snow flurries that accompanied the cold air.

The front dumped two inches of snow on Kane, in northwestern Pennsylvania, and a steady snowfall was reported in Lansdale, in eastern Pennsylvania.

Fields and mountainsides in Fayette County were covered with a light layer of snow.

U.S. Retains Naval Base On Trinidad

CROWN POINT, Tobago (AP)—The United States will retain its naval base at Chaguaramas on the island of Trinidad for 17 years, it was agreed at talks ending here Thursday.

The base is one of those Britain leased to the United States in the deal that delivered 50 old U.S. destroyers to the British early in World War II. Renegotiation was brought on by the new autonomous status of the former British West Indies colonies.

Chaguaramas is the only active U.S. naval base in the south Caribbean.

Abandon Some Land

Under a new agreement covering Trinidad and Tobago, however, the United States will abandon some 21,000 acres leased under the 1941 U.S.-British treaty arranged by Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

A communique said the areas retained by the United States for 17 years would enable the U.S. naval station at Chaguaramas to carry out "important defense and electronic research missions."

The agreement followed talks in London last month that emphasized the right of the West Indies to form its own alliances on attaining independence and also its willingness to play its part in the defense of the Western Hemisphere.

The American ambassador to Britain, John Hay Whitney, came here for the negotiations.

Anti-Castro Insurgents Land In Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—Armed invaders were reported Thursday to have landed on Cuba's north coast near the town of Corralillo Tuesday and engaged government troops and militiamen in a furious battle.

There was no confirmation of the reports but anti-Castro sources insisted they were correct.

Earlier the government claimed it had destroyed a band of insurgents in a battle at Cabanas only 32 miles west of Havana. Corralillo is a few miles east of the Matanzas-Las Villa border to the east of Havana.

Rumors of fighting in the Corralillo area about 100 miles east of Havana have been current for the past two days. There was no indication of the strength of the reported invaders.

Troops

Some claimed to have seen truckloads of heavily armed government militiamen diverted toward Corralillo while en route to the Escambray Mountains in the southern Las Villas province.

Military authorities were still turning back civilians and foreigners trying to visit the hilly areas of Pinar Del Rio province where Castro forces reported they had cleaned up a pocket of resistance and captured a defecting Cuban army officer.

Other unconfirmed but widely heard reports said a bomb exploded Sunday in the control room of the expropriated Shell Oil Co. refinery, causing heavy damage.

The reports said the explosion put the control room out of operation, forcing refinery workers to resort to manual operations. The closely guarded refinery now is operated as part of the Castro regime's nationalized oil industry since its seizure along with other foreign refineries last summer.

The government manager at the refinery said only that the refinery is functioning and prepared to export gasoline.

Khrush Still Confined To Home By Flu

MOSCOW (AP) — Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet first deputy premier, told Western newsmen Thursday Premier Khrushchev is feeling better but remains confined to his home with influenza.

Khrushchev was well enough to have a bedside visit with Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, vice president of the United Arab Republic, who is touring the Soviet Union.

They discussed expansion of friendly relations and economic cooperation, the Tass news agency said.

Mikoyan chatted with newsmen at a reception at the Finnish Embassy. He gave no details of the premier's condition except to say he is getting along better.

Khrushchev lives outside central Moscow, in the Lenin Hills. He was unable to attend a reception Wednesday for the Chinese Communist delegation headed by Premier Liu Shao-chi.

Bomb In Car Kills Owner

NEW YORK (AP) — A young man walked to his car Thursday in a quiet residential section of Queens and stepped in under the wheel, settled back and turned on the ignition.

With a roar, a bomb that had been fixed under the floor shattered the white convertible, smashed the legs and mangled the body of the driver, Kenneth Feinberg, 26. He gasped, struggled for air, and in a few minutes slumped back dead.

Lost Soldier Found

Deer Hunter Missing

ONE of two hunters reported missing in the Monroe County woods last night, with temperatures below freezing, was found at 11 p.m. when he came out of the woods near where rescue squads were hunting him at Tobyhanna State Park.

SP-4 Donald Stankiewicz of the 510th Signal Co., stationed at Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot had been missing about eight hours when he wandered out of the woods after sighting the red flashing light on the Tobyhanna Township ambulance.

He was taken to the Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot dispensary for medical examination and a depot spokesman said he was cold but in good condition.

Stankiewicz had been hunting in Tobyhanna State Park off Route 490 when he became lost.

Still missing at a late hour was Lamar Davis, 1517 Valley Rd., Bethlehem. He had been hunting in the Brady's Lake region with a man identified by State Police of the Fern Ridge barracks as Merrill Bowden of Hellertown.

Bowman reported him missing when they failed to get together at dusk.

The Tobyhanna Signal Depot's rescue squad of 25 men, under command of Lt. James J. Fitzpatrick Jr., began their search for Stankiewicz at 10:15 p.m.

Stroud Firemen Called To Home

STROUD Township Fire Co. was called to the home of James Dailey near Pinebrook, just north of Stroudsburg, late last night to fight a chimney fire.

Firemen used soda and acid extinguishers to fight the fire.

A fire company spokesman said the damage was very light.

The men and the trucks returned to the fire house at 12:20 a.m. today.

Churches Call For Removal Of Denominational Barriers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An appeal to the churches to break through the walls of denominationalism was issued Thursday by the National Council of Churches. They were urged to work for "full unity, visible and invisible, of the people of God."

"A divided church cannot proclaim convincingly a gospel of reconciling love," declared a key message adopted by the council's triennial general assembly.

It called denominational barriers a sin, saying: "Not the churches' diversity but their separation from one another is the heart of this sinfulness."

The assembly, representing most of the nation's major Protestant and Orthodox churches, urged these steps in efforts to achieve full unity:

1. Further development of "corporate and common ministeries" serving all churches.

2. Recognition that interdenominational councils, on local or other levels, "partake of the nature of the church."

3. Acknowledgement by each denomination of "the authenticity of Christian discipleship in all the others" and a willingness to trust them in caring for human souls.

4. Action by all churches in each community to "live and act together as one church in one place."

"Every congregation needs to recognize itself first of all as a part of Christ's universal church and only thereafter as a representative of a particular historic tradition," the pronouncement said.

Action on it came just before the assembly elected as president J. Irwin Miller, a scholarly Indiana business man and a leading lay figure in the Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ).

He will be the first layman to hold the post. It is the highest office in American interdenominational affairs.

The message, the main pronouncement of the week-long assembly representing 33 denominations with 40 million members, applauded the growing ecumenical movement for Christian unity.

Monetary Fund Aids U. S. Cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Monetary Fund has sold the United States $300 million of gold, boosting the American bullion holding for the first time in many months.

The IMF said it made the transaction in order to obtain dollars to invest in short-term Treasury securities. It said it wanted to convert some of its gold into Treasury IOU's in order to earn interest on part of its reverses.

Since June 30, foreign nations have purchased about $1.4 billion of American gold which has given rise to some fears that a "run" on gold might develop. The foreign purchases cut the U. S. gold supply to $17,882,000,000 as of last Monday.

It's Marriage Or Divorce, Bride-To-Be Tells Durante

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of showbiz' longest engagements is due to end next week with the marriage of Mr. James Durante to Miss Margaret Little, formerly of Plainfield, N.J.

They have dated 15 years, been formally engaged the past four. They have several times set the wedding date, only to postpone it. This time, they say, it's for sure.

"I believe every couple should take time to learn each other's faults," the bridegroom philosophized. "And I got a million of 'em."

What finally impelled him toward the altar?

"I figure ya oughta get married when you're still young," replied the 67-year-old comedian.

His bride, 39, was more specific: "I told him we were either going to get married—or I was getting a divorce."

The romance of the long-time widower and the tangerine-haired former Miss New Jersey State Fair began 15 years ago when he was headlining the Copacabana in New York and she was manning the telephone switchboard.

She graduated from the switchboard to the chorus line and was imported to Hollywood by producer Joe Pasternak. By chance, or what ever means, she ended up in a movie starring Durante, "Two sisters from Boston."

"I wrote my family to watch for my one line and not to sneeze or they would miss me," she recalled. "They saw it four times and still couldn't find me. I had been cut out and Jimmy was afraid to tell me."

Her career ended, but the romance continued. Her recent conversion to Durante's faith, Catholicism, helped hasten a decision. They expect to be married Dec. 14 at St. Malachy's, the actor's church, on 49th St. in New York City.

Dean Rusk

Truman Aide Considered For Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — President - elect John F. Kennedy Thursday asked Adlai E. Stevenson to serve as ambassador to the United Nations. Stevenson said he would consider it.

Kennedy met with Stevenson after conferring at his Georgetown home with Dean Rusk, who has been described as a leading contender for the top Cabinet post of secretary of state.

Rusk declined to tell newsmen whether he and Kennedy had discussed a possible role for him in the new administration. They were together about 45 minutes. Rusk said the talk dealt with foreign affairs generally and especially "organization of the government to carry out our foreign policy."

Heads Foundation

Rusk, a 51-year-old Democrat who served as assistant secretary of state in the Truman administration, is now head of the Rockefeller Foundation with headquarters in New York.

Kennedy's announcement that he was offering the U.N. role to Stevenson ended speculation about the 1952-56 Democratic standard-bearer.

Kennedy still has seven regular Cabinet posts to fill. He has so far named Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina to be secretary of commerce, Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut to be secretary of health, education and welfare and Rep. Stewart L. Udall of Arizona to be secretary of the interior.

Much speculation now centers on the posts of secretary of the treasury, secretary of defense and attorney general.

White Weighs Offer

One of those mentioned for attorney general, or for solicitor general, attorney Byron (Whizzer) White of Denver, was a Kennedy caller Thursday. He said Kennedy offered him a job—he didn't say what job—and said he was thinking it over.

Robert F. Kennedy, the president-elect's brother and campaign manager, remains in the attorney general picture.

Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. was reported to have been asked by a group of foreign students about reports that Kennedy might retain him, even though he is a Republican.

Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state in the Eisenhower administration, and Robert S. McNamara, president of the Ford Motor Co., continue to be mentioned as possibilities for secretary of the treasury.

Adlai Considering

Stevenson withheld a public decision, saying he wanted to talk it over further. He emphasized, however, that "I have tried to make it clear that I want to help."

Kennedy called the assignment one of the three or four most important jobs in the administration and said: "I can think of no man who would fill this post with greater distinction."

In one major announcement, Kennedy said he will ask Congress to create a Cabinet Department of Urban Affairs, to handle problems peculiar to city dwellers.

Stevenson, former governor of Illinois, got a rousing cheer from a group of Georgetown University students and others when he arrived at the Kennedy home.

After the conference Stevenson told newsmen he had not sought the U.N. assignment, and one of the things he wanted to consider was a strengthening of the U.S. mission.

Kennedy said the mission must be expanded and strengthened, adding, "Our ambassador to the United Nations must play a greater role in making policy as well as expressing it."

Next Week

When Stevenson said he did not know how long it would take to reach a decision, Kennedy broke in to say that he hopes everything will be settled by the middle of next week.

The post of ambassador to the U.N. is now held by James J. Wadsworth, who took over when Henry Cabot Lodge resigned last August to run for Vice President on the Republican ticket.

Alleghenian To Lead GOP

HARISBURG (AP) — A young Allegheny County representative —showing surprising strength — was elected yesterday as the leader of the 100-member House Republican delegation for the 1961 session.

Rep. Willard Agnew of Aspinwall, defeated 1960 leader Rep. Albert W. Johnson, McKean, by a vote of 56-35 and immediately promised vigorous leadership.

"We will have a positive legislative program that we will fight for with everything a vigorous minority can command," said the four-term Allegheny County legislator who will be 36 on Dec. 30.

Agnew, an attorney, was elected over the veteran McKean County lawmaker on a secret ballot during a three-hour closed-door session of the House Republicans.

Johnson, 54, an unsuccessful candidate last year for Superior Court, has served two terms as assistant floor leader and three terms as the House GOP leader.

The GOP caucus re-elected Rep. Edwin W. Tompkins, Cameron, as assistant floor leader. Tompkins defeated Rep. Reginald P. Stimmel, Lehigh, by a vote of 47-43.

Other officers of the GOP House minority were given another term without opposition. The caucus re-elected Reps. Norman Wood, Lancaster, as caucus chairman; Marian E. Markley, Lehigh, as caucus secretary, and W. Stuart Helm, as chairman of the GOP Policy Committee.

Helm, a former House speaker, also is expected to oppose 1960 Speaker H. G. Andrews, D-Cambria, in the opening day election for presiding officer.

Members of the Republican caucus who declined to be quoted said Agnew was elected because he would "keep (Rep. Steven) McCann on his toes."

McCann, of Greene County, is floor leader of the Democratic majority.

Hunters' Death Toll Reaches 12

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 12 deer hunters have been reported killed since the start of the 12-day deer season last Monday. Seven of the deaths were caused by bullet wounds and the other five were attributed to over-exertion.

"It's running a little ahead of last year," said M. J. Golden, executive director of the State Game Commission. "I think we had five (shooting fatals) at this time last year."

Dec. 17 Last

The deer season runs through Saturday, Dec. 17, excluding Sunday. Does will be legal the last day of the regular buck season.

"It is so unpredictable I am unable to come up with a reason why" the fatality total should be higher, Golden said.

"We have done a lot of safety education work," he added, "but a thing like this develops and you wonder why."

Seven hunters were killed the first day, including four from shootings and three from heart attacks.

Bad Weather Causes Crash

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP)—A truck driver was injured Thursday in a skidding crash of his tractor-trailer and another truck on a snow-slick section of the Pennsylvania Turnpike near here.

Herbert Eugene Bunn, 32, of Lorain, Ohio, suffered multiple injuries, including a head injury. He was listed in fair condition at Providence Hospital here.

State police said Bunn was thrown from the cab of his truck when it crashed into another tractor-trailer that had skidded and jackknifed across both westbound lanes of the turnpike near the Sewickley Township Interchange.

The driver of the other truck, Charles Berkey, 33, of Johnstown, Pa., escaped injury.

State Democrats Spent $873,714

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Democratic State Finance Committee reported Thursday it spent $873,714 in the November election campaign.

In a report filed with the State Elections Bureau, the committee listed income at $941,649, leaving a balance of $67,935 unspent.

Major $1,000 contributors to the committee included Gov. Lawrence, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, Secretary of the Commonwealth John S. Rice, Gerald Flood, Thomas Z. Minehart and Grace Sloan. The latter three were successful candidates for statewide office.

The Democratic State Committee also filed its report, listing income of $231,959 and expenditures of $243,694, for a deficit of $11,735.

State Should Reconsider Proposed Plan For Detour

We fear the State Highways Department made a serious mistake, one that might easily have fatal consequences, when it established the detour for Route 611 traffic in South Stroudsburg.

The detour is scheduled to go into effect next Monday when work starts on the reconstruction of the southern half of the Seventh St. bridge over the new Stroudsburgs Thruway. It will continue in effect throughout the Winter.

As presently set up, the detour calls for northbound traffic to make a sharp right turn onto Broad St. at the foot of Foxtown Hill, a steep grade more than a half mile in length which is traversed heavily by both trucks and passenger cars.

The turn-off point is still on the grade. It is difficult to negotiate a heavy vehicle around the curve when the highway is dry. We shudder to think of the accidents that are certain to occur this Winter when the roads become slicked with ice and snow—or even rain.

The chief danger comes in vehicles descending the hill too fast to make the curve in their own lane, either because of the driver misjudging his speed or having faulty brakes. They would crash head-on into southbound traffic about to move onto Foxtown Hill from Broad St.

Refusal to recognize the potential danger just cited is to ignore the dozens of accidents, similarly caused, which have occurred one block farther west on Morningside Ave. where traffic swings right into Park Ave.

Instead of having traffic turn right onto Broad St., we propose that traffic continue as at present to Park Ave., thence one short block north where it would turn right on the extension of Clermont Ave., which would be made a one-way street until it joined Broad St.

Southbound traffic on Broad St. would turn right on Bryant St. one block, then left on Park Ave. and left again on Morningside Ave. Bryant St. also would become a one-way street between Park and Broad.

Such a pattern, we feel, would eliminate the dangerous condition now proposed for the Broad-Morningside intersection.

It is substantially the same plan proposed by Police Chief John B. Tretheway, but turned down by two State Highways Department engineers, both supposedly experts in highway safety.

Their reason for establishing the announced plan, we understand, is to avoid paying for borough streets damaged while the detour is in effect. If that is their only reason, we strongly urge that they reconsider.

After all, how can anyone reckon the value of only one life lost in a traffic accident against the damages the state would have to pay for maintaining two blocks of borough streets? And let's not wait for someone to get killed at the intersection before coming up with the safest possible plan for the detour.

Less Wizardry, Please

Electronics are fine, we suppose, as long as they stay in their place. But it occurs to us that somewhere along the line advancement becomes encroachment.

Such as that newest of scientific marvels, the telephone that follows you around.

If there are two things a great many of us do not want more than anything else, both of them are these electronic ferrets. Sure, they say you have to tell the telephone where you're going before it can track you down.

But what with all this scentific advancement, we are sure the next gadget on the list will be a device whereby the free-dance-lessons people can call us up any time we're within 12 feet of any telephone, anywhere. Perhaps by magnetic attraction. Or, more likely, magnetic repulsion.

Whatever it is that stationary engineers do, the thought here is that what they should do is keep this little boon to mankind stationary.

—Miami Herald

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Bigger Wheat Hoard

Prior to the present harvest, the Government of the United States owned about 1,300,000,000 bushels of wheat. The 1960 crop increased this hoard. Altogether the surplus crops cost the taxpayer about $4,000,000,000 a year.

If there is to be a rationalization of government costs, something has to be done about farm surpluses. Whenever city persons write about agricultural problems, the farm experts contend that we do not know what we are talking about, which is an easy but meaningless answer.

We do know that taxes are unconscionably high and that food prices are ridiculously high and that the purchasing value of the dollar is low.

This the city dweller does know and he is not pleased about it. In fact, one of the first problems that the Kennedy Administration will have to tackle is the deterioration of urban life, the increase of slum areas, the rise of urban juvenile crime, the high cost of urban living and the blighting of suburban areas.

When the cost of food exceeds the ability of a family to live on its income, whether from earnings or charity (now euphemistically called relief), social and moral conditions in cities deteriorate.

The maintenance of farm prices contributes to the high cost of food. At the same time, the stockpiling of food serves no useful purpose except to place an increasing burden of taxes upon the necks of a people whose currency is decreasing in value.

This, then, is what the country faces. The Eisenhower Administration has made no effort to deal with this problem, much less solve it. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson made some startling moves, but he was unsupported by his colleagues who could not stand up against the waves of strongly expressed unpopularity.

In fact, although what is known as the farm vote is no longer decisive as the 1960 election established, the historic memory on the subject differs from reality.

Actually, this problem cannot be contained in the Department of Agriculture. Any solution must include the State Department which must concern itself with protests from such countries as Canada (wheat and cheese) and Denmark (butter) that are worried over our dumping large quantities of surplus foods upon world markets or to feed the hungry in Asia and Africa who cannot afford to pay our prices.

It must include the Department of Commerce for identical reasons. It is no longer possible to deal with these broad problems as though they were the private domain of some officials. Food is a national problem and the Treasury must have something to say about the value of our currency and the prospect of taxes.

In a word, when a country holds $4,000,000,000 of frozen crops it has so much of its liquid wealth tied up in a dead man's fist, which it cannot employ for useful purposes.

President-elect Kennedy's father, Joseph, was a member of both Hoover Commissions which made a very serious attempt to find out what was wrong with a paralyzed executive branch of government that could not deal with problems that faced it and that required immediate action. Brother Robert was a member of the staff of one of the Hoover Commissions.

It is to be hoped that some of the findings and some of the conclusions are retained in the memories of these men and of Jack who, as Senator, handled some of the bills proposed for enactment. At any rate, a vast amount of material is available in these commissions which can be useful in handling these particular problems to the benefit of both the urban and the rural populations.

Poverty, in a rich country such as ours still is, can only be the product of faulty organization and bad distribution. These can be corrected by keen minds and strong wills. President Kennedy cannot fall back either on the needs of the Roosevelt Administration or the inability of the Eisenhower Administration to act.

He will have to make a new agricultural program of his own, consistent with his general economic program, progressive and daring and related to the welfare of both the urban and rural populations. If he cannot do this, the big cities will be in trouble and so will Mr. Kennedy.

As the population switch has been to the big cities, this situation will have to be dealt with realistically.

'Please . . . Just Take Me to My Leader!'

The Pennsylvania Story

Batt's Task

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — When Pennsylvania's Secretary of Labor and Industry William L. Batt earlier this week was named by President-elect Kennedy as one of 11 members of a special committee to study the chronic unemployment problem that in particular has plagued the Keystone State, it was neither sheer coincidence nor a fluke.

The 44-year-old cabinet member long has been in the forefront in fighting for heavy and strong corrective measures, particularly from a national assistance level, to combat chronic unemployment in hard pressed economic areas of the state.

From the interesque standpoint when President-elect Kennedy this week named Harvardman Batt to the select committee, this column could not help but recall a letter we had received from the Labor and Industry chief back on Nov. 9 in commenting on one of our columns a short time earlier on the subject of unemployment in Pennsylvania.

Said Mr. Batt — nearly one month prior to his appointment to the special Kennedy committee—in his letter:

"Now that the election is out of the way, and Congress is about ready to reconvene, the necessity for renewed efforts on area redevelopment legislation is upon us again.

"I am sure that if there had been a national equivalent of PIDA (Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority, which financially and otherwise helps garner new industries for hard pressed areas), such as would have been provided under the Douglas-Clark Flood Area Redevelopment Bill (S-772), the picture in Pennsylvania and throughout the nation would have been much brighter, and the task of the incoming President less burdensome."

N. B. and "now hear this" to Bill Batt: At long last you are in direct position to work strongly and accomplish something in this critically important field . . . To re-quote you in your letter—"Now that the election is out of the way . . ."

Ye Yule Spirit — When they raised Pennsylvania's "official" Christmas trees on Capitol Hill here this week—one fifty-foot Hemlock on the Capitol Steps and a 30-foot Spruce in the Rotunda inside—Secretary of Property and Supplies Andy Bradley and his brood of "helpers" unquestionably strained at the reins.

To light up the trees in proper yule fashion for example, it was necessary to string not merely a few hundred feet of wire—but a couple of miles . . . And for Christmas tree lighting — there are about a thousand lights festooning the big shrubs.

The huge hemlock tree incidentally came from a nearby state park while the indoor 30-foot Norway Spruce was donated by the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Assn. (They also gave one to grandfather Lawrence for use at the Executive Mansion at nearby Indiantown Gap Military Reservation.)

About 80 smaller trees that will sprout in the horde of offices around Capitol Hill have been garnered by the State Department of Forests and Waters . . . Sidenote: the formal lighting of the two "official" trees originally was scheduled for Dec. 19—but when it was recalled that this was the date of the convening of the Electoral College (to ballot for President), the date was changed to Dec. 20.

Up Periscope! — Of interest and concern to Pennsylvania taxpayers most certainly should be the notation that the state is "buying light" these days . . . Or at least that would seem to be the case judging by a purchase ordered processed the other day through the State Auditor General's office.

The purchase order called for $1405.50 worth of "feathers" for the Department of Health's Samuel G. Dixon State Hospital . . . It isn't a lot of fluff though — the feathers are to be used to stuff pillows at the institution . . . Department Comptroller Gerry Oswald insists the feathers are not "horsefeathers" either!

10 Years Ago

How many remember the days of President Truman and the many surprise statements he made? Well, it is just 10 years ago he was going to "Beat up the music critic that said Margaret's voice was flat."

The more than 1,000 workers at Art Metal received a 15 cent hourly wage increase following the signing of the new union contract.

The Commerce Department announced it had placed a band on all shipments to Red China, Red Korea and Russia.

East Stroudsburg Elks Club announced it would again host the children of the area to an annual Christmas Party in the Elks Home on Washington Street.

20 Years Ago

Leo A. Achterman was selected as majority floor leader for the 1941 session of the Pennsylvania Legislature.

Five businesses in Delaware Water Gap were robbed. A total of $33 was taken from the establishments.

Joe O'Donnell, the Stroud Twp. expert on the automatic pin setters, was around Eastburg yesterday.

The former professional boxer plans a trip to Scranton in the near future to get in a little Christmas shopping.

Joe and his buddy of bygone years Jim Murphy hope to get together during the holiday season when the latter returns from Florida.

Joe Arnst, of East Stroudsburg, is considered one of the better connosseurs of music.

Folks across the Pulaski Skyway claim that Joe can pick 'em better on the juke boxes than the people who plug the discs daily.

Don Robbins, Sr., the Tannersville insurance executive, makes his rounds around Monroe County about as frequent as any businessman.

It is nothing to see Don in Stroudsburg on one day and in the West End section the next.

Probably one of the top dog-walkers in the area is Carl Howe, of Stroudsburg.

Carl, who claims his canine is the best around, totes his watchdog every morning and afternoon.

Howe says it is a good way for him to get some air.

Congratulations are in order for Jeff Cox, the Snydersville resident who recently was named sports editor of the Lehigh University newspaper.

The Allen-Scott Report

Rocky Eyes 1964

and Paul Scott

By Robert S. Allen

Washington — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is taking some highly significant steps to make certain that he is in a strong strategic position to seek the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

In these decisive backstage moves, the New Yorker is making it emphatically clear, particularly to GOP insiders, that his hat is definitely in the White House ring.

Confronting him are a number of tough hurdles; foremost among them Vice President Nixon's hopes to run again, and Rockefeller's own re-election in 1962. If he doesn't win another gubernatorial term, his 1964 presidential aspirations will be torpedoed forthwith.

But while fully aware of these and other big ifs, Rockefeller is moving quickly and forcefully to offset them, as follows:

Easing out of the New York Republican organization all Nixon supporters and other leaders whose "reliability" is deemed questionable.

Putting several or more of his trusted backers in key offices in the Republican National Committee.

Similarly, installing other supporters on the staffs of the Senate and House Republican Campaign Committees and important legislative committees.

High in the list of those slated for one of these very helpful congressional jobs is Rep. Albert Moreno, Conn. who was defeated in the November election. He was one of Rockefeller's earliest White House boosters.

On these significant backstage moves, the New York governor already has assurances of "cooperation" from a number of influential Republicans.

National Chairman Thruston Morton has agreed to bring Rockefeller partisans into the party's top headquarters. Exactly how many and what their functions, are still to be worked out.

In the House and Senate, the New Yorker has similar promises from a number of leading Republicans.

Rep. William Miller, N.Y., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee is cordially going along with this plan. Also heartily favoring it are Reps. Joseph Martin, Mass., former speaker and national chairman; James Fulton and John Saylor, Pa., who have long been Rockefeller partisans.

In the Senate, the New Yorker is being potently aided by Senators Jacob Javits, N.Y., Clifford Case, N. J., John Sherman Cooper, Ky., Alexander Wiley, Wis., Homer Capehard, Ind., and George Aiken, Vt.

Miller, Martin and Javits discussed these moves with Rockefeller the day he conferred in Washington with President Eisenhower and Nixon.

With the latter, Rockefeller did not go into these matters.

But he talked them over frankly with the GOP congressional leaders, who expressed full approval and promised their help. In these meetings, Rockefeller stressed one point.

"I'm starting early because I don't want to make the same mistake I did last time—getting into the campaign too late," he explained. "I am now fully convinced that if we had started in the spring of 1959, instead of November, the results might have been very different. This time I propose to be in on the ground floor at the very start and with as much organization and strength as possible. And the best way to do that is to start right away."

The congressional chiefs heartily concurred.

Not mentioned by Rockefeller is the fact that he still has intact, from his abortive 1958 presidential drive, skeleton organizations in a number of key centers throughout the country.

POLITICALS — President-elect Kennedy is discussing with aides a plan under which he would make bi-monthly TV-radio reports to the nation—along the lines of the late President Roosevelt's famed "Fireside Chats." Kennedy views such direct public reports as especially valuable for developing a "spirit of unity."

Definitely slated for a high position in the Kennedy administration is Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who went all-out for the president-elect, particularly in his hard-fought Wisconsin and West Virginia primaries that played key roles in his nomination. Young FDR has the potent backing of Bronx Democratic Leader Charles Buckley, who is saying, "He is a fine, young, and highly capable man who may yet occupy the governor's chair. He did an outstanding job for Kennedy and the Roosevelt name still has a lot of magic."

Rep. Aime Forand (D., R.I.), voluntaryiily retiring this year, is planning to keep busy writing two books about Congress. The author of the widely controversial medical care for the aged plan, will write one book about how to get elected to Congress, and the other about what to do if elected.

Former Gov. Alf Landon, Kansas, 1936 GOP Presidential standard-bearer, says the party must "get modern in outlook and basic policy."

He advises Republicans "to realize that we must adequately meet changing conditions and the many complex foreign and domestic problems. To me the election proves conclusively that the country wants leadership that thinks in terms of the highly uncertain future and not the nostalgic and unrestorable past."

Inside You And Yours

Bursitis Pains

Otto's heart attack turned out to be housemaid's knee of the shoulder. Doctors called it "bursitis."

Where one tissue rubs against another, nature supplies a lubricating pocket called "bursa." Years of kneeling to scrub floors inflames the bursa in front of many a housemaid's knee. Years of delivering the mail inflamed the bursa on Otto's shoulder—bursitis.

As the inflamed bursa stretches and breaks, pain shoots down the arm, up the neck or across the chest, just like the pains of a heart attack!

Scraping Pebbles

Blood washes calcium into the inflamed area. Eventually, pebbles can be felt scraping against each other when the shoulder moves.

But the shoulder seldom moves, because every motion hurts. Rotating or raising the arm from your side can really make you see stars. A supporting sling can relieve more pain than a barrel of narcotics.

Stiffens And Freezes

Gradually, your shoulder stiffens until it freezes in place. All sorts of bone and joint antifreeze can prevent this frozen shoulder. Hot packs and heating pads soothe bursitis and loosen surrounding muscle spasms.

Massage and exercise can limber up the stiffening joint. Lean over the back of a chair, steadying yourself with the good arm. As the other arm dangles, swing it in circles, small at first, but gradually larger and larger. Painful twinges will warn you when to stop.

Even though you repeat this routine several times a day, defrosting that stiff shoulder still takes weeks or months. Soothing aspirin may speed this stretching. More powerful medicines like phenylbutazone (Butazolidin) often succeed when aspirin fails.

Speedy Cure

Jet-age drugs often cure bursitis at supersonic speed. Your doctor can inject the bursitis cocktail—one part hydrocortisone to five parts long-acting Novacain—into the tender area. Within a few minutes, you can swing your arm like a baseball pitcher without the slightest pain. You can probably work out all stiffness before the Novacain wears off and pain temporarily returns.

The hydrocortisone melts the inflammation and dissolves the calcium back into the blood stream.

Final Cure

When nothing seems to help, the surgeon can always separate you from your inflamed bursa.

Home remedies sometimes work better than injections and surgery.

Otto cushioned his painful bursa with a large wad of cotton before slinging his mailbag over the shoulder. This cotton wiped away every last trace of his bursitis!

I keep On Trying: Only hours after I ran the blind item about the permanent sidewalk encumbrance in front of a 2nd Ave. night club, the Living Room took it down. I'm curious about how no one noticed it all this time. In fact, I'm curious about lotsa things.

John Wayne got a laugh in Paris when he told reporters he only knows two words of French: Brigitte Bardot . . . Efrem Zimbalist, Jr., and Stephanie don't look like they're separated . . . pretty Monett LaForrest, who was once the favorite tablemate of Sal Mineo, now sits at the same table at Ed Wynne's Harwyn with Stuart Cooper . . . News Behind the News: So the Court of Appeals says they weren't conspiring at Apalachin. Maybe it was only a social gathering. At least half of the gentry there were related to each other by marriage or otherwise . . . It should be noted that while many who attended Apalachin do not have records, it is a fact that many people who do have records are related to the families of others with records through intermarriage. This is bringing about even tighter ties than the historic mutual interest ties of the Mafia. It is, in fact, setting up a whole new segment of society, just as the intermarriage of Wall St. Robber Barons of old produced what is now laughingly referred to as Society, with a capital "S."

Q. I am a self-employed businessman and my father worked for me. May I pay social security taxes on his wages.

A. No, not at the present time. Wages paid to a father by a child are excluded by the Social Security Act; but beginning in January 1961 you will be required to pay social security taxes on his wages because the 1960 Amendments removed this exclusion.

S-burg Man Gets Patent On Improvement Of Shoes

JOSEPH D. Scala, 561 Oak St., Stroudsburg, was the recipient on Nov. 8, of U.S. patent 2,958,965, entitled "Junctures Between the Uppers and Outersoles of Shoes."

The invention pertains to improvements in the manufacture of shoes made with outersoles of rubber, plastic or any of the various synthetic resilient moldable materials that are suitable for the purpose.

Shoes of this type include the shaped upper material, innersole and outersole which are stitched together. However, difficulty has been experienced in providing a junction and at the same time be sufficiently strong to prevent separation of the upper from the sole of the shoe.

Devised Method

To cope with this problem and provide an improvement over the prior practice, Scala devised a method of manufacturing shoes of the foregoing type wherein, after the parts have been stitched as described above, another layer or lamination of the soling material is molded to the bottom of the outersole.

The mold for this purpose has a rim portion of such design that during the molding operation, the material of the added layer not only becomes securely bonded to the other part of the outersole on the shoe, but a portion of such material flows upwardly into sealing contact with the edge of the upper material and forms the equivalent of a welt.

Sealed Winterproof Joint

In other words, the completed shoe of Scala's invention has a very strong, sealed waterproof joint between the upper material and the sole. The added layer of soling material encloses and conceals the stitches and prevents them from parting.

It is claimed also that this improved shoe may be made at very low cost and that the novel joint, with its welt that may be molded in a large variety of shapes, adds to the attractiveness of the shoe and measurably increases its salesability.

The application was filed on April 21, 1958.

Tobyhanna Unit Plans Yule Contest

DUE TO increasing interest, Tobyhanna Community Council will for the third consecutive year sponsor another outdoor decoration-lighting contest for Christmas.

Anyone living in the village, including Wherry Housing, will be eligible, including stores and business establishments.

Judging will be Dec. 26 through Jan. 1.

Winners will be notified shortly thereafter and prizes will be awarded at the January meeting of the council.

The project is being financed by the 15-member organizations and individuals. Donations may be made to any official or individual of member organizations or to council officials, Mrs. P. D. Frankenfield, president; Harold Shannon, vice-president; Harry G. Fuqua, secretary-treasurer.

Donations in excess to the awards made will be set aside for a similar project next year. Awards are, First prize, $15; second, $10; third, $5.

It is hoped the contest will encourage residents to help make Tobyhanna one of the better decorated and lighted communities in the area.

Contest committee is composed of Robert Fairservice, Neil Palumbo.

Postmasters Express Appreciation

LOCAL POSTMASTERS Fred Rhodes and Norman B. Gregory yesterday expressed appreciation for public cooperation in the annual "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign.

Both urged use of air mail to speed distant packages and cards to friends and relatives. They said there is still time for local deliveries.

8 A.M. to 7 P.M.

Starting Monday, both offices will remain open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. to handle the anticipated rush of last-minute mail.

Sebring Attends Schools Parley

ASSISTANT County Superintendent of Schools Walter Sebring attended a one day conference yesterday of chief administrators in Berwick.

The theme of the conference was "Larger Units of Administration."

Woman's Car Hops Curb

STROUDSBURG Police reported an accident involving Mrs. Christine L. Nolland, 21, of Tobyhanna, yesterday at 2 p.m. in front of H. C. Archibald Co., Main St., Stroudsburg.

Patrolman Charles Allen investigating the accident said Mrs. Nolland told him that she was attempting to park the car and in so doing stepped on the gas instead of the break.

No License

The car jumped the curb, struck a parking meter and came to rest with the front bumper against a utility pole. The parking meter and stanchion were damaged.

Upon investigation it was learned that the woman was driving without a license. She was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Floyd Kellogg, Stroudsburg, on a charge of driving without an operators' license.

Mrs. Nolland pleaded guilty to the charge. She was released after paying $15 in fine and costs.

ANSWER TO LAST WEEK'S FACT

A Thick Glass Does Not Stand Hot Water Better Than A Thin One

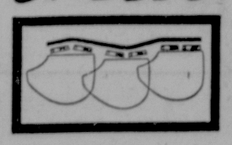

The reverse is true. Glass is a bad conductor of heat. In a thick glass tumbler the inner layers of the glass are heated before the outer. Heat causes expansion, and the outer layers are burst by the expansion of the inner. In a thin tumbler the whole thickness of the glass is heated almost at once, and all the parts expand at the same time. 1. "Popular Fallacies"—A. S. E. Ackermann. 2. Deer Season Calms Down Activities In Barrett Twp.

By PAT WILLIAMS

THE official opening of hunting season in Barrett Township meant the official closing of just about everything else. School closed the first day, and things seem pretty quiet on the home front.

Comments heard about the season struck a note of levity: "I'm not going hunting, I haven't lost any deer." Another remark overheard: "Give the deer guns so they can shoot back, then it would be sport."

To each his own opinion, but if anyone isn't hunting in Barrett this week, it's because he got his buck on the first day, or he is a conscientious objector.

All last week the temperature went up and up until on Monday morning it broke out in that Nimrod's malady called "Buck Fever," for which there is only one cure, bringing home the "bacon." Then, the patient sinks back into his daily routine for another year until this chronic disease overtakes him again on the first day of Deer Season.

OTHER NEWS ITEMS — Christmas is getting closer and closer (that's news?) and with its coming, the calendar becomes crowded with news and events. For the Second Sunday in Advent, the Canadensis Methodist Church held the Sacrament of Infant Baptism.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dann presented their little daughter Kristina Lee Dann, all dressed in a white nylon gown trimmed with ribbons and lace. Also present were four of the Dann children.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Spangenberg dressed little Timothy Lee in a blue suit for his Christening, and his new little niece, Deborah Lynn Henneforth, daughter of Mr. Eugene and Mrs. Darlene Spangenberg Henneforth wore a white nylon dress with lace and ribbons.

Nativity Scene

The young people of the Canadensis Methodist Church have plans in the works for a live Nativity scene to be presented on the church lawn Christmas Eve at 7 and again at 10:30, just prior to the candlelight service. Yvonne Noel, Marie Spangenberg and Bill Kerz are working with the help of Julius Schraat to present this tableau. Better mark it on your list of things to see.

At the Mountainhome Methodist Church the Advent Wreath held two lighted candles, while the congregation partook of Communion. The Women's Society of Christian Service presented a family Christmas program Tuesday at 8 p.m., directed by Mrs. Maryann Miller. Assisting to produce the two plays is Mrs. Edna Reisenwitz. "Pearl of Great Price" and "Silver of the Second Best" both by Elsie D. Yale, will have the Mesdames Alice Price, Glen Shaller, Bernice Shepard, Phyllis Carter, Kathrine Rinehart, Katy Price, Bea Price, Carol Weidner and Dolores Brown in the cast. After the program, Christmas refreshments were served.

Home From Hospital

By the way, Robert Ziegler is home from the Flowers Hospital in New York where a few weeks ago they took him apart to see what makes him tick. After an overhaul, he is in good order. Another note, Mrs. Georgia Fisk is looking forward to her 81st birthday. She is on the long road of recovery from an illness this past summer. Barrett residents will be glad when she is up and around with her saucy witticisms.

With such a full schedule, you get the feeling that for each step forward you slide back two. Only one remedy: when you can't lick 'em, join 'em—relax and enjoy the season.

"AND WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE SANTA . . . ?"—First Lt. Francis Kendall, of Tobyhanna Signal Depot Information Office staff, interviews children at Our Lady of Fatima Institute, Elmhurst. MORA Plans Christmas Program

PLANS for the Christmas party to be held Dec. 14 with members of the Leisure Hour Club were discussed at Wednesday's meeting of the MORA Club at the YMCA.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton will speak on Christmas and the Stroud Union High School senior chorus will sing carols.

Martha Starner is chairman of the Leisure Hour Club committee which will place favors and decorations for the party.

Film Shown

A film on the Yellowstone National Park area was shown and Al Sommer, who recently returned from a visit to Milwaukee and Racine, Wis., and Chicago, reported on the development of organizations for elderly persons in these cities.

Dr. R. A. Barnard, club chaplain, conducted a memorial service for the late Rev. Arthur Henderson.

Birthdays of James S. Bunnell, Robert D. Bowlby, Thomas E. Kirch and Harry Halterman were observed.

Rossman Appointed Representative

Mr. Thomas Sands, president of Interstate Asphalt Company, Inc., located on Mine Road, north of Quakertown, Pa., announces the appointment of Guy C. Rossman, as company representative. Mr. Rossman was former Municipal Representative for Chester Valley Engineers, Inc., Paoli, Pa., and past District Township Engineer, Pennsylvania Department of Highways, Haverford, Pa. Mr. Rossman is active in local government affairs. He is presently chairman of Darby Borough Auditors, past committeeman, past Judge of Elections.

Mr. Rossman attends the Lutheran Church and serves as Treasurer of the Church School department.

The Rossman's have three children, two sons and a daughter. The eldest son, Terry, is now serving with the United States Air Force. Adv.

Hearings Set On Hospitals

HARRISBURG (AP)—Sol Turnoff, secretary of the Board of Pharmacy, said Thursday that despite pressure from hospitals the board will hold public hearings on proposed changes in regulations for hospital pharmacies.

Turnoff said hearings will open in March. He said the date and locations of the hearings will be decided at a three-day board meeting here next month.

Hospital officials want the hearings to be private, Turnoff said. But, he added:

"The board felt that in order to be fair we should hold public hearings as promised so that all sides can be heard properly."

The board proposed the new regulations last July 22. It set Aug. 31 for a hearing but that was postponed at the request of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, Turnoff said. The association said then it wanted more time to study the order which had been approved earlier by Atty. Gen. Anne X. Alpern.

The new regulations would prevent hospital pharmacies from dispensing substitute drugs without the prescribing physician's consent. They also would prevent private patients of hospital staff doctors from obtaining drugs at the hospital pharmacy.

Need I Say More?

Dear Abby: I went to a card reader who told me my lucky number is three. I know she is right because on the third of September I met Louie and I fell for him right away. This card reader said I would find happiness with the third man I fell in love with and she was right again because Louie is my third big love affair. He has been married twice before. (See, I am lucky three!)

I want to know if you think I am putting too much trust in the card reader. (She described Louie to a "T" and she never even saw him, and everything in my past happened just like she said it did.) My brother says I am plum nuts.

MAGGIE

Dear Maggie: When you have an expert like your brother to consult, why go to a card reader?

Dear Abby: A soft-hearted young miss wrote that she loved a young man but hesitated to marry him because his favorite sport was hunting, and she thought it was cruel. You advised, "If you feel that way about it, don't marry him."

Abby, the young lady and you (along with countless other uninformed people) should learn more about conservation and wild life. More wild birds and game starve to death, or are killed by weather or other wild animals than by hunters. By comparison, an arrow or bullet is a merciful death. I hope you are big enough to change your advice in print. Many sportsmen are waiting for this one.

A. R. K.

Dear A. R. K.: Thank you for your very enlightening letter. You've changed my mind, and now I am changing my advice. To the reluctant young miss: If you really love the guy, don't let a couple of dead ducks stand between you.

Dear Abby: My husband lies for his buddy and expects me to do the same. When this buddy's little pregnant wife calls here looking for her husband, I am supposed to say, "He WAS here but he just left." Then I'm supposed to call a number where this no-good chiseling bum is, and tell him his "mother" is looking for him.

My husband says we are helping to save a marriage, but I don't see it that way. My conscience bothers me. What would you do in my place?

TROUBLED CONSCIENCE

Dear Troubled: I'd refuse to be a party to the whole evil mess. Your husband would be a better friend to his buddy if he sat down and tried to straighten him out.

Confidential to "Whom It May Concern": He who cannot forgive others destroys the bridge over which he himself one day must pass, for every one needs to be forgiven.

Some Suffocated At Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Navy records show evidence that some victims of the Pearl Harbor attack died of suffocation after living for days trapped in the bomb- and torpedo-battered hulks on battleship row.

This indication has been reported several times since the Dec. 7, 1941 Japanese attack.

The Navy has now declassified two pages of a lengthy report on the salvage of the battleship West Virginia whose hulk yielded 66 bodies. This report stated that there were "evidences that some of the men had lived for considerable periods and finally succumbed due to lack of oxygen."

In the after engine room, salvage men who eventually cut their way into the blasted and sunken ship found several bodies lying on top of the steam pipes. The report noted that such an area was probably within the air bubble existing in that flooded space.

The story of three men, whose bodies were later recovered from a storeroom deep within the West Virginia was told in a 1957 book entitled, "Day of Infamy," by Walter Lord.

Ample Export Opportunities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller said yesterday there is ample opportunity to increase exports by $3 billion next year, which he said would come close to solving the gold-dollar problem.

"There is ample opportunity for this and it's up to the businessman to seize that opportunity," Mueller told a news conference following a meeting of the National Export Expansion Committee.

The commerce chief said that while an increase on that scale is quite possible, he would not predict that it would be achieved.

Leonard F. McCollum, chairman of the national committee and president of Continental Oil Co., said exports represent "the most buoyant factor in the economy today."

Dropping Coins In Kettle Brings Happiness To Many

PERHAPS you pass her every day, without really seeing her. She stands there on the Main Street near 6th Street, Stroudsburg, in the icy blasts of northern winds, smiling and murmuring "God Bless you" to passersby.

She's a Salvation Army Lassie, tending the traditional Christmas kettle . . . and we've grown accustomed to her now. But, just suppose, as you automatically drop some coins into the kettle, she should reach out and take your hand and, like Scrooge's ghosts of Christmas past and present, lead you into regions unfamiliar to you where you can see, first hand, what has been created by the coins you dropped into the kettle.

She takes you to the doorway of a large room at 78 South Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. Inside, a sea of children, their faces shining more brightly than the glittering Christmas tree, are receiving gifts from a man and woman in uniform.

Makes You Glad

The youngsters are poorly dressed and many need a haircut, but they are laughing and squealing with delight as only children can. Your throat tightens a little as you learn that for some, this is the very first Christmas Party they've ever known. You're glad you dropped coins into the kettle.

Outside in the street again, your ghost guide points to a group of ragged little boys, their faces pressed against the window of the room you just left. Not enough in the kettle to take care of all the children. How you wish you could walk past that kettle again!

You look in on lonely shutins for whom life has become good again because a visitor came, bearing gifts. It's so terribly important to be remembered at Christmastime!

Shows Gratitude

You watch a widowed mother and her children enjoying a modest Christmas observance. She looks old with weariness and worry, but for the moment her face reflects her children's happiness and her own gratitude for your help in making this a memorable day for her family.

And so the tour goes on, guided by your Salvation Army Lassie. We've grown accustomed to her now . . . but next time you see her tending the kettle, be sure you really see her and all of the people whose happy Christmas depends on the coins dropped into that kettle.

Students Boycott Cafeteria

CLARION, Pa. (AP) — About 700 students boycotted the Clarion State College student food center yesterday in protest against what they called "poor food and poor food service." Some 200 of the students picketed the center.

Later in the day, a school spokesman said student leaders had agreed to call off the boycott and picketing for at least a week and to discuss the food situation with school officials and operators of the food center.

Only 14 students ate breakfast at the center, and nobody reportedly showed up for lunch.

One spokesman for the students said the action followed petitions and protests against "poor food served and arbitrary suspension of dining hall employes of the A. L. Mathias Co. service."

The students also hanged John Zugay, manager of the food service, in effigy twice from a tree in front of the dining hall.

"We have tried time and again to call attention to the poor food and this student boycott action and picketing developed as a spontaneous move to get some action," Janet Budday, a senior said.

Brace Made For Dooley

HONG KONG (AP)—Dr. Thomas A. Dooley was released from a hospitald yesteray and said his immediate future depends upon "my iron maiden"—a brace now being made for him.

The American medical missionary entered a hospital last Wednesday with a back ailment. Doctors said X rays showed destruction of spinal bone structure, likely due to extension of cancer. A malignant tumor was removed from his chest in New York last year.

Dooley, 33, came here last week on a tour in behalf of Medico, the organization he helped to found to take medical care to remote parts of the world. He pioneered in such work in Northern Laos.

Chanukah, Jewish Festival, Starts At Sunset Dec. 13

THE EIGHT-DAY holiday of Chanukah, the Jewish festival that has symbolized the fight for religious freedom throughout the ages, will begin this year at sunset, Tuesday, December 13.

Chanukah, as recorded in the Book of the Maccabees, recites the struggle between Jewish freedom fighters and the Syrian King Antiochus in the Holy Land two millennia ago. The despotic ruler attempted to force paganism upon the Jews, who rose up to resist under the leadership of Judah Maccabaeus. In the year 165 B.C.E., Judah Maccabaeus and his band recaptured the Temple at Jerusalem, cleansed it, rededicated it, and proclaimed an eight-day "dedication of the altar." Jews have commemorated the holiday annually ever since.

Kindled Every Night

Candles are kindled every night of the holiday, beginning with one on the first night, two on the second, until finally eight candles blaze in the special Chanukah menorah or candelabrum. The holiday is celebrated with special services, prayers and hymns, in synagogues, homes and religious schools. Members of a family will exchange gifts and many children receive presents from their parents on each day of the holiday.

Chanukah is known as the "Festival of Lights" and also as the "Days of Dedication." Its universal theme—the fight for religious freedom — has echoes in human history, particularly in the civilization of the western world, and is as meaningful today as it was in the times of Judah Maccabaeus.

Brother Brings Life To Boy, 17

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—"Stephen just sat there for hours staring at Stewart, holding his hand and talking to him," the mother of the two boys related.

"He would say, 'Stewart, if you know who I am and that I'm here, squeeze my hand.' Finally he did, a hard squeeze, too. We couldn't get that response from him," said Mrs. Samuel Chadrow yesterday.

Stewart Chadrow, 17, of Philadelphia, had been in a coma at Lancaster General Hospital since Nov. 6 when he received a severe head injury in an auto accident.

His parents and doctors could get no response from him. He lay on his back, his body stiff and motionless, his right eye closed. His left was open, but unseeing—until Tuesday night.

Then Stephen, his 21-year-old brother, arrived on a 30-day emergency leave from the Navy. As he sat by his brother, Stewart's one open eye remained fixed on him.

"We knew the two boys were always so close that just having Stephen here would do some good," the mother said.

Star Lighting Ceremony At Kunkletown

KUNKLETOWN—The illuminated star which shines through the Christmas season each year will be lighted here Saturday night.

The informal ceremony will be accompanied by the playing of Christmas carols over the sound system located in the belfry of St. Matthew's Union Church.

On Hilltop

The star is located on a hilltop overlooking the community and is visible for several miles from the south, east and west.

The lighted stars with strings of colored lights spanning the streets will be lighted Saturday night for the first.

Musicians Local 577 Elects Officers, Board Members

BANGOR—Officers were elected by Bangor-Stroudsburg Local 577, American Federation of Musicians, during their recent meeting in union hall here.

Carl Rice was named president; Fred Sabatino, vice president; Sammy Canova, secretary-treasurer and Kenneth Brown, membership secretary. Voted to the executive board were William Diehl, Joseph F. Falcone, George Humphreys, Ernest Lohman, Nelo Maso and Roger Miller.

The home association, at a following session, also reorganized by electing Falcone president; Rice, vice president; Maso, secretary-treasurer; and Brown, Canova, Diehl, Lohman, Miller and Gerald Rice board members.

One application for membership was received, that of Joseph LeDonne, of Roseto.

It was noted that East Stroudsburg Lodge 319, BPO Elks, has been placed on the national unfair list.

Thank-you notes were acknowledged from Joseph P. Falcone, Anthony Trigiani and Al Trux, president of the Easton Local, and his wife. Also from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haney and from the Pen Argyl Halloween committee.

Maso presented the business agent report. Sabatino, project chairman of the recording and transcription fund, announced that Harry Fair and his orchestra will perform at the Bangor Baptist Church Friday, Dec. 15.

Other engagements providing free music under this fund are: Dec. 18 at the Liberty Fire Company, Bangor, and at the Pen Argyl community center; Dec. 20 at the Bangor Jacksonian Democratic Club; and Dec. 21 at the Salvation Army, Pen Argyl.

At the home association session it was disclosed the apartment has been painted and that bids for refacing the front of the building are being received.

Herter To Head Delegation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said yesterday that Secretary Christian A. Herter will head the U. S. delegation at a meeting of the North Atlantic Council in Paris, Dec. 16-18.

The other two top members of the group will be Robert B. Anderson, secretary of the treasury, and Thomas S. Gates Jr., secretary of defense. Such Cabinet attendance at the December NATO meeting has become traditional.

The council is scheduled to discuss measures—especially by West Germany — to help the United States cut dollar expenditures in its program of supporting NATO defense arrangements in Europe.

Moravian Advent Stars Are Glaring

By PAT WILLIAMS
First in Series of Three Articles

ALONG with all the other Christmas decorations going up across the country, is the Moravian Advent Star. At the beginning of the season on the first Sunday in Advent, these illuminated stars are hung in the homes or the porches of Moravians.

They are made in Herrnhut, Germany (birthplace of the renowned Moravian Church), of heavy paper. These twenty-four point stars are a wonderful gift for a Do-It-Yourselfer. They come unassembled, with directions for assemblying in both German and English. The completed star is the highlight of decorations in many Christian homes during the holiday season.

The Moravian Advent Star is one of the traditional ways the Unitas Fratrum or Unity of Brethren celebrate Christmas. The soft glow of the Advent Star is a reminder of the First Christmas Star, of course, but it also reminds of the glory, might and greatness of God who made the Heavens.

It also recalls the prophecy of the "Star (that) shall come out of Jacob" as recorded in Numbers 24:17. But of the meanings ascribed to this symbol, the greatest is associating it with the Star that led the Wise Men to Bethlehem.

Special Litany

On the First Sunday in Advent, in Moravian Churches, the worshippers join in a special litany of praise. Overhead, the Advent Star is hung, and in many churches an Advent Wreath consisting of four candles is incorporated into the service, with a candle being lit for each of the successive Sundays. Another highlight of the service, is the singing of the joyful, antiphonal anthem, "Hosanna, Blessed Is He That Comes."

The Moravian Church goes back in time over five centuries to before the Reformation. It is the oldest organized Protestant Church. At that time, a group of followers of John Hus formed the Unitas Fratrum in what was then Bohemia. John Hus was martyred for his faith, but the circle of followers continued to grow.

Simple Basic Religion

Through five centuries, spanning wars and oceans, the Brotherhood has continued in the simple basic religion it is today. All members of other Protestant faiths are invited to join with the Moravian congregation for the celebration of the Lord's Supper, because the Brethren believe in "Brotherhood under Jesus Christ," regardless of the race or denomination from which a member has come.

The Moravian Church or Unitas Fratrum is steeped in a tradition of love and service. The basic simplicity and beauty of the faith is exemplified in the softly glowing Advent Star.

(Next: Moravian custom known as putzing and a Moravian recipe for Christmas cookies.)

Order Goes Unfilled

By William A. Doyle

Q. Maybe you can explain this one. I ordered my broker to buy me 100 shares of a certain stock at $36 a share. At the time I placed my order, the stock had just traded for $36.50 a share on the New York Stock Exchange. Later that day, it traded at $36. Then it went up again, to $36.50. Its last trading price that day was down again to $36. The next day, it went higher and has been up ever since.

My broker never bought the stock for me. He said that there were other orders before mine. Just what did he mean by that?

A. Just what he said. Remember that stock prices are set by the age-old auction principle. The prices buyers bid and sellers ask change constantly. When a buyer and a seller agree on a price, a trade takes place.

Through your broker, you bid for the stock at a set price. Other potential buyers also bid for the stock at the same price.

When you bid for a stock at a fixed price, your brokerage firm places that bid with the specialist who "makes the market" in the particular stock on the floor of the stock exchange. The specialist writes your order down in his book.

But the other people who wanted to buy the stock at $36 a share placed their orders before you did. So, their orders were placed in the spicalist's book before you order. Their orders were naturally filled before yours.

If enough sellers of the stock had been willing to take $36 a share so that all the buy orders at the price placed before yours had been filled, your order would have been next in line—if more stock was offered by sellers at $36 a share.

Experiences such as yours prove that it is very often foolish to specify a fixed price when you want to buy or sell stock. Very often, things work out better in the long run if your give your broker an order to buy or sell "at market"—the best price he can get. Unless you're trying to be a hot-shot stock market operator, the minor difference in price shouldn't bother you.

K. In one column, you advised a man who plans to keep his stock certificates in a safe deposit box not to sign his stock certificates. I recently turned over several thousands of dollars' worth of stock to my broker as collateral on a margin account. He told me to sign the certificates. So, I did.

Did I have to sign the certificates?

A. Yes. This is an entirely different situation. You put up your stock as collateral on a loan. The certificates had to be signed so that they would be fully transferable and marketable.

Q. Please answer with a flat yes or no. Is the Securities and Exchange Commission supposed to protect investors from losing money in the stock market?

A. No. The SEC, as a regulatory body of the Federal government, has a good bit of power on regulations, supervision and such. But no government agency, either Federal or state, can hold out anything such as a guaranty that investors will never lose money.

What do you want—government price controls of stocks?

Power Failure Hits Duquesne

DUQUESNE, Pa. (AP)—The City of Duquesne and several surrounding communities were without electricity for almost seven hours yesterday because of a power failure.

A spokesman for the Duquesne Light Co., which services the city of some 17,000, blamed it on a slight drizzle.

The rain caused a short that burned off the tops of eight utility poles down to the cross-bars, the spokesman said. The burned utility poles stopped the flow of electricity in the two main lines.

The lights in the area were out between 2 a. m. and 9 a. m. except for a short time in between when power was briefly restored.

Duquesne is located about 15 miles southeast of Pittsburgh.

Family Fare

by Bobby Westbrook

Just Between Us — —

The cigar store and the pool hall, in my youth, were places where men hung out. Girls, walking by, were careful to look the other way. Ladies never went in—so it is only by hearsay that I judge that they were the male equivalent of the bridge club and sewing circle—a place where men gossiped and talked sports and spread rumors.

One by one, cigar stores and pool halls have disappeared and men have taken to tap rooms and boys to diners and soda fountains for their informal "Union League" clubs. But they have also discovered another refuge and a most surprising one.

At least I was surprised when I walked in one of the automatic laundries with my little bundle of dirty clothes to find that all the other customers were men. It's logical, I suppose. Wives are busy with Christmas shopping, cookie baking, supper preparations and baby tending.

Husbands, finished with their day's work and with the family car, are available, and, properly approached, maybe even willing. After all, it's quite peaceful there with the hum of the machinery, the hypnotic effect of floating laundry in the driers, a chance to read their papers without interruption except to change the laundry from washer to drier.

But just wait until the teenage boys discover there's even a juke box, and automatic dispensers for candy, soft drinks and coffee. It would be a switch if in the next few years, the most popular male hangout in town should prove to be the Laundromat.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beehler

Beehler-Knecht Wedding At Greek Catholic Church

Tobyhanna — Miss Barbara Knecht and William Beehler, both of Tobyhanna, were married on Nov. 5 at 11 a.m. at St. Michael's Greek Catholic Church, Dunmore. Rev. Robert Radvansky performed the ceremony, before an altar decorated with vases of white chrysanthemums and pompons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Charles Knecht, wore a ballerina length gown lace over satin. It was fashioned with rounded neckline, scalloped cap sleeves, and a blue satin cummerbund forming a large bow in back. Her crown of blue sequins held her brief nylon veil and she wore matching lace mitts, and a crystal necklace and earring set. Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses with white pompons.

Miss Patricia Panna, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a ballerina length gown of pink chiffon with a deeper shade of pink for the back panels, falling free to the hemline.

Merton Quick, Tobyhanna, was best man and the bride's brother, Robert Panna, was an usher.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Knecht, wore a beige dress with brown accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William Beehler, wore a satin dress of royal blue with white accessories. Both wore corsages of orchids.

A reception and dinner for 100 guests was held at the Coolbaugh Twp. firehall with dancing. Centerpiece for the bridal table was a four-tiered cake with a miniature bride and bridegroom, silver bells and streamers.

For their weekend wedding trip, Mrs. Beehler wore an aqua wool dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

The bride is a graduate of Coolbaugh High School and IMB, Scranton. Her husband was also graduated from Coolbaugh High School and is now attending the University of Scranton.

Eldred PTA Considers TB, Teeth

Kunkletown — The health of the children attending Eldred Twp. School was considered by the parents at the well-attended meeting of the Parent-Teachers Assn. this week.

Mrs. Anne Shafer, registered nurse, discussed the tuberculosis tests to be given the pupils of the first and seventh grades during the month of January by Dr. Elmo J. Lilli, the school physician.

Mrs. Clarence Smith, principal of the school, explained the arrangements which have been made for fluoridization treatments for the teeth of the children of the second grade. The treatments will be given only with the approval of the parents, and bus transportation has been arranged by the school board. Dr. Robert Arner, of Brodheadsville, school dentist, will administer the treatment.

At the business meeting members voted to donate a pennant to be displayed each month in the classroom whose parents attend the PTA meeting in the most numbers. A prize will be given at the end of the year to the class which has earned the pennant most often.

Since the next meeting would fall on Jan. 2, it was changed to Jan. 3.

Refreshments and a social hour followed the meeting.

PTA Party At Middle Smithfield

The Middle Smithfield Parent-Teachers Assn. will hold a Christmas party in conjunction with their meeting on Monday night at 7:45. Richard Primrose will preside at the brief business meeting.

A film, "Christmastide" will be shown and members will exchange 50-cent gifts. Chairmen for the party are the three vice presidents: Mrs. John Dennis, Mrs. Robert Setzer and Mrs. William Perry.

Portland WSCS To Serve At Nursing Home

Portland — Members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Portland Methodist Church will hold a service at the nursing home on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 18, at 3 for the shut-ins.

The WSCS held its own Christmas party on Tuesday night at the church with Mrs. John Ribble presiding. A special gift was presented to Mrs. Nick Ervey for her services.

Miss Ruth Williams conducted the Christmas program "The First Christmas" with Miss Donna Wildrick playing a piano solo; Patsy Ribble, singing two Christmas Carols and Miss Ella Jelinek giving a reading "A Song in the Air." Mrs. Ribble was accompanist and read "Christmas After-Glow." Prayers were made for missionaries.

Gifts were exchanged during the social hour.

Weather permitting the January meeting will be held the first Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Frank Gardner with Miss Jelinek assisting as hostess.

When you are spit-roasting poultry, tie wings and legs close to the bird so it is compact.

Koehler Heads White Birch Saddle Club

Howard Koehler was elected president of the White Birch Saddle Club at the meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Torrey of Stroudsburg RD 1. Other officers elected were: Clair Shick, vice president; Shirley Widdoss, treasurer; and Dot Koehler, secretary.

Elected to the board of directors in addition to the officers were Fred Ackerman, and Barbara Torrey.

Tentative plans were made for a club dance in the near future. The winter meetings will be held in the afternoon with the net meeting listed for Jan. 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Koehler at 2:30 p.m.

Committees for January and February include activities, Shirley Widdoss; birthday and sick list, Barbara Torrey and Doe Koehler.

Named to the auditing committee were Emma Shick, Judy Ackerman and Jim Brown.

Analomink PTA Supper On Tuesday

Analomink Parent-Teachers Assn. will hold its Christmas party, beginning with a covered dish supper at the school on Tuesday night. Members are asked to bring something for the supper and a gift to exchange, not to exceed 50 cents.

The attendance banner will be awarded and details of the Christmas program will be announced. It will be held at the school on Monday, Dec. 19, at 8 p.m.

Altar, Rosary To Give Purse To Charity

Plans for the Christmas meeting of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Matthew's Catholic Church were discussed at the board meeting held at the home of Mrs. Richard Dishman on Tuesday.

The meeting will be held Thursday, Dec. 15, in the school auditorium. Instead of exchanging gifts, a Christmas purse will be given to the Little Sisters of the Poor.

Mrs. Arthur Blewitt announced that Mrs. Arthur Henning is membership chairman for Stroudsburg.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. A. M. Hickey, Mrs. John Sweeney, Mrs. E. R. Bush and Mrs. Dishman to Mrs. George Rung, Mrs. Joseph Shukaitis, Mrs. Joseph Jacques, Mrs. Bernard Frantz, Mrs. William Hannas, Mrs. Edwin Millard, Mrs. Adolph Oppel, Mrs. T. T. HENRIETTA SZOLD, founder of Hadassah, whose centennial the local branch will honor at an Oneg Shabbat tonight.

Young People To Conduct Temple Service

An Oneg Shabbat in memory of the founder of Hadassah, Henrietta Szold will be sponsored by the local branch of Hadassah in conjunction with the services tonight at Temple Israel at 8.

Immediately preceding the service, Miss Marion Liebert will discuss the life of Henrietta Szold, who in her own lifetime was recognized as one of the 100 great American women of the century.

Having already initiated the first adult evening school in the United States to help Americanize European immigrants, Miss Szold organized, in 1912, Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, following a visit to Palestine.

The original chapter had 12 members; there are now more than 318,000 members. Her objectives were to perpetuate Jewishness and Zionism in America and to advance the health of the people of Palestine.

Hadassah has maintained interest in hospitals, and laid the groundwork for public health services in Israel.

At the age of 73, Miss Szold entered the field of child rescue and rehabilitation through Youth Aliyah.

In recognition of her work in this field, a number of young people of the local Temple will conduct the Sabbath service: Charles Cahn and Lee Pollan. Elaine Bernbaum will deliver the sermonette about "Youth Aliyah," and its present work in child welfare and education.

Hostesses for the Oneg Shabbat after the service will be Mrs. Morris Jacobson, Mrs. Seymour Pollan and Mrs. Sumar Schwartz.

Luther League Showing Film

A film, particularly timely for the Christmas season, will be presented by the Luther League of St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg on Dec. 11 at 7:30 in the Sunday school rooms. Friends will be welcome.

The film, "The Christmas Story, Holy Night" is the last of a series of films on the life of Christ.

Hostesses will be Judy Duncan, Kathy Mikels and Sue Haney.

Three Parties At St. Ann's

Barrett — Three Christmas parties have been planned at St. Ann's Altar and Rosary Society sponsored by its Altar and Rosary Society.

The party for all the women of the church will be held Monday night at 8:30; the Children's Christmas party will be held Sunday, Dec. 18 at 4 p.m.; and the party for teenagers will be held after instruction on Thursday, Dec. 22.

All of the parties will be held at the church.

STROUDSBURG, PA.

As I begin my column each day, I type the date at the top. Not the date on which the column is written, but that on which it will appear. So, a few minutes ago I wrote "December 9th" . . . and it suddenly occurred to me that this particular day of writing is Pearl Harbor Day, and I had completely overlooked it until now. Strange how quickly one forgets! —but then it would be almost impossible to remember all the tragic dates of history, wouldn't it? Nevertheless, in a fleeting moment of remembrance, I was carried back nineteen years to an apartment in Tenafly, N. J. and a ringing telephone that summoned me from the shower on a Sunday afternoon. There was something ominous about that ring. Then as I lifted the receiver my husband shouted, "The Japanese have bombed Pearl Harbor . . ." At the moment it seemed like the end of the world . . . and in a way it was, for the hopes and dreams of thousands of people. Even now a chill comes over me, and I thank God that today most of us have nothing more on our minds than Santa Claus . . . jingle bells . . . and the thoughts of a white Christmas.

* * *

A BIT OF TRUMPETING . . .

Christmas is the time for heralds. Centuries ago it was the time when the fulfillment of the angel's pronouncement to Mary came to pass; the time when the shepherds on the hills above Bethlehem fell in awe before the angels' message. Maybe I should take time out today to do a bit of trumpeting in behalf of some of my colleagues who are so important to our store, and so rarely mentioned in print.

First of all, I should like to blow a glorious, golden note in behalf of the several women in our alteration room. Not only do they pin, tuck, pleat, and hem so that all of our customers will look glorious in the new dresses and sportswear they purchase at Wyckoff's, but they act as wardrobe mistresses for the Wyckoff employees who find it necessary from time to time to seek emergency aid. At least once a month, I manage somehow to lose a button, split a seam, or spill something upon myself, requiring the immediate attention of one of the ladies. Always they are unfailingly kind, even though they are usually as busy as beavers. Fact is, just a few minutes ago I looked down over me and saw that the shading in my dress was actually a couple of spots the cleaner had missed. So off I went to the sewing room, to borrow some cleaning fluid. This time I did the rubbing and Hannah Bronner did the advising —but had I needed more vigorous help she'd have gladly given it. Our Wyckoff alteration gals are a genial, happy trio, and we salute them! Meet them when you come into our fashion departments for your holiday apparel.

* * *

I would like also to sound a clarion call (I'm not exactly sure what a clarion call is, and I'm too lazy to look it up, but it sounds good!) in behalf of our girls of the shopping card-gift wrap center. There is a busy place most of the time, and business always decends upon them in a whirlwind swoop. But if the girls are harried and hurried, they are still pleasant of manner, and I think of them as little Christmas angels, spreading their wrappings of holly and their ribbons of red, silver, and gold, over a hectic world. In addition to our free wrap, Wyckoff's offers a wide variety of unusual and rather elaborate gift wraps. Take advantage of this service to simplify your Christmas preparations.

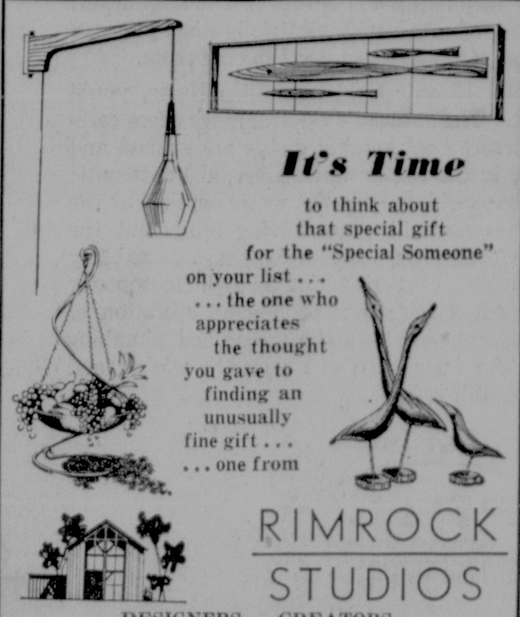

* * *

Another long blast on my trumpet goes to the girls in the receiving room who unpack, inspect, and ticket all the thousands of items that crowd our Wyckoff counters and stock rooms. Their job is fun in a way, because they see all the new things first. But then they must also ticket thousands of packages of needles, tubes of shaving cream and bottles of deodorant . . . and this could be pretty dull. One thing is certain, they are a very important part of Wyckoff efficiency, particularly in a rushed season when many new, inexperienced salespeople are unaware of prices.

* * *

And for my final note of the day, I'd like to herald the splendid work of our display department. Fran Meredith and Betty Frantz do a remarkable job, I think, of showing you in our windows and on our landings, the wide range of choice merchandise offered on the crowded racks of Wyckoff's. Come to think of it, our store wouldn't be nearly so wonderful if it weren't for everyone of the tremendously capable, nice, pleasant people who are rarely seen and rarely applauded.

TV Highlights

ABC will pre-empt its usual "Flight of the Week" on Christmas Eve to present "Sports Highlights of 1960," a 30-minute review of the top sports events of the year, including highlights of the 1960 summer and winter Olympics, the exciting 7th and deciding game of the World Series that brought the championship to Pittsburgh, the U. S. Open [illegible] golf tournaments and the men's and women's tennis finals of the Nationals. Also included will be pro and college basketball, pro and college football and horse racing.

Art James will star as host of the new audience-participation show, "Say When," in which contestants will pick their own prizes, debuting as a Monday-through-Friday series on NBC Monday, Jan. 2, at 10 a.m., replacing "Dough Re Mi" . . . "Years of Crisis," the traditional report by CBS News correspondents called home from posts around the world at year's end, will be broadcast Thursday, Dec. 29, at 10 p.m., with Edward R. Murrow as moderator.

Skip Homeier stars with Claude Akins on the "Dan Raven" mystery series at 7:30 tonight on ch. 3 and 4, when a former combat team decides to use military tactics to rob a Sunset Strip nightclub . . . Viewers are taken on a tour of modern Japan when John Gunther presents the first of two consecutive shows about Japan on the "High Road" series at 8 p.m. on ch. 11.

Edward Buchanan guest stars on "Route 66" at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10 as an aging prospector who finally strikes it rich with a beryllium find in the Utah desert, then seeks aid from Tod and Buz (Martin Milner and George Maharis) when a ruthless mine owner tries to steal his claim.

Roger Smith stars with Edward Byrnes on "77 Sunset Strip" at 9 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7, and when a woman hires Jeff Spencer to find her husband who has disappeared, Jeff and Kookie find that the man has several wives.

Dr. Frank C. Baxter returns as host of the "Science Series" at 9 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4, when the secrets of heredity are told in "The Thread of Life" . . . Brian Aherne stars on "The Twilight Zone" at 10 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10 as a successful Broadway actor who longs to go back 30 years in his life.

Richard Denning stars on the "Michael Shayne" detective series at 10 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4, and sees Voltane the Magician fatally shot while performing at a charity event . . . Betty White will be Jack Paar's special guest at 11:15 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4, when the program will be 'live' and in color, instead of the usual Friday night "Best of Paar" taped show.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FRIDAY, DEC. 9, 1960

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Leave no stone unturned in your honest attempt to bring warring factions together, to discuss means by which all will be served to true advantage, thus all can improve their lot.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—If you have promised, keep your word, but never hold to a wrong decision when shown its error. We are the bigger for recognizing mistakes, aiming pronto to eradicate them.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Difficulties may arise when trying to get a job done well, so the word is co-operation FITS, every day, and on some more than others. Today needs your deft mind and hand.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Keep appointments, and don't make so many you will tire; have patience with those who do not see eye-to-eye with you (you could be partially wrong!); support truths.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Preparedness, putting facts before fancies, calling in wise heads for advice will keep you in driver's seat safely, and longer, where you can do great good. Be not dismayed.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—You can be means of new vigor, enthusiasm for associates, or pull them down with pessimistic outlook. The first aids everyone, makes all feel better, do better; who needs the latter?

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Manifest your innate dignity and strength of purpose, others look to you for inner courage, which emanates from you normally. Changeable-sort day unless you stabilize it.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Aspects indicate same sort day as for Leo, Sagittarius. Retreat to regroup forces, strategy, but never because you feel beaten down. We have INDIVIDUALITY; use it ably.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Middle-type period. Some better moments. Hindrances can be overcome quicker through sympathetic, humanitarian manner. With your tact this can be a saving day.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Don't spend that extra effort on one good thing; then cancel out another by going along with someone whose purpose is antagonism, bitterness, regrets. Keep spirits AND endeavor high.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Organize your thoughts and actions carefully, then proceed with rugged determination, optimism. Do not let minor items clutter desk or head. Use your versatility.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Neptune going to new strong favorable aspect, advances causes of individual rights and fair program; you can do more than you realize to gain fresh footholds in many areas.

YOU BORN TODAY have a multitude of top-grade qualities and characteristics for solid, admirable success, as for happiness and the knowledge that you can assist others to have a happier life. You thrive under responsibility, can issue short, to-the-point suggestions, carry out measures that increase prestige, true advancement for community and peoples. You may be too quick at times, but are never dull; can be impatient with slower-thinking folks, so aim for restraint here. But never give up your forward-looking, strong-reform attitude. Slow down for rest occasionally.

CLOTHING for Lutheran World Relief should be taken to St. John's Lutheran Church or parish house no later than Dec. 10. After that date it will be taken to the Easton warehouse where it will be readied for shipment overseas.

Mrs. Thomas G. Hawkes and Mrs. Ethel O'Dea, of Bristol, spent the weekend at Hawkeshill.

Samuel Dunbar has been confined to his home due to illness.

The Sacrament of Holy Communion was administered to a large number of members and visitors at St. John's Lutheran Church on the second Sunday in Advent. Pastor Robert Zuch officiated. Acolyte for the service was Wayne Bond. Ushers were Joseph Dunbar and Robert Field.

Nazareth's Marsh Named To AP All-State Team

By Fred Walters

HARRISBURG (AP) — A first unit with speed, brains, size and versatility leads a squad of 39 players named Thursday to the 1960 Associated Press All-State Scholatic Football Team in a poll of sportswriters and sportscasters throughout the state.

Leading vote-getters in the backfield were Lock Haven's Hal (Bud) Yost and West Scranton's Cosmo Iacavazzi while Berwick end Kirk Kressler led the linemen.

Because of the closeness of the voting for certain positions, 12 men—including a fifth back — were named to each of the first two units and 15 to the third unit.

The champions of the state's two biggest conferences, Berwick in the East Penn and Beaver Falls of the WPIAL-AA, each placed two men on the first unit as did Redstone, a strong WPIAL-AA team which won seven, lost one and ended Johnstown's long winning string with a mid-season tie.

All Seniors

All the first unit choices are seniors.

The line averages 202 pounds from tackle-to-tackle and 198 from end-to-end; the backfield averages 179 pounds.

Kressler, 6-foot-2, 179-pounder called by his coach one of the fastest ends in his region, was joined at the end position by Tom Krzemienski, 6-foot-1½, 195-pounder for Beaver Falls who was the only unanimous choice on the Midwest Athletic Conference team in the WPIAL.

Chosen at tackle were 210-pounder Rich Arrington of Erie East, an even 6 feet, who was chosen at guard on last year's third unit, and Ray Rissmiller of Easton, biggest man on the team at 218 pounds and 6-foot-4. Rissmiller was second team tackle last year. He and Arrington were the only members from last year's squad on this year's team.

Redstone's Don Croftcheck, 6-feet-2, 210 pounds, the bulwark of a line that yielded an average of less than 10 points a game, was one guard choice, and Paul Beals, 5-foot-10, 170 pounder from Franklin, was the other.

Beals also distinguished himself in the classroom by leading his class of 250, scholastically. He also is rated an accomplished pianist and violinist.

At center is Joe Demelfi of Berwick, 4 feet 11, 204 pounds. His coach says he is an excellent diagnostician of plays on defense.

Yost gained 1,236 yards and scored 13 touchdowns in leading Lock Haven to an all-winning season (10-0). He is 6 feet 1, weighs 185 pounds.

Bread And Butter

Iacavazzi was, in his coach's words, "the bread and butter man" for a West Scranton team which won more games this past season-(11)-than any team in the state. In the East Penn playoff game last Saturday, Berwick built its victory around defenses geared to contain this 5-foot-11, 185-pound powerful running back.

Nazareth's Jeff Marsh, at 5-feet 8 and 160 pounds, is the smallest man on the team. He averaged over 7 yards a carry during the regular season. Berwick can attest to his ability: In Nazareth's season opening upset of the Bulldogs, Marsh scored all four of his teams touchdowns in a 26'-20 victory.

Chosen at quarterback were Fred Mazurek of Redstone and Joe Namath of Beaver Falls. They were only one point apart—Mazurek, 182; Namath, 181—in the balloting.

Mazurek, 5 feet 11, 195, pounds, is one of the most sought-after players in the state by the colleges. The story goes that his high school principal keeps his classroom record on his desk for handy reference, there have been so many inquiries. Mazurek, incidentally, is a straight "A" student.

Namath was a great sleight-of-hand artist in handling the football and as a passer threw for 12 touchdowns as Beaver Falls ran up an unbeaten-untied log in nine games.

Second Team

The second team choices were: Frank Gallagher, Chester St. James, and Mike Price, Lewistown, ends; Bob Sorochak, Kingston, and George Bohn, chief Logan, tackles; George Garrett, Pottsville, and Joe DeAntona West Scranton, guards; Gary Cryder, Lock Haven, center; Bill Gordon, DuBois; Jim Klein, Wyomissing; Jack Tinnick, Cambria Heights; Roy Brinkley, Kane, and Ken Stoudt, Lancaster, backs.

Gordon, Sorochak and Garrett were the leading vote-getters.

On the third team are: Sam Miller, DuBois; Dale Mitchell, Corry; Bill Malinchak, Monessen, and Willie Alford, Farrell, ends; Frank Metzger, Lancaster, and Ron Baughman, Franklin, tackles; Ron Bonomo, Wilkes-Barre GAR, and Nick Yewcic, Conemaugh, guards; Tom Kostelnik, Brownsville, center, and Jim Komara, Conneaut Valley; Fred Biletnikoff, Erie Tech; Frank Lankewicz, Butler; Nate Duckett, Central Bucks; Bernie Dallas, Germantown Academy, and Jack Stricker, Neshaminy, backs.

Metzger, in the line, and Komara, among the backs, were the leading choices.

Leading Honorable Mention:

Ends— Joe Novogratz, Northampton; Jim Tyson, Sayre; Ron Seder, Warren; John Spires, Arnold; Bob Grunden, West Deer.

Tackles — Ben Regoli, New Kensington; Dick Wing, Washington Twp.; Bob Shevlin, West Scranton; Matt Arbutina, Aliquippa; John Dorrough, Hazleton; Al Jodzio, Shamokin; Joe Ferrari, Coal Twp.; John Knee, Johnstown; James McBreen, Clifton Heights. Guards—Ellery Seitz, Bellefonte; Ken Minnig, West Hazleton; Ron Ham, Johnstown Catholic; Hal Lininger, Lock Haven; Marvin Mitchell, Philadelphia Northeast; John Milliren, Dubois; Dave Hackett, Pine-Richland. Centers —Marty Mariono, Old Forge; Tom Magdasy, Bethlehem; Bill Galella, West Scranton; Vince Witherup, Franklin; Frank Harshelewski, Plum Twp. Backs — Joe Debias, West Hazleton; Pete Duranko, Johnstown Catholic; George Solomon, Sayre; Nick Girardi, Arnold; Jack Terry, Allentown Allen; Jim Conley, Springdale; Jim McNeal, Sheffield; Joe Creazzo, Easton; Dave Namey, Washington Twp.; Russ Hendricks, Philadelphia Bonner; Tom Black, Washington Twp.; Bill Beck, Portage; Don Cogan, Conestoga.

Repeat Of Last Year's Finale

ESSC Shades Kings 82-80; Russ Hopewell Scores 30

EAST Stroudsburg State College and Kings took up where they left off last year, with East Stroudsburg squeezing out an 82-80 win at Normal Hill.

In last year's final game at East Stroudsburg, the Warriors won 80-79 in the closing seconds. It was the same way last night.

The Warriors held an 11 point lead midway through the final half but a Kings' full court press changed the picture completely in the next eight and a half minutes.

With only a minute and a half left in the game, Kings held a 78-70 lead.

Brilliant Performance

But Russ Hopewell, who turned in one of his most brilliant performances in his three-year varsity career floated in a jump shot for 30-feet out, to put East Stroudsburg back in front 79-78.

Hopewell scored 30 points and collected 18 rebounds. Every time the Warriors needed a basket, Hopewell came through. At one stretch, the 6-0 junior hit on six straight jump shots.

Hopewell collected 12 of his points in the first half, one less than teammate Scotty Weaver produced by the intermission break.

Weaver, who turned in his best game as a Warrior, scored consistently on drive shots underneath the basket.

Only Lead

Kings' brief lead late in the game was the only time it led in the second half. The Kingsmen held 4-1 and 4-3 leads early in the game.

A capacity crowd of some 1,400 fans never stopped screaming as the Warriors built up one lead after another only to have Kings whittle them down.

IT WAS the third win in as many outings for the Warriors, who now have a five game win streak, including two holdover games from last season.

Co-captain Tony Salerno and John Polanchak played brilliant floor games and added 26 points to the victory pot. Polanchak collected 15 points and Salerno 11.

Kwak Checked

Its in their passing and ball handling kept the Warriors alive. The pair also helped limit All-East Mike Kwak to 20 points. Kwak collected only seven goals from the floor and most of them were from the outside.

Weaver had the primary responsibility for stopping Kwak but he got "sagging" help from Salerno and Polanchak. Kwak had only nine points in the first half.

It was Polanchak's two foul shots and a third by Joe Habakus, who entered the game when Salerno fouled out with 1:15 left, that sealed the win.

Polanchak connected on both ends of a one-and-one situation. Both shots dangling on the rim before dropping in. The two points made it 81-78 East Stroudsburg.

Kwak followed with a lay-up to cut the lead to one point with three seconds left.

Habakus Fouled

Habakus was fouled in his back court and he stepped to the foul line for a one-and-one with three seconds left.

He hit the first but missed the second. The game ended with both teams battling for the ball under the Warrior goal.

It was not Kwak but Paul Nicelli and Bob Nugent that kept Kings in the game. Nicelli hit for 21 points before fouling out with three minutes left and Nugent, a 6-3 sophomore from Binghampton, N.Y., added 19.

The Warriors are at Trenton Saturday afternoon and go to Scranton University Wednesday night.

Barnum Putts His Way To 65 In Coral Gables Open

By WHITNEY MARTIN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Barnum, a husky in his late 40s from Grand Rapids, Mich., literally putted his way to a 6-under-par 65 and a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $20,000 Coral Gables Open golf tournament Thursday.

The big fellow went out in 32 and came back in 33 over the 6,173-yard Biltmore course, sinking putts of from 3 to 25 feet for birdies on seven greens and going over par only on the 11th hole.

Tied at 66 were Marty Furgol of Coghill, Ill., and former PGA champion Jim Turnesa of Rye, N.Y., with a quartet of sharpshooters deadlocked at 67. They are Tom Garrity of Kansas City, Mo.; Don Massingale of Jacksboro, Tex.; Gardner Dickinson Jr. of Palm Beach, Fla., and Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla.

Palmer Has 68

Eight more were tied at 68. The bracket included the ever-dangerous Sam Snead of Boca Raton, Fla., and the pretournament favorite, Arnold Palmer.

Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., winner of the West Palm Beach Open last Sunday who has been on a hot streak in his last four tournaments, produced no better than a par 71.

He had plenty of company in that bracket, including George Bayer, from South Pasadena, Calif., and former National Open champion Tommy Bolt of Crystal River.

The second round of the 72-hole event will be played Friday with the field cut to the low 60 and ties for the final two rounds.

LA Entry Picks Haney

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fred Haney, who spent most of his many years in baseball as a player and field manager, Thursday was named general manager of the Los Angeles Angels of the American League.

President Bob Reynolds made the announcement at a luncheon some 24 hours after Los Angeles was granted its franchise in the junior circuit.

"Insurance" Money Paid Norris Tells Probers

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—James D. Norris testified Thursday his International Boxing Clubs paid money to the woman who became Mrs. Frankie Carbo and to old-time manager Jack Kearns so his fight cards wouldn't be upset by cantankerous managers.

"We felt it necessary to employ effective goodwill representatives to help us," Norris said in a statement read behind closed doors to the Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee investigating underworld influence in pro boxing.

Norris's testimony on this point in general paralleled that of Truman Gibson, who was president of the clubs in Chicago and New York. The boxing clubs, once giants in fight promotion, were disbanded after the Supreme Court ruled they were monopolistic.

Norris was questioned in secret after it was determined his appearance at a public hearing might endanger his health. He has suffered two heart attacks.

Names Mentioned

Norris' statement, made public outside the hearing room, went into relationships with Carbo, Mrs. Carbo, Kearns, racketeer Frank (Blinky) Palermo, former bookie Max Courtney and Bill Rosensohn, who had a rough time in promoting the first fight between heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson.

The subcommittee has received testimony linking Norris with Carbo, reputedly the underworld czar of boxing. Carbo now is serving a prison term for illegal undercover fight operations.

Prior of Norris' appearance, Carmen Basilio's ex-managers — John DeJohn and Joseph Netro—testified the middleweight began getting into championship caliber fights after they started paying Gabe Genovese, pal of Carbo.

Norris said he had been introduced to Carbo by the late promoter Mike Jacobs in New York.

TV Obligations

Norris said the IBC had commitments with two television networks for boxing shows two nights a week.

But from the start, he said, he encountered trouble from New York boxing managers who he said banded together "with the result that we were harassed in many respects."

The subcommittee previously heard that Kearns received at least $137,000 and Viola Masters between $40,000 and $45,000 from subsidiaries of Norris' prizefight enterprises. Viola Masters married Carbo in 1956.

EAGLE BOOTER—Bobby Walston, 32-year-old end and field goal kicker for the Philadelphia Eagles, is shown at Philadelphia workout. Walston kicked the field goal which gave the Eagles a 31-29 win over Cleveland on Oct. 23, a game which Coach Buck Shaw says was the turning point of the season for the Eagles who went on to win the division title.

Pair Win Table Tennis Gold Medal

RALPH COSTANZO, of Pocono Summit and Pat Flaherty, of Tobyhanna, have won gold medals in the men's and women's singles championships respectively in Harvard Table Tennis Tournament at Coolbaugh Twp. School.

Both winners drove through five preliminary matches before defeating their respective runners-up in final. Costanzo defeated Larry Stiff for the championship, while Miss Flaherty, women's winner, defeated Saundra Keiper before 385 spectators.

Neil F. Polumbo, local tournament director, will present the Harvard Table Tennis Tournament Gold Medals and inscribed Tournament Award Certificates to both winners at a special award presentation ceremony.

Cardinals Sign Dayton Tackle

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals Thursday signed a University of Dayton tackle who was their future choice in the 14th round of the last National Football League draft meeting.

He is Robert de Marco, 22, a native of Wood-Ridge, N. J.

Whitehead, Jones Named Top Coaches

STROUD UNION High graduate Ben Jones, has been picked as the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference football "Coach of Year."

Jones' Berwick team won the conference title, defeating West Scranton last Saturday.

And former Stroud Union football coach John Whitehead has received a similar award for his coaching effort at Middletown, N. Y.

Whitehead's team posted a 6-1-1 record in a four-county conference and won the Class A state championship.

Woods, Beliveau Score Pins

Warrior Wrestlers Hand Lincoln U. 22-8 Beating

EAST Stroudsburg State College won a 22-8 wrestling decision from Lincoln University yesterday at Normal Hill but the match was much closer than the score shows.

And the Warriors will be without their 137-pound entry Don Schleicher, for possibly the rest of the season.

Schleicher dislocated his elbow in his match with Tom Bragg and had to default.

The injury came in the second period of the bout with the score tied 2-2.

Tie Match

The elbow snapped loose as Schleicher was trying to escape a Bragg hold near the edge of the mat.

The default, followed by an upset win by Lincoln's Bill Reese over Charlie Dentith, earned Lincoln an 8-8 tie after four events.

East Stroudsburg's Ken Nickischer decisioned John Haynes 2-0 in the 123 pound opener and Stan Woods pinned Les Butler at 5:58 in the 130 pound affair.

Woods held an 8-4 edge when he shot the pin. Woods built his edge on four takedowns but each time Butler countered with an escape.

The two straight Warriors wins and an 8-0 lead were erased by Lincoln's back-to-back victories.

Dentith, who won the State College title in 1955 but entered the Navy the following year, was behind from the opening minute. Dentith had a chance for a pin late in the match but time elapsed and Reese won 9-5.

Four Straight

After that it was strictly East Stroudsburg but several of the matches were close.

Hugh Lawrence scored a 3-1 decision over Ran Laurence and Pat Rock scored three near pins to take a 12-2 verdict from Bill Judson in the 167 bout.

John Topfer won another squeaker for the Warriors. He picked up a reversal soon after the opening of the second period and made it stand up for a 2-0 win over John Tull in the 177 pound battle.

Freshman Jan Beliveau, trailing 2-0 at the start of the second perio, turned a reversal into a quick pin. Beliveau, who won 21 straight New Jersey high school matches last year, used a body press to pin heavyweight Tom Edwards at the 4:43 mark.

RESULTS

123 Ken Nickischer (ESSC) dec. John Haynes, 2-0
130 Stan Woods (ESSC) pinned Les Butler 5:58, reverse nelson, body ride.
137 Tom Gragg (L) won by default from Don Echleicher (injurya
147 Bill Reese (L) dec. Charlie Dentith 9-5
1557 Hugh Lawrence (ESSC) def. Ran Laurence, 3-1
167 Pat Rock dec. Bill Judson 12-2
177 John Topfer (ESSC) dec. John Tull 2-0
Hvy. Jan Beliveau (ESSC) pinned Tow Edwards 4:43 body press.

Thompson Feels He Has 2 Fights On Saturday Night

NEW YORK (AP) — "I have two fights to fight Saturday night," said Argentina's Federico Thompson Thursday about his 15-round title bout with world welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba at Madison Square Garden.

"One's against Paret and the other is against you fellows who call me a lazy fighter," said Thompson. "That lazy part is unfair. A good boxer never wastes punches. He tries to make every one count."

The "lazy" tag was applied to Thompson hereabouts after he fought a 12-round draw with the busy little Cuban in his New York debut last March 25. Everyone agreed the 33-year-old Argentine was a good fighter but most called him a "good, lazy fighter."

No Fault

"I have no fault to find with that draw decision," said Thompson, "but I've got to do something about the lazy part. I've got to offset all this talk. This time I'll carry the fight to him. After all, he's got the title so I have to go get it if I'm going to win.

"I plan to be the attacker and the counter-puncher. I don't usually fight that way but I've got to stop them from calling me lazy."

Both Thompson and Paret wound up their training Thursday for the nationally televised (ABC) bout.

Pitt vs. Colgate In Hoop Event

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Defending champion Pitt will play Colgate and Duquesne will oppose Tennessee in the opening games of this year's basketball Steel Bowl, officials announced this week.

The 10th annual event will be played Dec. 16 and 17 at the Pitt Field House.

In last year's bowl, Pitt upset St. John's in the opener and then walloped neighboring Duquesne 75-44 for the title. The Panthers and Dukes have met in the tourney final six of the past seven seasons.

Law's Ankle Will Be Ready

PITTSBURGH)ap) — Vernon Law's injured right ankle should be 100 per cent sound by spring training, Dr. Joseph Finegold, the Pittsburgh Pirates' team physician, said Thursday.

Law, the Pirates' ace right-hander, arrived in town Wednesday and was examined by Dr. Finegold and Dr. Alfred Ferguson of the University of Pittsburgh.

Law injured the ankle just before the start of the World Series.

John Sellers, who rode Carry Back and T.V. Lark to numerous stakes victories in 1960, will ride at the Florida tracks this winter. He lives in Miami, Fla.

Coaches From 8 Schools On All-Stars

COACHES from eight area high schools will make up the Pocono All-Star Coaches team that meets the Harlem Komedy Kids in a basketball game at East Stroudsburg State College Wednesday at 8:30.

Stroud Union will have four players on the squad, Bob Wert, Walt Bjorn, Wilmont Smith and Dick Merring. Doug Schoonover will represent East Stroudsburg. The other coaches are Dale Baker, Bangor; Al Shollenberger, Barrett; Bill Frear, Pleasant Valley; John Bush, Tobyhanna; Harry Werkheiser, Pocono Twp. and John Melham, Pius X.

The game is being sponsored by Pocono Sports Promotion. Tickets are available from members of the East Stroudsburg State College Varsity "S" Club.

Almost all of the coaches have had college experience, Wert, a standout performer at Catasauqua High School and Elizabethtown High School, has held a double figure scoring average in local recreation league since he began coaching.

Against the Harlem Magicians, Wert hit for 19 points, second to only Marques Haynes of the Magicians, Wert connected for four long set shots, that brought applause from even Haynes.

Melham scored 39 points in a faculty-varsity game at Pius Thursday.

The high scorer in the Eastern Professional League, Hal (King) Lear, heads the Komedy Kids. Lear, who plays for Easton, has averaged 42.6 points a game. He has averaged about 45 points a game for the Komedy Kids.

And another Kid, Ray (Chink) Scott, is the eighth highest scorer in the Eastern League. Scott, who plays with Allentown, has a 28.7 average.

Jordan Loses Attempt To Block Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Former champion Don Jordan Wednesday lost in his last attempt to block the Benny (Kid) Paret-Federico Thompson welterweight title fight when the U.S. Court of Appeals upheld a lower court decision which denied his request for an injunction against the Cuban Kid.

The decision leaves Paret free to depend the title against Thompson, a relative newcomer from the Argentine, at Madison Square Garden Saturday night. It will be Paret's first defense since winning the crown from Jordan last May.

Jordan, from Los Angeles, had contended the contract for that Last Vegas fight called for a rematch and he sought to keep Paret from defending against anyone else first.

Government To Change Income Tax Procedures

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is working on two major changes in federal income tax procedures. If both innovations are adopted, millions of people will be affected and many will pay less taxes.

One change is definitely in the works. The Internal Revenue Service will announce shortly a new tax form to be used by certain taxpayers who itemize their medical deductions. This form will be used by those 65 or older or who support parents in that age group.

The new form stems from a 1960 law which, for the first time, allows bigger deductions for those who pay the medical bills of dependent parents.

The second change still is under consideration. Revenue people are debating whether to issue special tables telling how much may reasonably be deducted on federal tax returns for paying state sales taxes.

This is a problem that has long troubled many taxpayers who itemize deductions but don't keep accurate records of sales tax payments. They often underestimate their payments and in such cases, would lessen their taxes by following the proposed tables.

If the idea is adopted, tables will be issued for each of the 34 states, plus the District of Columbia, which levy sales taxes. The tables would list varying amounts arranged according to different income groups and family sizes. They could not be used to estimate local sales taxes which also are deductible on federal returns.

The new medical deduction form —No. 2948—will cover both sides of a single sheet. Those using this form will file it in addition to their regular tax return. It will cover only medical items.

The IRS is printing five million copies of the new form and will distribute them to all its field offices by Dec. 20.

Most taxpayers may deduct only those medical expenses which exceed 3 per cent of their adjusted gross income. However, in a case where either husband or wife is 65 or older, the 3 per cent rule is waived for both.

The new law also waives the rule for that portion of a taxpayer's medical expenses which are attributable to a dependent parent 65 or older. The 3 per cent rule still applies to the expenses of the taxpayer himself if he is under 65.

Copies of the proposed sales tax tables have been distributed to district offices. District directors have until the end of next week to file comments or objections. Revenue officials said these comments will largely determine whether the tables are adopted.

Jointure Seeks Extension Of Time To Meet Orders

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — The State Industrial Board yesterday scheduled a hearing Dec. 14 at its offices here on a petition of Pocono Mountain Joint School Board for an extension of time to comply with orders of the State Department of Labor and Industry to meet fire hazard regulations in seven of the district's schools.

Schools against which the department issued orders for changes to eliminate fire hazards are Mount Pocono elementary school at Mount Pocono, Paradise Township elementary school at Swiftwater, Jackson Township elementary school at Reeders and the combination high and elementary schools of Tobyhanna Township at Pocono Pines, Barrett Township at Cresco, Coolbaugh Township at Tobyhanna and Pocono Township at Tannersville.

The joint school board petitioned for an extension of time to meet department orders on all the schools to the scheduled completion of a school construction program when a change in occupancy of district schools will be made.

In the board's petition, submitted by its secretary David E. Nelson, the state board was advised that it is expected that the new junior-senior high school will be ready for occupancy in September, 1961.

It was pointed out that with the opening of the new high school, plans of the local school board call for the closing of the three elementary school buildings which orders have been issued to eliminate fire hazards.

The state board was also informed that at that time work will be started on converting all the combination high-elementary school buildings into elementary centers and that in the process of making the conversion, fire hazards listed for correction by the Department of Labor and Industry would be eliminated.

Included in the orders issued by the department were requirements to install emergency lighting systems in most of the school buildings and to fire proof basement ceilings in two cases. Orders also provided for fireproofing internal stairs.

The local school board advised the state board that it has purchased lighting systems and has arranged for their installation.

Police Escort Baby To Philly Hospital

STATE POLICE of three area sub-stations combined yesterday to provide a fast escort for a Milford boy being taken to Philadelphia's Children's Hospital.

Troopers from Stroudsburg, Milford and Lehighton cooperated on the escort from Milford to the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Another detail took over there.

The boy was identified by a neighbor as David Selnick, approximately two months old. The hospital last night declined to give any information on his illness or condition, except to say that he is alive.

State Police at Milford said the escort was requested by a John Selnick, of Milford, apparently a relative of the sick child.

The convoy—a State Police car and an automobile carrying the boy—passed through Stroudsburg about 2:30 p.m.

Judge Bodie Plans To Retire

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP)—Judge Clarence E. Bodie, 68, announced Thursday he will retire from the Wayne County Court bench at the end of his present court term Jan. 1, 1962.

Bodie, a director of the American Automobile Association, is serving his second 10-year term as judge.

Manufacturers Change Pleas

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The federal government Thursday wrapped up one of its biggest criminal antitrust cases as America's largest electrical manufacturers, accused of price-fixing and bid-rigging, changed innocent pleas to guilty of some charges and no defense to others.

The indictments, initiated last February, involved annual sales of heavy electrical equipment—mainly to local, state and federal agencies and public utilities—of about $2 billion.

Only one individual defendant pleaded innocent. Charges against another were dropped.

Bold New Venture

U.S. Retains Naval Base On Trinidad

CROWN POINT, Tobago (AP)—The United States will retain its naval base at Chaguaramas on the island of Trinidad for 17 years, it was agreed at talks ending here Thursday.

The base is one of those Britain leased to the United States in the deal that delivered 50 old U.S. destroyers to the British early in World War II. Renegotiation was brought on by the new autonomous status of the former British West Indies colonies.

Chaguaramas is the only active U.S. naval base in the south Caribbean.

Abandon Some Land

Under a new agreement covering Trinidad and Tobago, however, the United States will abandon some 21,000 acres leased under the 1941 U.S.-British treaty arranged by Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

A communique said the areas retained by the United States for 17 years would enable the U.S. naval station at Chaguaramas to carry out "important defense and electronic research missions."

The agreement followed talks in London last month that emphasized the right of the West Indies to form its own alliances on attaining independence and also its willingness to play its part in the defense of the Western Hemisphere.

The American ambassador to Britain, John Hay Whitney, came here for the negotiations.

Defend Sunday Closing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of three states told the Supreme Court Thursday there is nothing unconstitutional about laws which prohibit or restrict commercial activities on Sunday.

Spokesmen for Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Maryland all denied that their Sunday closing or Blue Laws are aimed at enforcing a mandatory day of worship.

The court's decision on the validity of the Sunday laws also will affect appeals pending from Ohio and South Carolina.

A three-judge federal court in Boston has struck down a Massachusetts Blue Law, and another in Philadelphia upheld a similar Pennsylvania law. Both conflicting rules were before the court Thursday.

Claim Hardships

Opponents of the laws generally contended during two days of debate before the high court that they create severe hardships for Orthodox Jews and others who observe a day other than Sunday as a Sabbath.

Theodore R. Mann, representing five Orthodox Jews who operate stores in Philadelphia, said a 1959 state statute forbidding Sunday sales of certain items operates in a ruinous manner against Jews who observe a Sabbath beginning at sunset on Friday.

In effect, Mann said, the laws give his clients "a choice of going out of business . . . or of giving up or substantially compromising their faiths."

Day Off Statute

David Berger, Philadelphia city solicitor, told the court the state law is nothing more than "a day off statute," enacted for social and economic reasons having nothing to do with religion.

Berger said it was passed to prevent fierce competition in Pennsylvania stores which would have ended in "everyone having to work seven days a week."

Similar attacks on laws of Maryland and Pennsylvania stem from activties of Two Guys from Harrison—Allentown, Inc., a discount firm operating in both states.

Temperatures Fall; Snow Does, Too

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A biting wind and some of the coldest temperatures of the season chilled Pennsylvanians Thursday as a cold wave moved across the state, touching off snow flurries and resulting in two deaths.

(The temperature dropped to 17 degrees in Stroudsburg early this morning and seemed headed for its lowest reading of the season. The cold wave moved in on the heels of two "snow showers," one yesterday morning and the other early last night).

A tractor-trailer jackknifed during a wet snowfall near Easton and crashed into a car, killing Sterling Campbell, 46, and his son, Clifford, 18, of Palmer Township, Northampton County.

Hazardous driving conditions were reported in other sections of the state due to the snow flurries that accompanied the cold air.

The front dumped two inches of snow on Kane, in northwestern Pennsylvania, and a steady snowfall was reported in Lansdale, in eastern Pennsylvania.

Fields and mountainsides in Fayette County were covered with a light layer of snow.

Anti-Castro Insurgents Land In Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—Armed invaders were reported Thursday to have landed on Cuba's north coast near the town of Corralillo Tuesday and engaged government troops and militiamen in a furious battle.

There was no confirmation of the reports but anti-Castro sources insisted they were correct.

Earlier the government claimed it had destroyed a band of insurgents in a battle at Cabanas only 32 miles west of Havana. Corralillo is a few miles east of the Matanzas-Las Villa border to the east of Havana.

Rumors of fighting in the Corralillo area about 100 miles east of Havana have been current for the past two days. There was no indication of the strength of the reported invaders.

Troops

Some claimed to have seen truckloads of heavily armed government militiamen diverted toward Corralillo while en route to the Escambray Mountains in the southern Las Villas province.

Military authorities were still turning back civilians and foreigners trying to visit the hilly areas of Pinar Del Rio province where Castro forces reported they had cleaned up a pocket of resistance and captured a defecting Cuban army officer.

Other unconfirmed but widely heard reports said a bomb exploded Sunday in the control room of the expropriated Shell Oil Co. refinery, causing heavy damage.

The reports said the explosion put the control room out of operation, forcing refinery workers to resort to manual operations. The closely guarded refinery now is operated as part of the Castro regime's nationalized oil industry since its seizure along with other foreign refineries last summer.

The government manager at the refinery said only that the refinery is functioning and prepared to export gasoline.

Khrush Still Confined To Home By Flu

MOSCOW (AP) — Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet first deputy premier, told Western newsmen Thursday Premier Khrushchev is feeling better but remains confined to his home with influenza.

Khrushchev was well enough to have a bedside visit with Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, vice president of the United Arab Republic, who is touring the Soviet Union.

They discussed expansion of friendly relations and economic cooperation, the Tass news agency said.

Mikoyan chatted with newsmen at a reception at the Finnish Embassy. He gave no details of the premier's condition except to say he is getting along better.

Khrushchev lives outside central Moscow, in the Lenin Hills. He was unable to attend a reception Wednesday for the Chinese Communist delegation headed by Premier Liu Shao-chi.

Bomb In Car Kills Owner

NEW YORK (AP) — A young man walked to his car Thursday in a quiet residential section of Queens and stepped in under the wheel, settled back and turned on the ignition.

With a roar, a bomb that had been fixed under the floor shattered the white convertible, smashed the legs and mangled the body of the driver, Kenneth Feinberg, 26. He gasped, struggled for air, and in a few minutes slumped back dead.

Lost Soldier Found

Deer Hunter Missing

ONE of two hunters reported missing in the Monroe County woods last night, with temperatures below freezing, was found at 11 p.m. when he came out of the woods near where rescue squads were hunting him at Tobyhanna State Park.

SP-4 Donald Stankiewicz of the 510th Signal Co., stationed at Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot had been missing about eight hours when he wandered out of the woods after sighting the red flashing light on the Tobyhanna Township ambulance.

He was taken to the Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot dispensary for medical examination and a depot spokesman said he was cold but in good condition.

Stankiewicz had been hunting in Tobyhanna State Park off Route 490 when he became lost.

Still missing at a late hour was Lamar Davis, 1517 Valley Rd., Bethlehem. He had been hunting in the Brady's Lake region with a man identified by State Police of the Fern Ridge barracks as Merrill Bowden of Hellertown.

Bowman reported him missing when they failed to get together at dusk.

The Tobyhanna Signal Depot's rescue squad of 25 men, under command of Lt. James J. Fitzpatrick Jr., began their search for Stankiewicz at 10:15 p.m.

Stroud Firemen Called To Home

STROUD Township Fire Co. was called to the home of James Dailey near Pinebrook, just north of Stroudsburg, late last night to fight a chimney fire.

Firemen used soda and acid extinguishers to fight the fire.

A fire company spokesman said the damage was very light.

The men and the trucks returned to the fire house at 12:20 a.m. today.

Churches Call For Removal Of Denominational Barriers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An appeal to the churches to break through the walls of denominationalism was issued Thursday by the National Council of Churches. They were urged to work for "full unity, visible and invisible, of the people of God."

"A divided church cannot proclaim convincingly a gospel of reconciling love," declared a key message adopted by the council's triennial general assembly.

It called denominational barriers a sin, saying: "Not the churches' diversity but their separation from one another is the heart of this sinfulness."

The assembly, representing most of the nation's major Protestant and Orthodox churches, urged these steps in efforts to achieve full unity:

1. Further development of "corporate and common ministeries" serving all churches.

2. Recognition that interdenominational councils, on local or other levels, "partake of the nature of the church."

3. Acknowledgement by each denomination of "the authenticity of Christian discipleship in all the others" and a willingness to trust them in caring for human souls.

4. Action by all churches in each community to "live and act together as one church in one place."

"Every congregation needs to recognize itself first of all as a part of Christ's universal church and only thereafter as a representative of a particular historic tradition," the pronouncement said.

Action on it came just before the assembly elected as president J. Irwin Miller, a scholarly Indiana business man and a leading lay figure in the Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ).

He will be the first layman to hold the post. It is the highest office in American interdenominational affairs.

The message, the main pronouncement of the week-long assembly representing 33 denominations with 40 million members, applauded the growing ecumenical movement for Christian unity.

Monetary Fund Aids U. S. Cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Monetary Fund has sold the United States $300 million of gold, boosting the American bullion holding for the first time in many months.

The IMF said it made the transaction in order to obtain dollars to invest in short-term Treasury securities. It said it wanted to convert some of its gold into Treasury IOU's in order to earn interest on part of its reverses.

Since June 30, foreign nations have purchased about $1.4 billion of American gold which has given rise to some fears that a "run" on gold might develop. The foreign purchases cut the U. S. gold supply to $17,882,000,000 as of last Monday.

It's Marriage Or Divorce, Bride-To-Be Tells Durante

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of showbiz' longest engagements is due to end next week with the marriage of Mr. James Durante to Miss Margaret Little, formerly of Plainfield, N.J.

They have dated 15 years, been formally engaged the past four. They have several times set the wedding date, only to postpone it. This time, they say, it's for sure.

"I believe every couple should take time to learn each other's faults," the bridegroom philosophized. "And I got a million of 'em."

What finally impelled him toward the altar?

"I figure ya oughta get married when you're still young," replied the 67-year-old comedian.

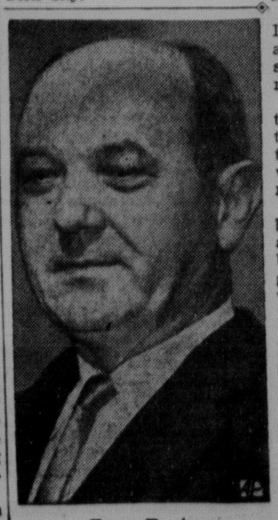

His bride, 39, was more specific: "I told him we were either going to get married—or I was getting a divorce."

The romance of the long-time widower and the tangerine-haired former Miss New Jersey State Fair began 15 years ago when he was headlining the Copacabana in New York and she was manning the telephone switchboard.

She graduated from the switchboard to the chorus line and was imported to Hollywood by producer Joe Pasternak. By chance, or what ever means, she ended up in a movie starring Durante, "Two sisters from Boston."

"I wrote my family to watch for my one line and not to sneeze or they would miss me," she recalled. "They saw it four times and still couldn't find me. I had been cut out and Jimmy was afraid to tell me."

Her career ended, but the romance continued. Her recent conversion to Durante's faith, Catholicism, helped hasten a decision. They expect to be married Dec. 14 at St. Malachy's, the actor's church, on 49th St. in New York City.

Dean Rusk

Truman Aide Considered For Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — President - elect John F. Kennedy Thursday asked Adlai E. Stevenson to serve as ambassador to the United Nations. Stevenson said he would consider it.

Kennedy met with Stevenson after conferring at his Georgetown home with Dean Rusk, who has been described as a leading contender for the top Cabinet post of secretary of state.

Rusk declined to tell newsmen whether he and Kennedy had discussed a possible role for him in the new administration. They were together about 45 minutes. Rusk said the talk dealt with foreign affairs generally and especially "organization of the government to carry out our foreign policy."

Heads Foundation

Rusk, a 51-year-old Democrat who served as assistant secretary of state in the Truman administration, is now head of the Rockefeller Foundation with headquarters in New York.

Kennedy's announcement that he was offering the U.N. role to Stevenson ended speculation about the 1952-56 Democratic standard-bearer.

Kennedy still has seven regular Cabinet posts to fill. He has so far named Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina to be secretary of commerce, Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut to be secretary of health, education and welfare and Rep. Stewart L. Udall of Arizona to be secretary of the interior.

Much speculation now centers on the posts of secretary of the treasury, secretary of defense and attorney general.

White Weighs Offer

One of those mentioned for attorney general, or for solicitor general, attorney Byron (Whizzer) White of Denver, was a Kennedy caller Thursday. He said Kennedy offered him a job—he didn't say what job—and said he was thinking it over.

Robert F. Kennedy, the president-elect's brother and campaign manager, remains in the attorney general picture.

Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. was reported to have been asked by a group of foreign students about reports that Kennedy might retain him, even though he is a Republican.

Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state in the Eisenhower administration, and Robert S. McNamara, president of the Ford Motor Co., continue to be mentioned as possibilities for secretary of the treasury.

Adlai Considering

Stevenson withheld a public decision, saying he wanted to talk it over further. He emphasized, however, that "I have tried to make it clear that I want to help."

Kennedy called the assignment one of the three or four most important jobs in the administration and said: "I can think of no man who would fill this post with greater distinction."

In one major announcement, Kennedy said he will ask Congress to create a Cabinet Department of Urban Affairs, to handle problems peculiar to city dwellers.

Stevenson, former governor of Illinois, got a rousing cheer from a group of Georgetown University students and others when he arrived at the Kennedy home.

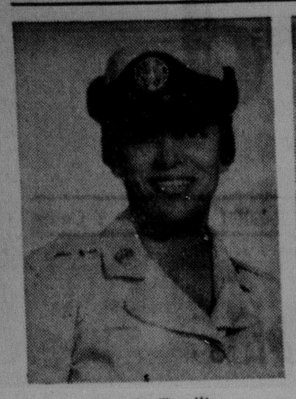

After the conference Stevenson told newsmen he had not sought the U.N. assignment, and one of the things he wanted to consider was a strengthening of the U.S. mission.

Kennedy said the mission must be expanded and strengthened, adding, "Our ambassador to the United Nations must play a greater role in making policy as well as expressing it."

Next Week

When Stevenson said he did not know how long it would take to reach a decision, Kennedy broke in to say that he hopes everything will be settled by the middle of next week.

The post of ambassador to the U.N. is now held by James J. Wadsworth, who took over when Henry Cabot Lodge resigned last August to run for Vice President on the Republican ticket.

Allegheny To Lead GOP

HARISBURG (AP) — A young Allegheny County representative —showing surprising strength — was elected yesterday as the leader of the 100-member House Republican delegation for the 1961 session.

Rep. Willard Agnew of Aspinwall, defeated 1960 leader Rep. Albert W. Johnson, McKean, by a vote of 56-35 and immediately promised vigorous leadership.

"We will have a positive legislative program that we will fight for with everything a vigorous minority can command," said the four-term Allegheny County legislator who will be 36 on Dec. 30.

Agnew, an attorney, was elected over the veteran McKean County lawmaker on a secret ballot during a three-hour closed-door session of the House Republicans.

Johnson, 54, an unsuccessful candidate last year for Superior Court, has served two terms as assistant floor leader and three terms as the House GOP leader.

The GOP caucus re-elected Rep. Edwin W. Tompkins, Cameron, as assistant floor leader. Tompkins defeated Rep. Reginald P. Stimmel, Lehigh, by a vote of 47-43.

Other officers of the GOP House minority were given another term without opposition. The caucus re-elected Reps. Norman Wood, Lancaster, as caucus chairman; Marian E. Markley, Lehigh, as caucus secretary, and W. Stuart Helm, as chairman of the GOP Policy Committee.

Helm, a former House speaker, also is expected to oppose 1960 Speaker H. G. Andrews, D-Cambria, in the opening day election for presiding officer.

Members of the Republican caucus who declined to be quoted said Agnew was elected because he would "keep (Rep. Steven) McCann on his toes."

McCann, of Greene County, is floor leader of the Democratic majority.

Hunters' Death Toll Reaches 12

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 12 deer hunters have been reported killed since the start of the 12-day deer season last Monday. Seven of the deaths were caused by bullet wounds and the other five were attributed to over-exertion.

"It's running a little ahead of last year," said M. J. Golden, executive director of the State Game Commission. "I think we had five (shooting fatals) at this time last year.'

Dec. 17 Last

The deer season runs through Saturday, Dec. 17, excluding Sunday. Does will be legal the last day of the regular buck season.

"It is so unpredictable I am unable to come up with a reason why" the fatality total should be higher, Golden said.

"We have done a lot of safety education work," he added, "but a thing like this develops and you wonder why."

Seven hunters were killed the first day, including four from shootings and three from heart attacks.

Bad Weather Causes Crash

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP)—A truck driver was injured Thursday in a skidding crash of his tractor-trailer and another truck on a snow-slick section of the Pennsylvania Turnpike near here.

Herbert Eugene Bunn, 32, of Lorain, Ohio, suffered multiple injuries, including a head injury. He was listed in fair condition at Providence Hospital here.

State police said Bunn was thrown from the cab of his truck when it crashed into another tractor-trailer that had skidded and jackknifed across both westbound lanes of the turnpike near the Sewickley Township Interchange.

The driver of the other truck, Charles Berkey, 33, of Johnstown, Pa., escaped injury.

Court Defers Sentencing Of Two Men

JUDGE Fred W. Davis yesterday deferred sentencing on two men who pleaded guilty to burglary charges in Monroe County Court.

They are Richard C. Gilliland, 24, of 338 Merten St., East Stroudsburg, and Harold Strunk, 25, Analomink.

They were indicted by a grand jury Monday for the Aug. 21 daylight burglary of the home of Miss Florence Bush, 905 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Pleads Guilty

Costa X. Poulas, East Stroudsburg, RD 1, pleaded guilty to four counts of selling liquor to minors and was sentenced to a $100 fine and costs on each count.

State Democrats Spent $873,714

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Democratic State Finance Committee reported Thursday it spent $873,714 in the November election campaign.

In a report filed with the State Elections Bureau, the committee listed income at $941,649, leaving a balance of $67,935 unspent.

Major $1,000 contributors to the committee included Gov. Lawrence, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, Secretary of the Commonwealth John S. Rice, Gerald Flood, Thomas Z. Minehart and Grace Sloan. The latter three were successful candidates for statewide office.

The Democratic State Committee also filed its report, listing income of $231,959 and expenditures of $243,694, for a deficit of $11,735.

State Should Reconsider Proposed Plan For Detour

We fear the State Highways Department made a serious mistake, one that might easily have fatal consequences, when it established the detour for Route 611 traffic in South Stroudsburg.

The detour is scheduled to go into effect next Monday when work starts on the reconstruction of the southern half of the Seventh St. bridge over the new Stroudsburgs Thruway. It will continue in effect throughout the Winter.

As presently set up, the detour calls for northbound traffic to make a sharp right turn onto Broad St. at the foot of Foxtown Hill, a steep grade more than a half mile in length which is traversed heavily by both trucks and passenger cars.

The turn-off point is still on the grade. It is difficult to negotiate a heavy vehicle around the curve when the highway is dry. We shudder to think of the accidents that are certain to occur this Winter when the roads become slicked with ice and snow—or even rain.

The chief danger comes in vehicles descending the hill too fast to make the curve in their own lane, either because of the driver misjudging his speed or having faulty brakes. They would crash head-on into southbound traffic about to move onto Foxtown Hill from Broad St.

Refusal to recognize the potential danger just cited is to ignore the dozens of accidents, similarly caused, which have occurred one block farther west on Morningside Ave. where traffic swings right into Park Ave.

Instead of having traffic turn right onto Broad St., we propose that traffic continue as at present to Park Ave., thence one short block north where it would turn right on the extension of Clermont Ave., which would be made a one-way street until it joined Broad St.

Southbound traffic on Broad St. would turn right on Bryant St. one block, then left on Park Ave. and left again on Morningside Ave. Bryant St. also would become a one-way street between Park and Broad.

Such a pattern, we feel, would eliminate the dangerous condition now proposed for the Broad-Morningside intersection.

It is substantially the same plan proposed by Police Chief John B. Tretheway, but turned down by two State Highways Department engineers, both supposedly experts in highway safety.

Their reason for establishing the announced plan, we understand, is to avoid paying for borough streets damaged while the detour is in effect. If that is their only reason, we strongly urge that they reconsider.

After all, how can anyone reckon the value of only one life lost in a traffic accident against the damages the state would have to pay for maintaining two blocks of borough streets? And let's not wait for someone to get killed at the intersection before coming up with the safest possible plan for the detour.

Less Wizardry, Please

Electronics are fine, we suppose, as long as they stay in their place. But it occurs to us that somewhere along the line advancement becomes encroachment.

Such as that newest of scientific marvels, the telephone that follows you around.

If there are two things a great many of us do not want more than anything else, both of them are these electronic ferrets. Sure, they say you have to tell the telephone where you're going before it can track you down.

But what with all this scentific advancement, we are sure the next gadget on the list will be a device whereby the free-dance-lessons people can call us up any time we're within 12 feet of any telephone, anywhere. Perhaps by magnetic attraction. Or, more likely, magnetic repulsion.

Whatever it is that stationary engineers do, the thought here is that what they should do is keep this little boon to mankind stationary.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Bigger Wheat Hoard

Prior to the present harvest, the Government of the United States owned about 1,300,000,000 bushels of wheat. The 1960 crop increased this hoard. Altogether the surplus crops cost the taxpayer about $4,000,000,000 a year.

If there is to be a rationalization of government costs, something has to be done about farm surpluses. Whenever city persons write about agricultural problems, the farm experts contend that we do not know what we are talking about, which is an easy but meaningless answer.

We do know that taxes are unconscionably high and that food prices are ridiculously high and that the purchasing value of the dollar is low.

This the city dweller does know and he is not pleased about it. In fact, one of the first problems that the Kennedy Administration will have to tackle is the deterioration of urban life, the increase of slum areas, the rise of urban juvenile crime, the high cost of urban living and the blighting of suburban areas.

When the cost of food exceeds the ability of a family to live on its income, whether from earnings or charity (now euphemistically called relief), social and moral conditions in cities deteriorate.

The maintenance of farm prices contributes to the high cost of food. At the same time, the stockpiling of food serves no useful purpose except to place an increasing burden of taxes upon the necks of a people whose currency is decreasing in value.

This, then, is what the country faces. The Eisenhower Administration has made no effort to deal with this problem, much less solve it. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson made some startling moves, but he was unsupported by his colleagues who could not stand up against the waves of strongly expressed unpopularity.

In fact, although what is known as the farm vote is no longer decisive as the 1960 election established, the historic memory on the subject differs from reality.

Actually, this problem cannot be contained in the Department of Agriculture. Any solution must include the State Department which must concern itself with protests from such countries as Canada (wheat and cheese) and Denmark (butter) that are worried over our dumping large quantities of surplus foods upon world markets or to feed the hungry in Asia and Africa who cannot afford to pay our prices.

It must include the Department of Commerce for identical reasons. It is no longer possible to deal with these broad problems as though they were the private domain of some officials. Food is a national problem and the Treasury must have something to say about the value of our currency and the prospect of taxes.

In a word, when a country holds $4,000,000,000 of frozen crops it has so much of its liquid wealth tied up in a dead man's fist, which it cannot employ for useful purposes.

President-elect Kennedy's father, Joseph, was a member of both Hoover Commissions which made a very serious attempt to find out what was wrong with a paralyzed executive branch of government that could not deal with problems that faced it and that required immediate action. Brother Robert was a member of the staff of one of the Hoover Commissions.

It is to be hoped that some of the findings and some of the conclusions are retained in the memories of these men and of Jack who, as Senator, handled some of the bills proposed for enactment. At any rate, a vast amount of material is available in these commissions which can be useful in handling these particular problems to the benefit of both the urban and the rural populations.

Poverty, in a rich country such as ours still is, can only be the product of faulty organization and bad distribution. These can be corrected by keen minds and strong wills. President Kennedy cannot fall back either on the needs of the Roosevelt Administration or the inability of the Eisenhower Administration to act.

He will have to make a new agricultural program of his own, consistent with his general economic program, progressive and daring and related to the welfare of both the urban and rural populations. If he cannot do this, the big cities will be in trouble and so will Mr. Kennedy.

As the population switch has been to the big cities, this situation will have to be dealt with realistically.

The Pennsylvania Story

Batt's Task

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — When Pennsylvania's Secretary of Labor and Industry William L. Batt earlier this week was named by President-elect Kennedy as one of 11 members of a special committee to study the chronic unemployment problem that in particular has plagued the Keystone State, it was neither sheer coincidence nor a fluke.

The 44-year-old cabinet member long has been in the forefront in fighting for heavy and strong corrective measures, particularly from a national assistance level, to combat chronic unemployment in hard pressed economic areas of the state.

From the interesque standpoint when President-elect Kennedy this week named Harvardman Batt to the select committee, this column could not help but recall a letter we had received from the Labor and Industry chief back on Nov. 9 in commenting on one of our columns a short time earlier on the subject of unemployment in Pennsylvania.

Said Mr. Batt — nearly one month prior to his appointment to the special Kennedy committee—in his letter:

"Now that the election is out of the way, and Congress is about ready to reconvene, the necessity for renewed efforts on area redevelopment legislation is upon us again.

"I am sure that if there had been a national equivalent of PIDA (Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority, which financially and otherwise helps garner new industries for hard pressed areas), such as would have been provided under the Douglas-Clark Flood Area Redevelopment Bill (S-772), the picture in Pennsylvania and throughout the nation would have been much brighter, and the task of the incoming President less burdensome."

N. B. and "now hear this" to Bill Batt: At long last you are in direct position to work strongly and accomplish something in this critically important field . . . To re-quote you in your letter—"Now that the election is out of the way . . ."

Ye Yule Spirit — When they raised Pennsylvania's "official" Christmas trees on Capitol Hill here this week—one fifty-foot Hemlock on the Capitol Steps and a 30-foot Spruce in the Rotunda inside—Secretary of Property and Supplies Andy Bradley and his brood of "helpers" unquestionably strained at the reins.

To light up the trees in proper yule fashion for example, it was necessary to string not merely a few hundred feet of wire—but a couple of miles . . . And for Christmas tree lighting — there are about a thousand lights festooning the big shrubs.

The huge hemlock tree incidentally came from a nearby state park while the indoor 30-foot Norway Spruce was donated by the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Assn. (They also gave one to grandfather Lawrence for use at the Executive Mansion at nearby Indiantown Gap Military Reservation.)

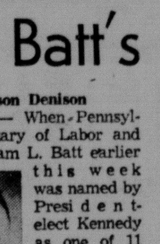

About 80 smaller trees that will sprout in the horde of offices around Capitol Hill have been garnered by the State Department of Forests and Waters . . . Sidenote: the formal lighting of the two "official" trees originally was scheduled for Dec. 19—but when it was recalled that this was the date of the convening of the Electoral College (to ballot for President), the date was changed to Dec. 20.

Up Periscope! — Of interest and concern to Pennsylvania taxpayers most certainly should be the notation that the state is "buying light" these days . . . Or at least that would seem to be the case judging by a purchase ordered processed the other day through the State Auditor General's office.

The purchase order called for $1405.50 worth of "feathers" for the Department of Health's Samuel G. Dixon State Hospital . . . It isn't a lot of fluff though — the feathers are to be used to stuff pillows at the institution . . . Department Comptroller Gerry Oswald insists the feathers are not "horsefeathers" either!

The Allen-Scott Report

Rocky Eyes 1964

and Paul Scott

By Robert S. Allen

Washington — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is taking some highly significant steps to make certain that he is in a strong strategic position to seek the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

In these decisive backstage moves, the New Yorker is making it emphatically clear, particularly to GOP insiders, that his hat is definitely in the White House ring.

Confronting him are a number of tough hurdles; foremost among them Vice President Nixon's hopes to run again, and Rockefeller's own re-election in 1962. If he doesn't win another gubernatorial term, his 1964 presidential aspirations will be torpedoed forthwith.

But while fully aware of these and other big ifs, Rockefeller is moving quickly and forcefully to offset them, as follows:

Easing out of the New York Republican organization all Nixon supporters and other leaders whose "reliability" is deemed questionable.

Putting several or more of his trusted backers in key offices in the Republican National Committee.

Similarly, installing other supporters on the staffs of the Senate and House Republican Campaign Committees and important legislative committees.

High in the list of those slated those slated for one of these very helpful congressional jobs is Rep. Albert Moreno, Conn. who was defeated in the November election. He was one of Rockefeller's earliest White House boosters.

On these significant backstage moves, the New York governor already has assurances of "cooperation" from a number of influential Republicans.

National Chairman Thruston Morton has agreed to bring Rockefeller partisans into the party's top headquarters. Exactly how many and what their functions, are still to be worked out.

In the House and Senate, the New Yorker has similar promises from a number of leading Republicans.

Rep. William Miller, N.Y., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee is cordially going along with this plan. Also heartily favoring it are Reps. Joseph Martin, Mass., former speaker and national chairman; James Fulton and John Saylor, Pa., who have long been Rockefeller partisans.

In the Senate, the New Yorker is being potently aided by Senators Jacob Javits, N.Y., Clifford Case, N. J., John Sherman Cooper, Ky., Alexander Wiley, Wis., Homer Capehard, Ind., and George Aiken, Vt.

Miller, Martin and Javits discussed these moves with Rockefeller the day he conferred in Washington with President Eisenhower and Nixon.

With the latter, Rockefeller did not go into these matters.

But he talked them over frankly with the GOP congressional leaders, who expressed full approval and promised their help. In these meetings, Rockefeller stressed one point.

"I'm starting early because I don't want to make the same mistake I did last time—getting into the campaign too late," he explained. "I am now fully convinced that if we had started in the spring of 1959, instead of November, the results might have been very different. This time I propose to be in on the ground floor at the very start and with as much organization and strength as possible. And the best way to do that is to start right away."

The congressional chiefs heartily concurred.

Not mentioned by Rockefeller is the fact that he still has intact, from his abortive 1958 presidential drive, skeleton organizations in a number of key centers throughout the country.

* * *

POLITICALS — President-elect Kennedy is discussing with aides a plan under which he would make bi-monthly TV-radio reports to the nation—along the lines of the late President Roosevelt's famed "Fireside Chats." Kennedy views such direct public reports as especially valuable for developing a "spirit of unity."

Definitely slated for a high position in the Kennedy administration is Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who went all-out for the president-elect, particularly in his hard-fought Wisconsin and West Virginia primaries that played key roles in his nomination. Young FDR has the potent backing of Bronx Democratic Leader Charles Buckley, who is saying, "He is a fine, young, and highly capable man who may yet occupy the governor's chair. He did an outstanding job for Kennedy and the Roosevelt name still has a lot of magic."

Rep. Aime Forand (D., R.I.), voluntaryiily retiring this year, is planning to keep busy writing two books about Congress. The author of the widely controversial medical care for the aged plan, will write one book about how to get elected to Congress, and the other about what to do if elected.

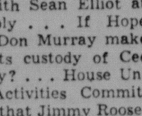

Former Gov. Alf Landon, Kansas, 1936 GOP Presidential standard-bearer, says the party must "get modern in outlook and basic policy."

He advises Republicans "to realize that we must adequately meet changing conditions and the many complex foreign and domestic problems. To me the election proves conclusively that the country wants leadership that thinks in terms of the highly uncertain future and not the nostalgic and unrestorable past."

Inside You And Yours

Bursitis Pains

Otto's heart attack turned out to be housemaid's knee of the shoulder. Doctors called it "bursitis."

Where one tissue rubs against another, nature supplies a lubricating pocket called "bursa."

Years of kneeling to scrub floors inflames the bursa in front of many a housemaid's knee. Years of delivering the mail inflamed the bursa on Otto's shoulder—bursitis.

As the inflamed bursa stretches and breaks, pain shoots down the arm, up the neck or across the chest, just like the pains of a heart attack!

Scraping Pebbles

Blood washes calcium into the inflamed area. Eventually, pebbles can be felt scraping against each other when the shoulder moves.

But the shoulder seldom moves, because every motion hurts. Rotating or raising the arm from your side can really make you see stars. A supporting sling can relieve more pain than a barrel of narcotics.

Stiffens And Freezes

Gradually, your shoulder stiffens until it freezes in place. All sorts of bone and joint antifreeze can prevent this frozen shoulder. Hot packs and heating pads soothe bursitis and loosen surrounding muscle spasms.

Massage and exercise can limber up the stiffening joint. Lean over the back of a chair, steadying yourself with the good arm. As the other arm dangles, swing it in circles, small at first, but gradually larger and larger. Painful twinges will warn you when to stop.

Even though you repeat this routine several times a day, defrosting that stiff shoulder still takes weeks or months. Soothing aspirin may speed this stretching. More powerful medicines like phenylbutazone (Butazolidin) often succeed when aspirin fails.

Speedy Cure

Jet-age drugs often cure bursitis at supersonic speed. Your doctor can inject the bursitis cocktail—one part hydrocortisone to five parts long-acting Novacain—into the tender area. Within a few minutes, you can swing your arm like a baseball pitcher without the slightest pain. You can probably work out all stiffness before the Novacain wears off and pain temporarily returns.

The hydrocortisone melts the inflammation and dissolves the calcium back into the blood stream.

Final Cure

When nothing seems to help, the surgeon can always separate you from your inflamed bursa.

Home remedies sometimes work better than injections and surgery.

Otto cushioned his painful bursa with a large wad of cotton before slinging his mailbag over the shoulder. This cotton wiped away every last trace of his bursitis!

I keep On Trying: Only hours after I ran the blind item about the permanent sidewalk encumbrance in front of a 2nd Ave. night club, the Living Room took it down. I'm curious about how no one noticed it all this time. In fact, I'm curious about lotsa things.

John Wayne got a laugh in Paris when he told reporters he only knows two words of French: Brigitte Bardot . . . At least half of the gentry there were related to each other by marriage or otherwise . . . It should be noted that while many who attended Apalachin do not have records, it is a fact that many people who do have records are related to the families of others with records through intermarriage. This is bringing about even tighter ties than the historic mutual interest ties of the Mafia. It is, in fact, setting up a whole new segment of society, just as the intermarriage of Wall St. Robber Barons of old produced what is now laughingly referred to as Society with a capital "S."

Q. I am a self-employed businessman and my father worked for me. May I pay social security taxes on his wages.

A. No, not at the present time. Wages paid to a father by a child are excluded by the Social Security Act; but beginning in January 1961 you will be required to pay social security taxes on his wages because the 1960 Amendments removed this exclusion.

S-burg Man Gets Patent On Improvement Of Shoes

JOSEPH D. Scala, 561 Oak St., Stroudsburg, was the recipient on Nov. 8, of U.S. patent 2,958,965, entitled "Junctures Between the Uppers and Outersoles of Shoes."

The invention pertains to improvements in the manufacture of shoes made with outersoles of rubber, plastic or any of the various synthetic resilient moldable materials that are suitable for the purpose.

Shoes of this type include the shaped upper material, innersole and outersole which are stitched together. However, difficulty has been experienced in providing a junction and at the same time be sufficiently strong to prevent separation of the upper from the sole of the shoe.

Devised Method

To cope with this problem and provide an improvement over the prior practice, Scala devised a method of manufacturing shoes of the foregoing type wherein, after the parts have been stitched as described above, another layer or lamination of the soling material is molded to the bottom of the outersole.

The mold for this purpose has a rim portion of such design that during the molding operation, the material of the added layer not only becomes securely bonded to the other part of the outersole on the shoe, but a portion of such material flows upwardly into sealing contact with the edge of the upper material and forms the equivalent of a welt.

Sealed Winterproof Joint

In other words, the completed shoe of Scala's invention has a very strong, sealed waterproof joint between the upper material and the sole. The added layer of soling material encloses and conceals the stitches and prevents them from parting.

It is claimed also that this improved shoe may be made at very low cost and that the novel joint, with its welt that may be molded in a large variety of shapes, adds to the attractiveness of the shoe and measurably increases its salesability.

The application was filed on April 21, 1958.

Tobyhanna Unit Plans Yule Contest

DUE TO increasing interest, Tobyhanna Community Council will for the third consecutive year sponsor another outdoor decoration-lighting contest for Christmas.

Anyone living in the village, including Wherry Housing, will be eligible, including stores and business establishments.

Judging will be Dec. 26 through Jan. 1.

Winners will be notified shortly thereafter and prizes will be awarded at the January meeting of the council.

The project is being financed by the 15-member organizations and individuals. Donations may be made to any official or individual of member organizations or to council officials, Mrs. P. D. Frankenfield, president; Harold Shannon, vice-president; Harry G. Fuqua, secretary-treasurer.

Donations in excess to the awards made will be set aside for a similar project next year. Awards are, First prize, $15; second, $10; third, $5.

It is hoped the contest will encourage residents to help make Tobyhanna one of the better decorated and lighted communities in the area.

Contest committee is composed of Robert Fairservice, Neil Palumbo.

Postmasters Express Appreciation

LOCAL POSTMASTERS Fred Rhodes and Norman B. Gregory yesterday expressed appreciation for public cooperation in the annual "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign.

Both urged use of air mail to speed distant packages and cards to friends and relatives. They said there is still time for local deliveries.

8 A.M. to 7 P.M.

Starting Monday, both offices will remain open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. to handle the anticipated rush of last-minute mail.

Woman's Car Hops Curb

STROUDSBURG Police reported an accident involving Mrs. Christine L. Nolland, 21, of Tobyhanna, yesterday at 2 p.m. in front of H. C. Archibald Co., Main St., Stroudsburg.

Patrolman Charles Allen investigating the accident said Mrs. Nolland told him that she was attempting to park the car and in so doing stepped on the gas instead of the break.

No License

The car jumped the curb, struck a parking meter and came to rest with the front bumper against a utility pole. The parking meter and stanchion were damaged.

Upon investigation it was learned that the woman was driving without a license. She was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Floyd Kellogg, Stroudsburg, on a charge of driving without an operators' license.

Mrs. Nolland pleaded guilty to the charge. She was released after paying $15 in fine and costs.

ANSWER TO LAST WEEK'S FACT

A Thick Glass Does Not Stand Hot Water Better Than A Thin One

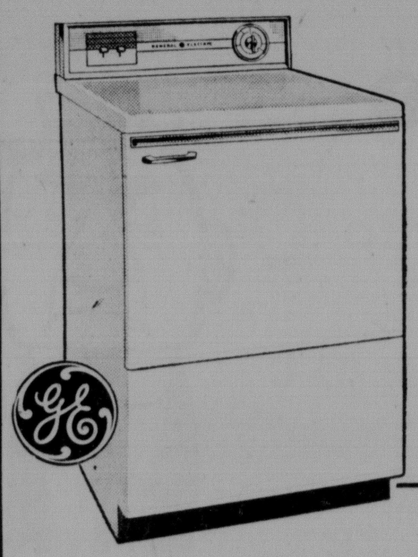

The reverse is true. Glass is a bad conductor of heat. In a thick glass tumbler the inner layers of the glass are heated before the outer. Heat causes expansion, and the outer layers are burst by the expansion of the inner. In a thin tumbler the whole thickness of the glass is heated almost at once, and all the parts expand at the same time. 1. "Popular Fallacies"—A. S. E. Ackermann. 2. Deer Season Calms Down Activities In Barrett Twp.

By PAT WILLIAMS

THE official opening of hunting season in Barrett Township meant the official closing of just about everything else. School closed the first day, and things seem pretty quiet on the home front.

Comments heard about the season struck a note of levity: "I'm not going hunting, I haven't lost any deer." Another remark overheard: "Give the deer guns so they can shoot back, then it would be sport."

To each his own opinion, but if anyone isn't hunting in Barrett this week, it's because he got his buck on the first day, or he is a conscientious objector.

All last week the temperature went up and up until on Monday morning it broke out in that Nimrod's malady called "Buck Fever," for which there is only one cure, bringing home the "bacon." Then, the patient sinks back into his daily routine for another year until this chronic disease overtakes him again on the first day of Deer Season.

OTHER NEWS ITEMS — Christmas is getting closer and closer (that's news?) and with its coming, the calendar becomes crowded with news and events. For the Second Sunday in Advent, the Canadensis Methodist Church held the Sacrament of Infant Baptism.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dann presented their little daughter Kristina Lee Dann, all dressed in a white nylon gown trimmed with ribbons and lace. Also present were four of the Dann children.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Spangenberg dressed little Timothy Lee in a blue suit for his Christening and his new little niece, Deborah Lynn Henneforth, daughter of Mr. Eugene and Mrs. Darlene Spangenberg Henneforth wore a white nylon dress with lace and ribbons.

Nativity Scene

The young people of the Canadensis Methodist Church have plans in the works for a live Nativity scene to be presented on the church lawn Christmas Eve at 7 and again at 10:30, just prior to the candlelight service. Yvonne Noel, Marie Spangenberg and Bill Kerz are working with the help of Julius Schraat to present this tableau. Better mark it on your list of things to see.

At the Mountainhome Methodist Church the Advent Wreath held two lighted candles, while the congregation partook of Communion. The Women's Society of Christian Service presented a family Christmas program Tuesday at 8 p.m., directed by Mrs. Maryann Miller. Assisting to produce the two plays is Mrs. Edna Reisenwitz. "Pearl of Great Price" and "Silver of the Second Best" both by Elsie D. Yale, will have the Mesdames Alice Price, Glen Shaller, Bernice Shepard, Phyllis Carter, Kathrine Rinehart, Katy Price, Bea Price, Carol Weidner and Dolores Brown in the cast. After the program, Christmas refreshments were served.

Home From Hospital

By the way, Robert Ziegler is home from the Flowers Hospital in New York where a few weeks ago they took him apart to see what makes him tick. After an overhaul, he is in good order. Another note, Mrs. Georgia Fisk is looking forward to her 81st birthday. She is on the long road of recovery from an illness this past summer. Barrett residents will be glad when she is up and around with her saucy wittticisms.

With such a full schedule, you get the feeling that for each step forward you slide back two. Only one remedy: when you can't lick 'em, join 'em—relax and enjoy the season.

"AND WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE SANTA . . . .?"—First Lt. Francis Kendall, of Tobyhanna Signal Depot Information Office staff, interviews children at Our Lady of Fatima Institute, Elmhurst. Hearings Set On Hospitals

HARRISBURG (AP)—Sol Turnoff, secretary of the Board of Pharmacy, said Thursday that despite pressure from hospitals the board will hold public hearings on proposed changes in regulations for hospital pharmacies.

Turnoff said hearings will open in March. He said the date and locations of the hearings will be decided at a three-day board meeting here next month.

Hospital officials want the hearings to be private, Turnoff said. But, he added:

"The board felt that in order to be fair we should hold public hearings as promised so that all sides can be heard properly."

The board proposed the new regulations last July 22. It set Aug. 31 for a hearing but that was postponed at the request of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, Turnoff said. The association said then it wanted more time to study the order which had been approved earlier by Atty. Gen. Anne X. Alpern.

The new regulations would prevent hospital pharmacies from dispensing substitute drugs without the prescribing physician's consent. They also would prevent private patients of hospital staff doctors from obtaining drugs at the hospital pharmacy.

MORA Plans Christmas Program

PLANS for the Christmas party to be held Dec. 14 with members of the Leisure Hour Club were discussed at Wednesday's meeting of the MORA Club at the YMCA.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton will speak on Christmas and the Stroud Union High School senior chorus will sing carols.

Martha Starner is chairman of the Leisure Hour Club committee which will place favors and decorations for the party.

Film Shown

A film on the Yellowstone National Park area was shown and Al Sommer, who recently returned from a visit to Milwaukee and Racine, Wis., and Chicago, reported on the development of organizations for elderly persons in these cities.

Dr. R. A. Barnard, club chaplain, conducted a memorial service for the late Rev. Arthur Henderson.

Birthdays of James S. Bunnell, Robert D. Bowlby, Thomas E. Kirch and Harry Halterman were observed.

Rossman Appointed Representative

Mr. Thomas Sands, president of Interstate Asphalt Company, Inc., located on Mine Road, north of Quakertown, Pa., announces the appointment of Guy C. Rossman, as company representative. Mr. Rossman was former Municipal Representative for Chester Valley Engineers, Inc., Paoli, Pa., and past District Township Engineer, Pennsylvania Department of Highways, Haverford, Pa. Mr. Rossman is active in local government affairs. He is presently chairman of Darby Borough Auditors, past committeeman, past Judge of Elections.

Mr. Rossman attends the Lutheran Church and serves as Treasurer of the Church School department.

The Rossman's have three children, two sons and a daughter. The eldest son, Terry, is now serving with the United States Air Force. Adv.

Dear Abby

Need I Say More?

Dear Abby: I went to a card reader who told me my lucky number is three. I know she is right because on the third of September I met Louie and I fell for him right away. This card reader said I would find happiness with the third man I fell in love with and she was right again because Louie is my third big love affair. He has been married twice before. (See, I am lucky three!)

I want to know if you think I am putting too much trust in the card reader. (She described Louie to a "T" and she never even saw him, and everything in my past happened just like she said it did.) My brother says I am plum nuts.

MAGGIE

Dear Maggie: When you have an expert like your brother to consult, why go to a card reader?

Dear Abby: A soft-hearted young miss wrote that she loved a young man but hesitated to marry him because his favorite sport was hunting, and she thought it was cruel. You advised, "If you feel that way about it, don't marry him."

Abby, the young lady and you (along with countless other uninformed people) should learn more about conservation and wild life. More wild birds and game starve to death, or are killed by weather or other wild animals than by hunters. By comparison, an arrow or bullet is a merciful death. I hope you are big enough to change your advice in print. Many sportsmen are waiting for this one.

A. R. K.

Dear A. R. K.: Thank you for your very enlightening letter. You've changed my mind, and now I am changing my advice. To the reluctant young miss: If you really love the guy, don't let a couple of dead ducks stand between you.

Dear Abby: My husband lies for his buddy and expects me to do the same. When this buddy's little pregnant wife calls here looking for her husband, I am supposed to say, "He WAS here but he just left." Then I'm supposed to call a number where this no-good chiseling bum is, and tell him his "mother" is looking for him.

My husband says we are helping to save a marriage, but I don't see it that way. My conscience bothers me. What would you do in my place?

TROUBLED CONSCIENCE

Dear Troubled: I'd refuse to be a party to the whole evil mess. Your husband would be a better friend to his buddy if he sat down and tried to straighten him out.

Conufidential to "Whom It May Concern": He who cannot forgive others destroys the bridge over which he himself one day must pass, for every one needs to be forgiven.

For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby care of The Daily Record.

Some Suffocated At Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Navy records show evidence that some victims of the Pearl Harbor attack died of suffocation after living for days trapped in the bomb- and torpedo-battered hulks on battleship row.

This indication has been reported several times since the Dec. 7, 1941 Japanese attack.

The Navy has now declassified two pages of a lengthy report on the salvage of the battleship West Virginia whose hulk yielded 66 bodies. This report stated that there were "evidences that some of the men had lived for considerable periods and finally succumbed due to lack of oxygen."

In the after engine room, salvage men who eventually cut their way into the blasted and sunken ship found several bodies lying on top of the steam pipes. The report noted that such an area was probably within the air bubble existing in that flooded space.

The story of three men, whose bodies were later recovered from a storeroom deep within the West Virginia was told in a 1957 book entitled, "Day of Infamy," by Walter Lord.

Ample Export Opportunities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller said yesterday there is ample opportunity to increase exports by $3 billion next year, which he said would come close to solving the gold-dollar problem.

"There is ample opportunity for this and it's up to the businessman to seize that opportunity," Mueller told a news conference following a meeting of the National Export Expansion Committee.

The commerce chief said that while an increase on that scale is quite possible, he would not predict that it would be achieved.

Dropping Coins In Kettle Brings Happiness To Many

PERHAPS you pass her every day, without really seeing her. She stands there on the Main Street near 6th Street, Stroudsburg, in the icy blasts of northern winds, smiling and murmuring "God Bless you" to passersby.

She's a Salvation Army Lassie, tending the traditional Christmas kettle . . . and we've grown accustomed to her now. But, just suppose, as you automatically drop some coins into the kettle, she should reach out and take your hand and, like Scrooge's ghosts of Christmas past and present, lead you into regions unfamiliar to you where you can see, first hand, what has been created by the coins you dropped into the kettle.

She takes you to the doorway of a large room at 78 South Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. Inside, a sea of children, their faces shining more brightly than the glittering Christmas tree, are receiving gifts from a man and woman in uniform.

Makes You Glad

The youngsters are poorly dressed and many need a haircut, but they are laughing and squealing with delight as only children can. Your throat tightens a little as you learn that for some, this is the very first Christmas Party they've ever known. You're glad you dropped coins into the kettle.

Outside in the street again, your ghost guide points to a group of ragged little boys, their faces pressed against the window of the room you just left. Not enough in the kettle to take care of all the children. How you wish you could walk past that kettle again!

You look in on lonely shutins for whom life has become good again because a visitor came, bearing gifts. It's so terribly important to be remembered at Christmastime!

Shows Gratitude

You watch a widowed mother and her children enjoying a modest Christmas observance. She looks old with weariness and worry, but for the moment her face reflects her children's happiness and her own gratitude for your help in making this a memorable day for her family.

And so the tour goes on, guided by your Salvation Army Lassie. We've grown accustomed to her now . . . but next time you see her tending the kettle, be sure you really see her and all of the people whose happy Christmas depends on the coins dropped into that kettle.

Jobless Declines

Musicians Local 577 Elects Officers, Board Members

BANGOR—Officers were elected by Bangor-Stroudsburg Local 577, American Federation of Musicians, during their recent meeting in union hall here.

Carl Rice was named president; Fred Sabatino, vice president; Sammy Canova, secretary-treasurer and Kenneth Brown, membership secretary. Voted to the executive board were William Diehl, Joseph F. Falcone, George Humphreys, Ernest Lohman, Nelo Maso and Roger Miller.

The home association, at a following session, also reorganized by electing Falcone president; Rice, vice president; Maso, secretary-treasurer; and Brown, Canova, Diehl, Lohman, Miller and Gerald Rice board members.

One application for membership was received, that of Joseph LeDonne, of Roseto.

It was noted that East Stroudsburg Lodge 319, BPO Elks, has been placed on the national unfair list.

Thank-you notes were acknowledged from Joseph P. Falcone, Anthony Trigiani and Al Trux, president of the Easton Local, and his wife. Also from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haney and from the Pen Argyl Halloween committee.

Maso presented the business agent report. Sabatino, project chairman of the recording and transcription fund, announced that Harry Fair and his orchestra will perform at the Bangor Baptist Church Friday, Dec. 15.

Other engagements providing free music under this fund are: Dec. 18 at the Liberty Fire Company, Bangor, and at the Pen Argyl community center; Dec. 20 at the Bangor Jacksonian Democratic Club; and Dec. 21 at the Salvation Army, Pen Argyl.

At the home association session it was disclosed the apartment has been painted and that bids for refacing the front of the building are being received.

Seek Villa Honors

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Veterans of Pancho Villa's revolutionary army have asked that a street be named after him in Mexico's capital and that he be honored by an equestrian statue.

Herter To Head Delegation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said yesterday that Secretary Christian A. Herter will head the U. S. delegation at a meeting of the North Atlantic Council in Paris, Dec. 16-18.

The other two top members of the group will be Robert B. Anderson, secretary of the treasury, and Thomas S. Gates Jr., secretary of defense. Such Cabinet attendance at the December NATO meeting has become traditional.

The council is scheduled to discuss measures—especially by West Germany — to help the United States cut dollar expenditures in its program of supporting NATO defense arrangements in Europe.

Students Boycott Cafeteria

CLARION, Pa. (AP) — About 700 students boycotted the Clarion State College student food center yesterday in protest against what they called "poor food and poor food service." Some 200 of the students picketed the center.

Later in the day, a school spokesman said student leaders had agreed to call off the boycott and picketing for at least a week and to discuss the food situation with school officials and operators of the food center.

Only 14 students ate breakfast at the center, and nobody reportedly showed up for lunch.

One spokesman for the students said the action followed petitions and protests against "poor food served and arbitrary suspension of dining hall employes of the A. L. Mathias Co. service."

The students also hanged John Zugay, manager of the food service, in effigy twice from a tree in front of the dining hall.

"We have tried time and again to call attention to the poor food and this student boycott action and picketing developed as a spontaneous move to get some action," Janet Budday, a senior said.

Brace Made For Dooley

HONG KONG (AP)—Dr. Thomas A. Dooley was released from a hospitald yesteray and said his immediate future depends upon "my iron maiden"—a brace now being made for him.

The American medical missionary entered a hospital last Wednesday with a back ailment. Doctors said X rays showed destruction of spinal bone structure, likely due to extension of cancer. A malignant tumor was removed from his chest in New York last year.

Dooley, 33, came here last week on a tour in behalf of Medico, the organization he helped to found to take medical care to remote parts of the world. He pioneered in such work in Northern Laos.

Chanukah, Jewish Festival, Starts At Sunset Dec. 13

THE EIGHT-DAY holiday of Chanukah, the Jewish festival that has symbolized the fight for religious freedom throughout the ages, will begin this year at sunset, Tuesday, December 13.

Chanukah, as recorded in the Book of the Maccabees, recites the struggle between Jewish freedom fighters and the Syrian King Antiochus in the Holy Land two millennia ago. The despotic ruler attempted to force paganism upon the Jews, who rose up to resist under the leadership of Judah Maccabaeus. In the year 165 B.C.E., Judah Maccabaeus and his band recaptured the Temple at Jerusalem, cleansed it, rededicated it, and proclaimed an eight-day "dedication of the altar." Jews have commemorated the holiday annually ever since.

Kindled Every Night

Candles are kindled every night of the holiday, beginning with one on the first night, two on the second, until finally eight candles blaze in the special Chanukah menorah or candelabrum. The holiday is celebrated with special services, prayers and hymns, in synagogues, homes and religious schools. Members of a family will exchange gifts and many children receive presents from their parents on each day of the holiday.

Chanukah is known as the "Festival of Lights" and also as the "Days of Dedication." Its universal theme—the fight for religious freedom — has echoes in human history, particularly in the civilization of the western world, and is as meaningful today as it was in the times of Judah Maccabaeus.

Brother Brings Life To Boy, 17

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—"Stephen just sat there for hours staring at Stewart, holding his hand and talking to him," the mother of the two boys related.

"He would say, 'Stewart, if you know who I am and that I'm here, squeeze my hand.' Finally he did, a hard squeeze, too. We couldn't get that response from him," said Mrs. Samuel Chadrow yesterday.

Stewart Chadrow, 17, of Philadelphia, had been in a coma at Lancaster General Hospital since Nov. 6 when he received a severe head injury in an auto accident.

His parents and doctors could get no response from him. He lay on his back, his body stiff and motionless, his right eye closed. His left was open, but unseeing—until Tuesday night.

Then Stephen, his 21-year-old brother, arrived on a 30-day emergency leave from the Navy. As he sat by his brother, Stewart's one open eye remained fixed on him.

"We knew the two boys were always so close that just having Stephen here would do some good," the mother said.

Star Lighting Ceremony At Kunkletown

KUNKLETOWN—The illuminated star which shines through the Christmas season each year will be lighted here Saturday night.

The informal ceremony will be accompanied by the playing of Christmas carols over the sound system located in the belfry of St. Matthew's Union Church.

On Hilltop

The star is located on a hilltop overlooking the community and is visible for several miles from the south, east and west.

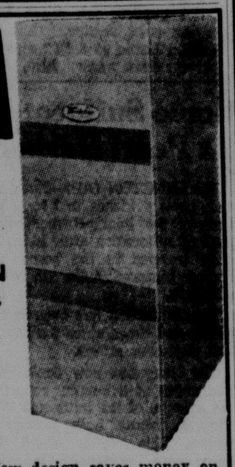

The lighted stars with strings of colored lights spanning the streets will be lighted Saturday night for the first.

Moravian Advent Stars Are Glaring

By PAT WILLIAMS
First in Series of Three Articles

ALONG with all the other Christmas decorations going up across the country, is the Moravian Advent Star. At the beginning of the season on the first Sunday in Advent, these illuminated stars are hung in the homes or the porches of Moravians.

They are made in Herrnhut, Germany (birthplace of the renowned Moravian Church), of heavy paper. These twenty-four point stars are a wonderful gift for a Do-It-Yourselfer. They come unassembled, with directions for assemblying in both German and English. The completed star is the highlight of decorations in many Christian homes during the holiday season.

The Moravian Advent Star is one of the traditional ways the Unitas Fratrum or Unity of Brethren celebrate Christmas. The soft glow of the Advent Star is a reminder of the First Christmas Star, of course, but it also reminds of the glory, might and greatness of God who made the Heavens.

It also recalls the prophecy of the "Star (that) shall come out of Jacob" as recorded in Numbers 24:17. But of the meanings ascribed to this symbol, the greatest is associating it with the Star that led the Wise Men to Bethlehem.

Special Litany

On the First Sunday in Advent, in Moravian Churches, the worshippers join in a special litany of praise. Overhead, the Advent Star is hung, and in many churches an Advent Wreath consisting of four candles is incorporated into the service, with a candle being lit for each of the successive Sundays. Another highlight of the service, is the singing of the joyful, antiphonal anthem, "Hosanna, Blessed Is He That Comes."

The Moravian Church goes back in time over five centuries to before the Reformation. It is the oldest organized Protestant Church. At that time, a group of followers of John Hus formed the Unitas Fratrum in what was then Bohemia. John Hus was martyred for his faith, but the circle of followers continued to grow.

Simple Basic Religion

Through five centuries, spanning wars and oceans, the Brotherhood has continued in the simple basic religion it is today. All members of other Protestant faiths are invited to join with the Moravian congregation for the celebration of the Lord's Supper, because the Brethren believe in "Brotherhood under Jesus Christ," regardless of the race or denomination from which a member has come.

The Moravian Church or Unitas Fratrum is steeped in a tradition of love and service. The basic simplicity and beauty of the faith is exemplified in the softly glowing Advent Star.

Order Goes Unfilled

By William A. Doyle

Q. Maybe you can explain this one. I ordered my broker to buy me 100 shares of a certain stock at $36 a share. At the time I placed my order, the stock had just traded for $36.50 a share on the New York Stock Exchange. Later that day, it traded at $36. Then it went up again, to $36.50. Its last trading price that day was down again to $36. The next day, it went higher and has been up ever since.

My broker never bought the stock for me. He said that there were other orders before mine. Just what did he mean by that?

A. Just what he said. Remember that stock prices are set by the age-old auction principle. The prices buyers bid and sellers ask change constantly. When a buyer and a seller agree on a price, a trade takes place.

Through your broker, you bid for the stock at a set price. Other potential buyers also bid for the stock at the same price.

When you bid for a stock at a fixed price, your brokerage firm places that bid with the specialist who "makes the market" in the particular stock on the floor of the stock exchange. The specialist writes your order down in his book.

But the other people who wanted to buy the stock at $36 a share placed their orders before you did. So, their orders were placed in the spicalist's book before you order. Their orders were naturally filled before yours.

If enough sellers of the stock had been willing to take $36 a share so that all the buy orders at the price placed before yours had been filled, your order would have been next in line—if more stock was offered by sellers at $36 a share.

Experiences such as yours prove that it is very often foolish to specify a fixed price when you want to buy or sell stock. Very often, things work out better in the long run if your give your broker an order to buy or sell "at market"—the best price he can get. Unless you're trying to be a hot-shot stock market operator, the minor difference in price shouldn't bother you.

K. In one column, you advised a man who plans to keep his stock certificates in a safe deposit box not to sign his stock certificates. I recently turned over several thousands of dollars' worth of stock to my broker as collateral on a margin account. He told me to sign the certificates. So, I did.

Did I have to sign the certificates?

A. Yes. This is an entirely different situation. You put up your stock as collateral on a loan. The certificates had to be signed so that they would be fully transferable and marketable.

Q. Please answer with a flat yes or no. Is the Securities and Exchange Commission supposed to protect investors from losing money in the stock market?

A. No. The SEC, as a regulatory body of the Federal government, has a good bit of power on regulations, supervision and such. But no government agency, either Federal or state, can hold out anything such as a guaranty that investors will never lose money.

What do you want—government price controls of stocks?

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Power Failure Hits Duquesne

DUQUESNE, Pa. (AP)—The City of Duquesne and several surrounding communities were without electricity for almost seven hours yesterday because of a power failure.

A spokesman for the Duquesne Light Co., which services the city of some 17,000, blamed it on a slight drizzle.

The rain caused a short that burned off the tops of eight utility poles down to the cross-bars, the spokesman said. The burned utility poles stopped the flow of electricity in the two main lines.

The lights in the area were out between 2 a. m. and 9 a. m. except for a short time in between when power was briefly restored.

Duquesne is located about 15 miles southeast of Pittsburgh.

LIVE BETTER . . . ELECTRICALLY

Family Fare

by Bobby Westbrook

Just Between Us — —

The cigar store and the pool hall, in my youth, were places where men hung out. Girls, walking by, were careful to look the other way. Ladies never went in—so it is only by hearsay that I judge that they were the male equivalent of the bridge club and sewing circle—a place where men gossiped and talked sports and spread rumors.

One by one, cigar stores and pool halls have disappeared and men have taken to tap rooms and boys to diners and soda fountains for their informal "Union League" clubs. But they have also discovered another refuge and a most surprising one.

At least I was surprised when I walked in one of the automatic laundries with my little bundle of dirty clothes to find that all the other customers were men. It's logical, I suppose. Wives are busy with Christmas shopping, cookie baking, supper preparations and baby tending.

Husbands, finished with their day's work and with the family car, are available, and, properly approached, maybe even willing. After all, it's quite peaceful there with the hum of the machinery, the hypnotic effect of floating laundry in the driers, a chance to read their papers without interruption except to change the laundry from washer to drier.

But just wait until the teenage boys discover there's even a juke box, and automatic dispensers for candy, soft drinks and coffee. It would be a switch if in the next few years, the most popular male hangout in town should prove to be the Laundromat.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beehler

Beehler-Knecht Wedding At Greek Catholic Church

Tobyhanna — Miss Barbara Knecht and William Beehler, both of Tobyhanna, were married on Nov. 5 at 11 a.m. at St. Michael's Greek Catholic Church, Dunmore. Rev. Robert Radvansky performed the ceremony, before an altar decorated with vases of white chrysanthemums and pompons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Charles Knecht, wore a ballerina length gown lace over satin. It was fashioned with rounded neckline, scalloped cap sleeves, and a blue satin cummerbund forming a large bow in back. Her crown of blue sequins held her brief nylon veil and she wore matching lace mitts, and a crystal necklace and earring set. Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses with white pompons.

Miss Patricia Panna, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a ballerina length gown of pink chiffon with a deeper shade of pink for the back panels, falling free to the hemline.

Merton Quick, Tobyhanna, was best man and the bride's brother, Robert Panna, was an usher.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Knecht, wore a beige dress with brown accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William Beehler, wore a satin dress of royal blue with white accessories. Both wore corsages of orchids.

A reception and dinner for 100 guests was held at the Coolbaugh Twp. firehall with dancing. Centerpiece for the bridal table was a four-tiered cake with a miniature bride and bridegroom, silver bells and streamers.

For their weekend wedding trip, Mrs. Beehler wore an aqua wool dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

The bride is a graduate of Coolbaugh High School and IMB, Scranton. Her husband was also graduated from Coolbaugh High School and is now attending the University of Scranton.

Eldred PTA Considers TB, Teeth

Kunkletown — The health of the children attending Eldred Twp. School was considered by the parents at the well-attended meeting of the Parent-Teachers Assn. this week.

Mrs. Anne Shafer, registered nurse, discussed the tuberculosis tests to be given the pupils of the first and seventh grades during the month of January by Dr. Elmo J. Lilli, the school physician.

Mrs. Clarence Smith, principal of the school, explained the arrangements which have been made for fluoridization treatments for the teeth of the children of the second grade. The treatments will be given only with the approval of the parents, and bus transportation has been arranged by the school board. Dr. Robert Arner, of Brodheadsville, school dentist, will administer the treatment.

At the business meeting members voted to donate a pennant to be displayed each month in the classroom whose parents attend the PTA meeting in the most numbers. A prize will be given at the end of the year to the class which has earned the pennant most often.

Since the next meeting would fall on Jan. 2, it was changed to Jan. 3.

Refreshments and a social hour followed the meeting.

PTA Party At Middle Smithfield

The Middle Smithfield Parent-Teachers Assn. will hold a Christmas party in conjunction with their meeting on Monday night at 7:45. Richard Primrose will preside at the brief business meeting.

A film, "Christmastide" will be shown and members will exchange 50-cent gifts. Chairmen for the party are the three vice presidents: Mrs. John Dennis, Mrs. Robert Setzer and Mrs. William Perry.

Portland WSCS To Serve At Nursing Home

Portland — Members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Portland Methodist Church will hold a service at the nursing home on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 18, at 3 for the shut-ins.

The WSCS held its own Christmas party on Tuesday night at the church with Mrs. John Ribble presiding. A special gift was presented to Mrs. Nick Ervey for her services.

Miss Ruth Williams conducted the Christmas program "The First Christmas" with Miss Donna Wildrick playing a piano solo; Patsy Ribble, singing two Christmas Carols and Miss Ella Jelinek giving a reading "A Song in the Air." Mrs. Ribble was accompanist and read "Christmas After-Glow." Prayers were made for missionaries.

Gifts were exchanged during the social hour.

Weather permitting the January meeting will be held the first Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Frank Gardner with Miss Jelinek assisting as hostess.

When you are spit-roasting poultry, tie wings and legs close to the bird so it is compact.

Koehler Heads White Birch Saddle Club

Howard Koehler was elected president of the White Birch Saddle Club at the meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Torrey of Stroudsburg RD 1. Other officers elected were: Clair Shick, vice president; Shirley Widdoss, treasurer; and Dot Koehler, secretary.

Elected to the board of directors in addition to the officers were Fred Ackerman, and Barbara Torrey.

Tentative plans were made for a club dance in the near future. The winter meetings will be held in the afternoon with the net meeting listed for Jan. 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Koehler at 2:30 p.m.

Committees for January and February include activities, Shirley Widdoss; birthday and sick list, Barbara Torrey and Doe Koehler.

Named to the auditing committee were Emma Shick, Judy Ackerman and Jim Brown.

Analomink PTA Supper On Tuesday

Analomink Parent-Teachers Assn. will hold its Christmas party, beginning with a covered dish supper at the school on Tuesday night. Members are asked to bring something for the supper and a gift to exchange, not to exceed 50 cents.

The attendance banner will be awarded and details of the Christmas program will be announced. It will be held at the school on Monday, Dec. 19, at 8 p.m.

Altar, Rosary To Give Purse To Charity

Plans for the Christmas meeting of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Matthew's Catholic Church were discussed at the board meeting held at the home of Mrs. Richard Dishman on Tuesday.

The meeting will be held Thursday, Dec. 15, in the school auditorium. Instead of exchanging gifts, a Christmas purse will be given to the Little Sisters of the Poor.

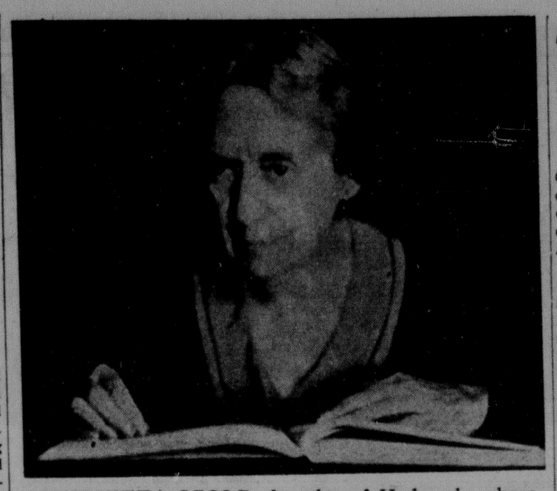

Mrs. Arthur Blewitt announced that Mrs. Arthur Henning is membership chairman for Stroudsburg.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. A. M. Hickey, Mrs. John Sweeney, Mrs. E. R. Bush and Mrs. Dishman to Mrs. George Rung, Mrs. Joseph Shukaitis, Mrs. Joseph Jacques, Mrs. Bernard Frantz, Mrs. William Hannas, Mrs. Edwin Millard, Mrs. Adolph Oppel, Mrs. T. T. HENRIETTA SZOLD, founder of Hadassah, whose centennial the local branch will honor at an Oneg Shabbat tonight.

Young People To Conduct Temple Service

An Oneg Shabbat in memory of the founder of Hadassah, Henrietta Szold will be sponsored by the local branch of Hadassah in conjunction with the services tonight at Temple Israel at 8.

Immediately preceding the service, Miss Marion Liebert will discuss the life of Henrietta Szold, who in her own lifetime was recognized as one of the 100 great American women of the century.

Having already initiated the first adult evening school in the United States to help Americanize European immigrants, Miss Szold organized, in 1912, Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, following a visit to Palestine.

The original chapter had 12 members; there are now more than 318,000 members. Her objectives were to perpetuate Jewishness and Zionism in America and to advance the health of the people of Palestine.

Hadassah has maintained interest in hospitals, and laid the groundwork for public health services in Israel.

At the age of 73, Miss Szold entered the field of child rescue and rehabilitation through Youth Aliyah.

In recognition of her work in this field, a number of young people of the local Temple will conduct the Sabbath service: Charles Cahn and Lee Pollan. Elaine Bernbaum will deliver the sermonette about "Youth Aliyah," and its present work in child welfare and education.

Hostesses for the Oneg Shabbat after the service will be Mrs. Morris Jacobson, Mrs. Seymour Pollan and Mrs. Sumar Schwartz.

Three Parties At St. Ann's

Barrett — Three Christmas parties have been planned at St. Ann's Altar and Rosary Society sponsored by its Altar and Rosary Society.

The party for all the women of the church will be held Monday night at 8:30; the Children's Christmas party will be held Sunday, Dec. 18 at 4 p.m.; and the party for teenagers will be held after instruction on Thursday, Dec. 22.

All of the parties will be held at the church.

Luther League Showing Film

A film, particularly timely for the Christmas season, will be presented by the Luther League of St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg on Dec. 11 at 7:30 in the Sunday school rooms. Friends will be welcome.

The film, "The Christmas Story, Holy Night" is the last of a series of films on the life of Christ.

Hostesses will be Judy Duncan, Kathy Mikels and Sue Haney.

MARC Aids Pre-School Retarded

The Monroe County Retarded Children's Assn. at their meeting on Wednesday night appointed a committee to work with parents of pre-school retarded children. Anyone interested in contacting the group may call HA 1-1429.

Reports were also given of the special Youth Program being held each week at the YMCA in which 20 young people are taking part. The older boys have been working in the craft shop making a cabinet to hold their supplies. Parents are planning a Christmas party for all the children enrolled in the program.

Election of Officers

Bartonsville—Election of officers for 1961 will be held at St. John's Lutheran Sunday School on Sunday morning, Dec. 11. All members are urged to be present to help select officers for the coming year.

The Wyckoff Shopper
"the friendly store"
A.B. Wyckoff
STROUDSBURG, PA.

As I begin my column each day, I type the date at the top. Not the date on which the column is written, but that on which it will appear. So, a few minutes ago I wrote "December 9th" . . . and it suddenly occurred to me that this particular day of writing is Pearl Harbor Day, and I had completely overlooked it until now. Strange how quickly one forgets! —but then it would be almost impossible to remember all the tragic dates of history, wouldn't it? Nevertheless, in a fleeting moment of remembrance, I was carried back nineteen years to an apartment in Tenafly, N. J. and a ringing telephone that summoned me from the shower on a Sunday afternoon. There was something ominous about that ring. Then as I lifted the receiver my husband shouted, "The Japanese have bombed Pearl Harbor . . ." At the moment it seemed like the end of the world . . . and in a way it was, for the hopes and dreams of thousands of people. Even now a chill comes over me, and I thank God that today most of us have nothing more on our minds than Santa Claus . . . jingle bells . . . and the thoughts of a white Christmas.

* * *

A BIT OF TRUMPETING . . .

Christmas is the time for heralds. Centuries ago it was the time when the fulfillment of the angel's pronouncement to Mary came to pass; the time when the shepherds on the hills above Bethlehem fell in awe before the angels' message. Maybe I should take time out today to do a bit of trumpeting in behalf of some of my colleagues who are so important to our store, and so rarely mentioned in print.

First of all, I should like to blow a glorious, golden note in behalf of the several women in our alteration room. Not only do they pin, tuck, pleat, and hem so that all of our customers will look glorious in the new dresses and sportswear they purchase at Wyckoff's, but they act as wardrobe mistresses for the Wyckoff employees who find it necessary from time to time to seek emergency aid. At least once a month, I manage somehow to lose a button, split a seam, or spill something upon myself, requiring the immediate attention of one of the ladies. Always they are unfailingly kind, even though they are usually as busy as beavers. Fact is, just a few minutes ago I looked down over me and saw that the shading in my dress was actually a couple of spots the cleaner had missed. So off I went to the sewing room, to borrow some cleaning fluid. This time I did the rubbing and Hannah Bronner did the advising —but had I needed more vigorous help she'd have gladly given it. Our Wyckoff alteration gals are a genial, happy trio, and we salute them! Meet them when you come into our fashion departments for your holiday apparel.

* * *

I would like also to sound a clarion call (I'm not exactly sure what a clarion call is, and I'm too lazy to look it up, but it sounds good!) in behalf of our girls of the shopping card-gift wrap center. There is a busy place most of the time, and business always decends upon them in a whirlwind swoop. But if the girls are harried and hurried, they are still pleasant of manner, and I think of them as little Christmas angels, spreading their wrappings of holly and their ribbons of red, silver, and gold, over a hectic world. In addition to our free wrap, Wyckoff's offers a wide variety of unusual and rather elaborate gift wraps. Take advantage of this service to simplify your Christmas preparations.

* * *

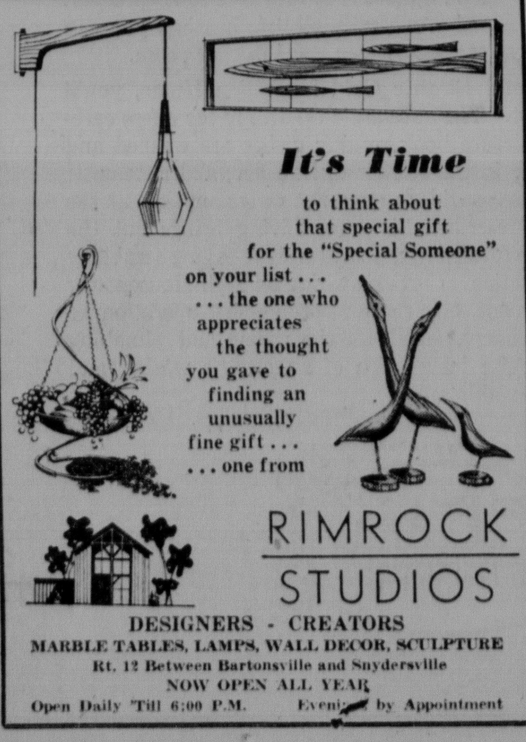

Another long blast on my trumpet goes to the girls in the receiving room who unpack, inspect, and ticket all the thousands of items that crowd our Wyckoff counters and stock rooms. Their job is fun in a way, because they see all the new things first. But then they must also ticket thousands of packages of needles, tubes of shaving cream and bottles of deodorant . . . and this could be pretty dull. One thing is certain, they are a very important part of Wyckoff efficiency, particularly in a rushed season when many new, inexperienced salespeople are unaware of prices.

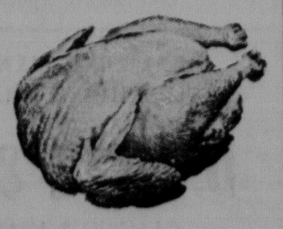

* * *

And for my final note of the day, I'd like to herald the splendid work of our display department. Fran Meredith and Betty Frantz do a remarkable job, I think, of showing you in our windows and on our landings, the wide range of choice merchandise offered on the crowded racks of Wyckoff's. Come to think of it, our store wouldn't be nearly so wonderful if it weren't for everyone of the tremendously capable, nice, pleasant people who are rarely seen and rarely applauded.

TV Highlights

ABC will pre-empt its usual "Flight of the Week" on Christmas Eve to present "Sports Highlights of 1960," a 30-minute review of the top sports events of the year, including highlights of the 1960 summer and winter Olympics, the exciting 7th and deciding game of the World Series that brought the championship to Pittsburgh, the U. S. Open and golf tournaments and the men's and women's tennis finals of the Nationals. Also included will be pro and college basketball, pro and college football and horse racing.

Art James will star as host of the new audience-participation show, "Say When," in which contestants will pick their own prizes, debuting as a Monday-through-Friday series on NBC Monday, Jan. 2, at 10 a.m., replacing "Dough Re Mi" . . . "Years of Crisis," the traditional report by CBS News correspondents called home from posts around the world at year's end, will be broadcast Thursday, Dec. 29, at 10 p.m., with Edward R. Murrow as moderator.

Skip Homeier stars with Claude Akins on the "Dan Raven" mystery series at 7:30 tonight on ch. 3 and 4, when a former combat team decides to use military tactics to rob a Sunset Strip nightclub . . . Viewers are taken on a tour of modern Japan when John Gunther presents the first of two consecutive shows about Japan on the "High Road" series at 8 p.m. on ch. 11.

Edward Buchanan guest stars on "Route 66" at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10 as an aging prospector who finally strikes it rich with a beryllium find in the Utah desert, then seeks aid from Tod and Buz (Martin Milner and George Maharis) when a ruthless mine owner tries to steal his claim.

Roger Smith stars with Edward Byrnes on "77 Sunset Strip" at 9 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7, and when a woman hires Jeff Spencer to find her husband who has disappeared, Jeff and Kookie find that the man has several wives.

Dr. Frank C. Baxter returns as host of the "Science Series" at 9 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4, when the secrets of heredity are told in "The Thread of Life" . . . Brian Aherne stars on "The Twilight Zone" at 10 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10 as a successful Broadway actor who longs to go back 30 years in his life.

Richard Denning stars on the "Michael Shayne" detective series at 10 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4, and sees Voltane the Magician fatally shot while performing at a charity event . . . Betty White will be Jack Paar's special guest at 11:15 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4, when the program will be 'live' and in color, instead of the usual Friday night "Best of Paar" taped show.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FRIDAY, DEC. 9, 1960

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Leave no stone unturned in your honest attempt to bring warring factions together, to discuss means by which all will be served to true advantage, thus all can improve their lot.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—If you have promised, keep your word, but never hold to a wrong decision when shown its error. We are the bigger for recognizing mistakes, aiming pronto to eradicate them.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Difficulties may arise when trying to get a job done well, so the word co-operation FITS, every day, and on some more than others. Today needs your deft mind and hand.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Keep appointments, and don't make so many you will tire; have patience with those who do not see eye-to-eye with you (you could be partially wrong!); support truths.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Preparedness, putting facts before fancies, calling in wise heads for advice will keep you in driver's seat safely, and longer, where you can do great good. Be not dismayed.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—You can be means of new vigor, enthusiasm for associates, or pull them down with pessimistic outlook. The first aids everyone, makes all feel better, do better; who needs the latter?

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Manifest your innate dignity and strength of purpose, others look to you for inner courage, which emanates from you normally. Changeable-sort day unless you stabilize it.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Aspects indicate same sort day as for Leo, Sagittarius. Retreat to regroup forces, strategy, but never because you feel beaten down. We have INDIVIDUALITY; use it ably.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Middle-type period. Some better moments. Hindrances can be overcome quicker through sympathetic, humanitarian manner. With your tact this can be a saving day.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Don't spend that extra effort on one good thing, then cancel out another by going along with someone whose purpose is antagonism, bitterness, regrets. Keep spirits AND endeavor high.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Organize your thoughts and actions carefully, then proceed with rugged determination, optimism. Do not let minor items clutter desk or head. Use your versatility.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Neptune going to new strong favorable aspect, advances causes of individual rights and fair program; you can do more than you realize to gain fresh footholds in many areas.

YOU BORN TODAY have a multitude of top-grade qualities and characteristics for solid, admirable success, as for happiness and the knowledge that you can assist others to have a happier life. You thrive under responsibility, can issue short-to-the-point suggestions, carry out measures that increase prestige, true advancement for community and peoples. You may be too quick at times but are never dull; can be impatient with slower-thinking folks, so aim for restraint here. But never give up your forward-looking, strong-reform attitude. Slow down for rest occasionally.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

CLOTHING for Lutheran World Relief should be taken to St. John's Lutheran Church or parish house no later than Dec. 10. After that date it will be taken to the Easton warehouse where it will be readied for shipment overseas.

Mrs. Thomas G. Hawkes and Mrs. Ethel O'Dea, of Bristol, spent the weekend at Hawkeshill.

Samuel Dunbar has been confined to his home due to illness.

The Sacrament of Holy Communion was administered to a large number of members and visitors at St. John's Lutheran Church on the second Sunday in Advent. Pastor Robert Zuch officiated. Acolyte for the service was Wayne Bond. Ushers were Joseph Dunbar and Robert Field.

Nazareth's Marsh Named To AP All-State Team

By Fred Walters

HARRISBURG (AP) — A first unit with speed, brains, size and versatility leads a squad of 39 players named Thursday to the 1960 Associated Press All-State Scholatic Football Team in a poll of sportswriters and sportscasters throughout the state.

Leading vote-getters in the backfield were Lock Haven's Hal (Bud) Yost and West Scranton's Cosmo Iacavazzi while Berwick end Kirk Kressler led the linemen.

Because of the closeness of the voting for certain positions, 12 men—including a fifth back — were named to each of the first two units and 15 to the third unit.

The champions of the state's two biggest conferences, Berwick in the East Penn and Beaver Falls of the WPIAL-AA, each placed two men on the first unit as did Redstone, a strong WPIAL-AA team which won seven, lost one and ended Johnstown's long winning string with a mid-season tie.

All Seniors

All the first unit choices are seniors.

The line averages 202 pounds from tackle-to-tackle and 198 from end-to-end; the backfield averages 179 pounds.

Kressler, 6-foot-2, 179-pounder called by his coach one of the fastest ends in his region, was joined at the end position by Tom Krzemienski, 6-foot-1½, 195-pounder for Beaver Falls who was the only unanimous choice on the Midwest Athletic Conference team in the WPIAL.

Chosen at tackle were 210-pounder Rich Arrington of Erie East, an even 6 feet, who was chosen at guard on last year's third unit, and Ray Rissmiller of Easton, biggest man on the team at 218 pounds and 6-foot-4. Rissmiller was second team tackle last year. He and Arrington were the only members from last year's squad on this year's team.

Redstone's Don Croftcheck, 6-feet-2, 210 pounds, the bulwark of a line that yielded an average of less than 10 points a game, was one guard choice, and Paul Beals, 5-foot-10, 170 pounder from Franklin, was the other.

Beals also distinguished himself in the classroom by leading his class of 250, scholastically. He also is rated an accomplished pianist and violinist.

At center is Joe Demelfi of Berwick, 4 feet 11, 204 pounds. His coach says he is an excellent diagnostician of plays on defense.

Yost gained 1,236 yards and scored 15 touchdowns in leading Lock Haven to an all-winning season (10-0). He is 6 feet 1, weighs 185 pounds.

Bread And Butter

Iacavazzi was, in his coach's words, "the bread and butter man" for a West Scranton team which won more games this past season-(11)-than any team in the state. In the East Penn playoff game last Saturday, Berwick built its victory around defenses geared to contain this 5-foot-11, 185-pound powerful running back.

Nazareth's Jeff Marsh, at 5-feet 8 and 160 pounds, is the smallest man on the team. He averaged over 7 yards a carry during the regular season. Berwick can attest to his ability: In Nazareth's season opening upset of the Bulldogs, Marsh scored all four of his teams touchdowns in a 26'-20 victory.

Chosen at quarterback were Fred Mazurek of Redstone and Joe Namath of Beaver Falls. They were only one point apart—Mazurek, 182; Namath, 181—in the balloting.

Mazurek, 5 feet 11, 195, pounds, is one of the most sought-after players in the state by the colleges. The story goes that his high school principal keeps his classroom record on his desk for handy reference, there have been so many inquiries. Mazurek, incidentally, is a straight "A" student.

Namath was a great sleight-of-hand artist in handling the football and as a passer threw for 12 touchdowns as Beaver Falls ran up an unbeaten-untied log in nine games.

Second Team

The second team choices were: Frank Gallagher, Chester St. James, and Mike Price, Lewistown, ends; Bob Sorochak, Kingston, and George Bohn, chief Logan, tackles; George Garrett, Pottsville, and Joe DeAntona West Scranton, guards; Gary Cryder, Lock Haven, center; Bill Gordon, DuBois; Jim Klein, Wyomissing; Jack Tinnick, Cambria Heights; Roy Brinkley, Kane, and Ken Stoudt, Lancaster, backs.

Gordon, Sorochak and Garrett were the leading vote-getters.

On the third team are: Sam Miller, DuBois; Dale Mitchell, Corry; Bill Malinchak, Monessen, and Willie Alford, Farrell, ends; Frank Metzger, Lancaster, and Ron Baughman, Franklin, tackles; Ron Bonomo, Wilkes-Barre GAR, and Nick Yewcic, Conemaugh, guards; Tom Kostelnik, Brownsville, center, and Jim Komara, Conneaut Valley; Fred Biletnikoff, Erie Tech; Frank Lankewicz, Butler; Nate Duckett, Central Bucks; Bernie Dallas, Germantown Academy, and Jack Stricker, Neshaminy, backs.

Metzger, in the line, and Komara, among the backs, were the leading choices.

Leading Honorable Mention:

Ends— Joe Novogratz, Northampton; Jim Tyson, Sayre; Ron Seder, Warren; John Spires, Arnold; Bob Grunden, West Deer.

Tackles — Ben Regoli, New Kensington; Dick Wing, Washington Twp.; Bob Shevlin, West Scranton; Matt Arbutina, Aliquippa; John Dorrough, Hazleton; Al Jodzio, Shamokin; Joe Ferrari, Coal Twp.; John Knee, Johnstown; James McBreen, Clifton Heights. Guards—Ellery Seitz, Bellefonte; Ken Minnig, West Hazleton; Ron Ham, Johnstown Catholic; Hal Lininger, Lock Haven; Marvin Mitchell, Philadelphia Northeast; John Milliren, Dubois; Dave Hackett, Pine-Richland. Centers —Marty Mariono, Old Forge; Tom Magdasy, Bethlehem; Bill Galella, West Scranton; Vince Witherup, Franklin; Frank Harshelewski, Plum Twp. Backs — Joe Debias, West Hazleton; Pete Duranko, Johnstown Catholic; George Solomon, Sayre; Nick Girardi, Arnold; Jack Terry, Allentown Allen; Jim Conley, Springdale; Jim McNeal, Sheffield; Joe Creazzo, Easton; Dave Namey, Washington Twp.; Russ Hendricks, Philadelphia Bonner; Tom Black, Washington Twp.; Bill Beck, Portage; Don Cogan, Conestoga.

Repeat Of Last Year's Finale

ESSC Shades Kings 82-80; Russ Hopewell Scores 30

EAST Stroudsburg State College and Kings took up where they left off last year, with East Stroudsburg squeezing out an 82-80 win at Normal Hill.

In last year's final game at East Stroudsburg, the Warriors won 80-79 in the closing seconds. It was the same way last night.

The Warriors held an 11 point lead midway through the final half but a Kings' full court press changed the picture completely in the next eight and a half minutes.

With only a minute and a half left in the game, Kings held a 78-70 lead.

Brilliant Performance

But Russ Hopewell, who turned in one of his most brilliant performances in his three-year varsity career floated in a jump shot for 30-feet out, to put East Stroudsburg back in front 79-78.

Hopewell scored 30 points and collected 18 rebounds. Every time the Warriors needed a basket, Hopewell came through. At one stretch, the 6-0 junior hit on six straight jump shots.

Hopewell collected 12 of his points in the first half, one less than teammate Scotty Weaver produced by the intermission break.

Weaver, who turned in his best game as a Warrior, scored consistently on drive shots underneath the basket.

Only Lead

Kings' brief lead late in the game was the only time it led in the second half. The Kingsmen held 4-1 and 4-3 leads early in the game.

A capacity crowd of some 1,400 fans never stopped screaming as the Warriors built up one lead after another only to have Kings whittle them down.

IT WAS the third win in as many outings for the Warriors, who now have a five game win streak, including two holdover games from last season.

Co-captain Tony Salerno and John Polanchak played brilliant floor games and added 26 points to the victory pot. Polanchak collected 15 points and Salerno 11.

Kwak Checked

Its in their passing and ball handling kept the Warriors alive. The pair also helped limit All-East Mike Kwak to 20 points. Kwak collected only seven goals from the floor and most of them were from the outside.

Weaver had the primary responsibility for stopping Kwak but he got "sagging" help from Salerno and Polanchak. Kwak had only nine points in the first half.

It was Polanchak's two foul shots and a third by Joe Habakus, who entered the game when Salerno fouled out with 1:15 left, that sealed the win.

Polanchak connected on both ends of a one-and-one situation. Both shots dangling on the rim before dropping in. The two points made it 81-78 East Stroudsburg.

Kwak followed with a lay-up to cut the lead to one point with three seconds left.

Habakus Fouled

Habakus was fouled in his back court and he stepped to the foul line for a one-and-one with three seconds left.

He hit the first but missed the second. The game ended with both teams battling for the ball under the Warrior goal.

It was not Kwak but Paul Nicelli and Bob Nugent that kept Kings in the game. Nicelli hit for 21 points before fouling out with three minutes left and Nugent, a 6-3 sophomore from Binghampton, N.Y., added 19.

The Warriors are at Trenton Saturday afternoon and go to Scranton University Wednesday night.

Barnum Putts His Way To 65 In Coral Gables Open

By WHITNEY MARTIN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Barnum, a husky in his late 40s from Grand Rapids, Mich., literally putted his way to a 6-under-par 65 and a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $20,000 Coral Gables Open golf tournament Thursday.

The big fellow went out in 32 and came back in 33 over the 6,173-yard Biltmore course, sinking putts of from 3 to 25 feet for birdies on seven greens and going over par only on the 11th hole.

Tied at 66 were Marty Furgol of Coghill, Ill., and former PGA champion Jim Turnesa of Rye, N.Y., with a quartet of sharpshooters deadlocked at 67. They are Tom Garrity of Kansas City, Mo.; Don Massingale of Jacksboro, Tex.; Gardner Dickinson Jr. of Palm Beach, Fla., and Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla.

Palmer Has 68

Eight more were tied at 68. The bracket included the ever-dangerous Sam Snead of Boca Raton, Fla., and the pretournament favorite, Arnold Palmer.

Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., winner of the West Palm Beach Open last Sunday who has been on a hot streak in his last four tournaments, produced no better than a par 71.

He had plenty of company in that bracket, including George Bayer, from South Pasadena, Calif., and former National Open champion Tommy Bolt of Crystal River.

The second round of the 72-hole event will be played Friday with the field cut to the low 60 and ties for the final two rounds.

LA Entry Picks Haney

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fred Haney, who spent most of his many years in baseball as a player and field manager, Thursday was named general manager of the Los Angeles Angels of the American League.

President Bob Reynolds made the announcement at a luncheon some 24 hours after Los Angeles was granted its franchise in the junior circuit.

Haney listed several possibilities as the field manager, including Casey Stengel, Leo Durocher, Bob Elliott and Bill Rigney.

"Insurance" Money Paid Norris Tells Probers

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—James D. Norris testified Thursday his International Boxing Clubs paid money to the woman who became Mrs. Frankie Carbo and to old-time manager Jack Kearns so his fight cards wouldn't be upset by cantankerous managers.

"We felt it necessary to employ effective goodwill representatives to help us," Norris said in a statement read behind closed doors to the Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee investigating underworld influence in pro boxing.

Norris's testimony on this point in general paralleled that of Truman Gibson, who was president of the clubs in Chicago and New York. The boxing clubs, once giants in fight promotion, were disbanded after the Supreme Court ruled they were monopolistic.

Norris was questioned in secret after it was determined his appearance at a public hearing might endanger his health. He has suffered two heart attacks.

Names Mentioned

Norris' statement, made public outside the hearing room, went into relationships with Carbo, Mrs. Carbo, Kearns, racketeer Frank (Blinky) Palermo, former bookie Max Courtney and Bill Rosensohn, who had a rough time in promoting the first fight between heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson.

The subcommittee has received testimony linking Norris with Carbo, reputedly the underworld czar of boxing. Carbo now is serving a prison term for illegal undercover fight operations.

Prior of Norris' appearance, Carmen Basilio's ex-managers — John DeJohn and Joseph Netro—testified the middleweight began getting into championship caliber fights after they started paying Gabe Genovese, pal of Carbo.

Norris said he had been introduced to Carbo by the late promoter Mike Jacobs in New York.

TV Obligations

Norris said the IBC had commitments with two television networks for boxing shows two nights a week.

But from the start, he said, he encountered trouble from New York boxing managers who he said banded together "with the result that we were harassed in many respects."

The subcommittee previously heard that Kearns received at least $137,000 and Viola Masters between $40,000 and $45,000 from subsidiaries of Norris' prizefight enterprises. Viola Masters married Carbo in 1956.

EAGLE BOOTER—Bobby Walston, 32-year-old end and field goal kicker for the Philadelphia Eagles, is shown at Philadelphia workout. Walston kicked the field goal which gave the Eagles a 31-29 win over Cleveland on Oct. 23, a game which Coach Buck Shaw says was the turning point of the season for the Eagles who went on to win the division title.

Pair Win Table Tennis Gold Medal

RALPH COSTANZO, of Pocono Summit and Pat Flaherty, of Tobyhanna, have won gold medals in the men's and women's singles championships respectively in Harvard Table Tennis Tournament at Coolbaugh Twp. School.

Both winners drove through five preliminary matches before defeating their respective runners-up in final. Costanzo defeated Larry Stiff for the championship, while Miss Flaherty, women's winner, defeated Saundra Keiper before 385 spectators.

Neil F. Polumbo, local tournament director, will present the Harvard Table Tennis Tournament Gold Medals and inscribed Tournament Award Certificates to both winners at a special award presentation ceremony.

Cardinals Sign Dayton Tackle

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals Thursday signed a University of Dayton tackle who was their future choice in the 14th round of the last National Football League draft meeting.

He is Robert de Marco, 22, a native of Wood-Ridge, N. J.

Whitehead, Jones Named Top Coaches

STROUD UNION High graduate Ben Jones, has been picked as the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference football "Coach of Year."

Jones' Berwick team won the conference title, defeating West Scranton last Saturday.

And former Stroud Union football coach John Whitehead has received a similar award for his coaching effort at Middletown, N. Y.

HOP IN. TAKE A SPIN. TRY A STEEP HILL. TRY A STEEPER ONE. PULL SOMETHING BIG. PUSH SOMETHING BIGGER. YOU'VE GOT A LOT OF MACHINE UNDER YOU AND YOU'LL BE PROUD. TAKE ON A TOYOTA LANDCRUISER AND SEE BEFORE THE WEEK IS OUT:

YOU WANT POWER?
You get it. 135 H.P. LANDCRUISER gives you almost twice the muscle of its number-one competitor. Rely on its high torque 6 cylinder engine to get you there sooner—on or off the road.

YOU WANT "GO"?
The Toyota LANDCRUISER's 4-speed transmission, with 5.41:1 low gear ratio gives you more p-u-l-l-i-n-g power than any other same-size vehicle. Climbs steepest hills. No strain.

YOU WANT BRAWN?
LANDCRUISER's got it. Rock-solid, steel girder frame. Heavy-duty shock absorbers and springs soak up bounces. Rocky trails become your highways.

YOU WANT FACTS?

Woods, Beliveau Score Pins

Warrior Wrestlers Hand Lincoln U. 22-8 Beating

EAST Stroudsburg State College won a 22-8 wrestling decision from Lincoln University yesterday at Normal Hill but the match was much closer than the score shows.

And the Warriors will be without their 137-pound entry Don Schleicher, for possibly the rest of the season.

Schleicher dislocated his elbow in his match with Tom Bragg and had to default.

The injury came in the second period of the bout with the score tied 2-2.

Tie Match

The elbow snapped loose as Schleicher was trying to escape a Bragg hold near the edge of the mat.

The default, followed by an upset win by Lincoln's Bill Reese over Charlie Dentith, earned Lincoln an 8-8 tie after four events.

East Stroudsburg's Ken Nickischer decisioned John Haynes 2-0 in the 123 pound opener and Stan Woods pinned Les Butler at 5:58 in the 130 pound affair.

Woods held an 8-4 edge when he shot the pin. Woods built his edge on four takedowns but each time Butler countered with an escape.

The two straight Warriors wins and an 8-0 lead were erased by Lincoln's back-to-back victories.

Dentith, who won the State College title in 1955 but entered the Navy the following year, was behind from the opening minute. Dentith had a chance for a pin late in the match but time elapsed and Reese won 9-5.

Four Straight

After that it was strictly East Stroudsburg but several of the matches were close.

Hugh Lawrence scored a 3-1 decision over Ran Laurence and Pat Rock scored three near pins to take a 12-2 verdict from Bill Judson in the 167 bout.

John Topfer won another squeaker for the Warriors. He picked up a reversal soon after the opening of the second period and made it stand up for a 2-0 win over John Tull in the 177 pound battle.

Freshman Jan Beliveau, trailing 2-0 at the start of the second perio, turned a reversal into a quick pin. Beliveau, who won 21 straight New Jersey high school matches last year, used a body press to pin heavyweight Tom Edwards at the 4:43 mark.

RESULTS

123 Ken Nickischer (ESSC) dec. John Haynes, 2-0
130 Stan Woods (ESSC) pinned Les Butler 5:58, reverse nelson, body ride
137 Tom Gragg (L) won by default from Don Echleicher (injury)
147 Bill Reese (L) dec. Charlie Dentith 9-5
1557 Hugh Lawrence (ESSC) def. Ran Laurence, 3-1
167 Pat Rock dec. Bill Judson 12-2
177 John Topfer (ESSC) dec. John Tull 2-0
Hvy. Jan Beliveau (ESSC) pinned Tow Edwards 4:43 body press.

Thompson Feels He Has 2 Fights On Saturday Night

NEW YORK (AP) — "I have two fights to fight Saturday night," said Argentina's Federico Thompson Thursday about his 15-round title bout with world welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba at Madison Square Garden.

"One's against Paret and the other is against you fellows who call me a lazy fighter," said Thompson. "That lazy part is unfair. A good boxer never wastes punches. He tries to make every one count."

The "lazy" tag was applied to Thompson hereabouts after he fought a 12-round draw with the busy little Cuban in his New York debut last March 25. Everyone agreed the 33-year-old Argentine was a good fighter but most called him a "good, lazy fighter."

No Fault

"I have no fault to find with that draw decision," said Thompson, "but I've got to do something about the lazy part. I've got to offset all this talk. This time I'll carry the fight to him. After all, he's got the title so I have to go get it if I'm going to win.

"I plan to be the attacker and the counter-puncher. I don't usually fight that way but I've got to stop them from calling me lazy."

Both Thompson and Paret wound up their training Thursday for the nationally televised (ABC) bout.

Pitt vs. Colgate In Hoop Event

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Defending champion Pitt will play Colgate and Duquesne will oppose Tennessee in the opening games of this year's basketball Steel Bowl, officials announced this week.

The 10th annual event will be played Dec. 16 and 17 at the Pitt Field House.

In last year's bowl, Pitt upset St. John's in the opener and then walloped neighboring Duquesne 75-44 for the title. The Panthers and Dukes have met in the tourney final six of the past seven seasons.

Law's Ankle Will Be Ready

PITTSBURGH)ap) — Vernon Law's injured right ankle should be 100 per cent sound by spring training, Dr. Joseph Finegold, the Pittsburgh Pirates' team physician, said Thursday.

Law, the Pirates' ace right-hander, arrived in town Wednesday and was examined by Dr. Finegold and Dr. Alfred Ferguson of the University of Pittsburgh.

Law injured the ankle just before the start of the World Series.

John Sellers, who rode Carry Back and T.V. Lark to numerous stakes victories in 1960, will ride at the Florida tracks this winter. He lives in Miami, Fla.

Coaches From 8 Schools On All-Stars

COACHES from eight area high schools will make up the Pocono All-Star Coaches team that meets the Harlem Komedy Kids in a basketball game at East Stroudsburg State College Wednesday at 8:30.

Stroud Union will have four players on the squad, Bob Wert, Walt Bjorn, Wilmont Smith and Dick Merring. Doug Schoonover will represent East Stroudsburg. The other coaches are Dale Baker, Bangor; Al Shollenberger, Barrett; Bill Frear, Pleasant Valley; John Bush, Tobyhanna; Harry Werkheiser, Pocono Twp. and John Melham, Pius X.

The game is being sponsored by Pocono Sports Promotion. Tickets are available from members of the East Stroudsburg State College Varsity "S" Club.

Almost all of the coaches have had college experience, Wert, a standout performer at Catasauqua High School and Elizabethtown High School, has held a double figure scoring average in local recreation league since he began coaching.

Against the Harlem Magicians, Wert hit for 19 points, second to only Marques Haynes of the Magicians, Wert connected for four long set shots, that brought applause from even Haynes.

Melham scored 39 points in a faculty-varsity game at Pius Thursday.

The high scorer in the Eastern Professional League, Hal (King) Lear, heads the Komedy Kids. Lear, who plays for Easton, has averaged 42.6 points a game. He has averaged about 45 points a game for the Komedy Kids.

And another Kid, Ray (Chink) Scott, is the eighth highest scorer in the Eastern League. Scott, who plays with Allentown, has a 28.7 average.

Jordan Loses Attempt To Block Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Former champion Don Jordan Wednesday lost in his last attempt to block the Benny (Kid) Paret-Federico Thompson welterweight title fight when the U.S. Court of Appeals upheld a lower court decision which denied his request for an injunction against the Cuban Kid.

The decision leaves Paret free to depend the title against Thompson, a relative newcomer from the Argentine, at Madison Square Garden Saturday night. It will be Paret's first defense since winning the crown from Jordan last May.

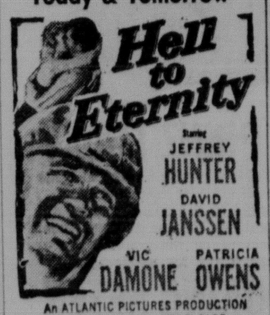

Jordan, from Los Angeles, had contended the contract for that Last Vegas fight called for a rematch and he sought to keep Paret from defending against anyone else first.
